Vietnam Peace Talks In Offing, Brown Hints

Marchand Quebec Leader

Caucus Wants Post Retained

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today named Manpower Minister Jean Marchand the Liberal party's Quebec leader to replace Privy Council President Guy Favreau, who resigned because of ill health.

The move followed the decision by the party's Quebec MPs earlier today to confirm Mr. Marchand in the post which he has held on an interim basis during Mr. Favreau's lengthy illness.

The announcement was made in a two - sentence statement after a party caucus meeting.

The prime minister's statement said the appointment was made in response to a recommendation of the Quebec caucus. Most of them firmly support the idea of one of their number being designated as Quebec leader.

KEEPS MUM

Collared by reporters after the announcement, the 48-year-old Mr. Marchand shied away from a precise definition of his role and even declined to pass judgment on whether his precise title would be "Quebec leader."

The prime minister's statement referred to him as "leader of the Quebec caucus." But there seemed no doubt that he had assumed the mantle of Mr. Favreau, 49.

Mr. Marchand said that "from the logical point of view, this job shouldn't exist." However, Quebec did have problems different from those of other provinces, none of which have similar leaders, and the prime minister must be advised of them.

Mr. Marchand added that it is necessary to maintain the old structure as long as Quebec does have this special position.

PWA Pilot Killed

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — The wreckage of a Pacific Western Airlines light aircraft with only the pilot aboard was discovered at dusk Tuesday on a mountain slope 18 miles north of here. A PWA spokesman said reports from the scene indicated pilot Hong Mar, 43, died instantly in the crash. His body was brought out by helicopter Tuesday night.

POSTERS PRAISE LIU, DENOUNCE MAO'S MEN

TOKYO (AP) — Wall posters appeared in Peking today praising President Liu Shao-chi and denouncing his opponents in Mao Tse-tung's faction, a Japanese report said.

This development came as signs multiplied that the feuding Chinese Communist leaders appeared deadlocked in their power struggle with each unwilling to compromise or to force a showdown.

ARRIVES IN CANBERRA

Tight Security For Ky Visit

CANBERRA (CP) — With mini - skirted demonstrators chanting "one - two - three, go home, Ky," South Vietnam's premier arrived in Australia's capital today and faced a press conference of tough and at times hostile questioners.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and his wife arrived in Canberra for a nine-day visit to Australia and New Zealand during which members of the opposition Labor party have pledged to stage demonstrations against the war and his visit.

—Insisted that his visit was not to bolster his regime but to thank the people of Australa for their sacrifices in behalf of his country.

—Denied that Adolf Hitler was his hero, that he had never fought for the Vichy regime in France—"I was only 12 years old"—or that he had ever taken part in the Algerian war for France.

WILL VISIT U.S.

—Reaffirmed his intention to visit the United States after the Constituent Assembly finishes writing a constitution for South Vietnam.

—Said he has no objection to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front participating in negotiations to end the Vietnamese war "so long as they are part of the Hanoi delegation."

About 700 trade unionists and students turned out to protest Ky's visit with placards denouncing him as a fascist, a killer and "baby burner."

ASSAIL 'KILLER'

Along with the demonstrators, a few thousand curious turned up along the motorcade route.

"It is good to see you again," Prime Minister Harold Holt

PASSPORTS REVOKED FOR TRIP TO HANOI

BARBARA DEMING
. . . no more jaunts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. state department has revoked the passports of three of four women who visited North Vietnam recently without the department's permission.

A department spokesman said Tuesday night notifications of revocation had been sent Jan. 13 to Patricia Griffith, Ithaca, N.Y.; Grace Newman of New York City; and Miss Barbara Deming of Cape Cod, Mass. No action has been taken against the fourth woman, Diane Bevel of Chicago, the spokesman said, because "we are not aware of her return to the United States."

The spokesman said the department "pretty automatically" revokes U.S. passports used for travel to countries for which the passports have not been validated.

ANTIQUATED ELIGIBILITY LAW RAISED IN NOVA SCOTIA

10-Year-Old Theft Haunts Councillor

NEW WATERFORD, N.S. (CP)—A car theft in Toronto nearly 10 years ago has returned to haunt a New Waterford town councillor — and he has been forced to resign his position as a result of it.

Murray Tait, at 26 the youngest man ever elected to town council here, resigned Tuesday night after his eligibility to hold the seat was questioned by the man he defeated in the December municipal election.

"I made the protest," Mr. MacInnis said. "I have no other comment other than that I will not be a candidate in any by-election."

Mr. MacInnis lost to Mr. Tait by 119 votes in the December election.

Mayor Nathanson said Mr. MacInnis told him he was making the criminal record public because he felt it was his duty to do so.

"I am extremely distressed by this situation," the mayor said. "However, having conferred with the town solicitor there doesn't seem to be any course left but to accept the resignation.

"Persons convicted on any crime punishable by a term in penitentiary are ineligible to hold office in Nova Scotia."

Mr. Tait, father of three, admitted he was convicted on the theft charge in Toronto. He said he was 17 at the time and was fined $200.

"I had no idea this would prevent me from holding public office," he said following his resignation.

"This happened in Toronto a long time ago. I was a passenger in a car that was stolen by a group of teen-agers. At the time we thought it was just a lark. We were all young and regretted our act at the time."

Municipal Affairs Minister Donald C. MacNeil said Tuesday night he will take immediate steps to investigate the "propriety of what may be antiquated law."

"I will conduct an immediate investigation into this affair to see if there is a possibility of amending the act to prevent a person suffering for the rest of his life for an indiscretion of long standing."

SUKARNO'S OUSTER DEMANDED

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian students today demanded that Congress meet "as soon as possible" to oust President Sukarno from office. An army leader said the army was ready to "take up arms and fight" for Sukarno's ouster.

The university and high school students marched into the office of strongman Gen. Suharto with their demand as high ranking government legal sources said they want Sukarno out of office so they can try him for treason.

Campbell River Ready to Fight Appeal by Mine

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The lawyer for Campbell River District Water Board today said he was satisfied he could prove the Pollution Control Board was wrong in fact as well as in law for issuing permits to Western Mines Ltd. to dump tailings and sewage effluent into Buttle Lake.

Anthony Sarich, of Campbell River, told the Times he successfully appealed to quash the permits on a legal technicality only because the board had refused him the right to argue the merits of the case.

NO APPEAL YET

So far neither Western Mines, the Attorney-General's Department nor the Pollution Control Board have filed an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from the B.C Appeal Court decision which threw out the permits Monday.

They have two months in which to initiate such an appeal under the federal court's rules, and another month to apply for a late appeal application.

Mr. Sarich said the Campbell River Water Board undoubtedly would contest an appeal in the Supreme Court because an important principle was at stake. Most of the cost, in any event, would be borne by the appellants.

FURTHER FIGHT

But even if there is no appeal and the government obtains legislative approval to meet the B.C. tribunal's objection that the Pollution Control Board could not legally refuse to allow the water board a hearing, Mr. Sarich said there will be a further fight.

"We are prepared to fight against such permits on their merits," he said.

"We would be prepared to take our report (by the B.C. Research Council) and back it up with technical witnesses at a hearing before the Pollution Control Board if we were given the chance.

"That's what we intended to do before and the only reason we went to court on a point of law was that we were prevented from doing this by the (pollution control) board itself.

UNKNOWN FACTOR

"It is still our intention to prove the merits of our objection. In an oversimplified form, it is that not enough is known about the possible effects of this dumping into our water system

Just 'Feeling' Commons Told

LONDON (UPI)—Foreign Secretary George Brown hinted today at a possible break in the deadlock on getting Veitnam peace talks started.

He told Parliament this is just "a personal feeling". But he said it is based on information reaching him from many different sources.

"While I cannot quote chapter and verse for this," Brown said, "I have a feeling that there is at least a possibility of change in this problem. This feeling results from all that reaches me from many different sources."

Brown did not embroider on this remark. He made it at the end of a House of Commons statement in which he reviewed his own and other attempts to bring the Vietnam war to the conference table.

He recalled that both the United States and South Vietnam swiftly accepted his recent proposal that ceasefire talks should be held at Hong Kong or any other convenient point in British territory. He said the British Labor government is all the more disappointed that Hanoi rejected the proposal out of hand.

"We believe that all immediate efforts should be concentrated on stopping the war," Brown said.

Brown reiterated that the Hanoi government could bring the war to an end "today" by announcing its readiness to go to the conference table.

SUPPORTS THANT

Answering questions by left wing laborite Michael Foot, Brown said the British government supports the peace proposals of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant and believes they provide the basis on which hostilities could be stopped.

But he sidestepped a question whether representations had been made to Washington to halt bombing of North Vietnam.

Brown added that the U.S. has repeatedly made it clear that it is prepared to stop bombing the moment it receives some indication, privately or publicly, that this would be followed by some response from the other side.

Reply Framed To U.S. Note On Bank Curb

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A carefully prepared reply by the government to the strong representations made by U.S. government over proposed amendments to the Bank Act will go to Washington within 10 days, it was learned here today.

The American government forwarded its sharp diplomatic note of protest to Ottawa early in November. This was the second note of protest from the U.S. The first representations in written form were made to Canada last summer.

The U.S. government is disturbed by the proposal to curtail the expansion of the Mercantile Bank — a subsidiary of the First National City Bank of New York. Limitations are imposed on the growth of the Mercantile Bank in Canada under proposed amendments to the Bank Act.

The American government has lodged its protest against the Canadian government taking such action and is also disturbed by the retroactive aspect of the proposed legislation. The contents of the American notes of protest have not been made public.

The Canadian government has taken 2½ months to carefully prepare its reply. However a spokesman in the department of external affairs said this was not unusual in the exchange of diplomatic notes especially where several departments of government were involved.

Representatives of the Mercantile Bank of Canada will appear before the standing committee on finance, trade and economic affairs next Tuesday. They will present their brief on revision of the Bank Act.

ICC Has Role 'When Time Is Ripe'

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Miister Martin said Tuesday night he is convinced that "when the time is right" the International Control Commission, of which Canada is a member, will play a key role in bringing peace to Vietnam.

Mr. Martin said in an interview at Vancouver International Airport he is optimistic about the chances for peace in the war-torn nation.

"I continue to be optimistic regarding how long the Vietnam war is going to last," Mr. Martin said. "We are lending every effort towards that end and while being fully conscious of the fact that it takes two sides to end a dispute."

Questioned by reporters, Mr. Martin denied that the U.S. and North Vietnam disregard the ICC.

"It is not correct to say Hanoi and the U.S. pay no attention to the commission," Mr. Martin said. "Both countries pay great attention to it."

Canada Will Not Accept 'No'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is refusing to accept a no from Poland and is continuing diplomatic pressure to try to persuade the Poles to agree to some kind of peace role for the Canada - India - Poland international truce supervisory commission in Vietnam.

An informed source disclosed Tuesday that Canadian representatives had a long talk with Polish officials Monday at a place the source declined to reveal, but which presumably was the United Nations in New York.

This talk occurred only four days after Poland refused to join in Vietnam discussions with Canada and India in New Delhi. The refusal was described by External Affairs Minister Martin as a setback.

BOMBING MUST END

Mr. Martin was told by the Poles during his visit to Warsaw last month that Poland didn't rule out a peacemaking role for the commission. But it wouldn't agree to any such role until America stopped bombing North Vietnam.

Mr. Martin said Tuesday in a Commons reply to David Lewis (NDP — York South), that the Poles feel that an unconditional cessation of bombing must precede any peace negotiations.

Teachers Beain Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — Talks aimed at ending the strike of 9,000 Roman Catholic teachers start today under a government appointed mediator but there's little prospect that 217,000 students will go back to school soon.

RONNING BELIEVES:

Viet Policy Now Outdated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chester Ronning, who made two Canada peace-feeler missions to Hanoi, said Tuesday he believes United States policy in Vietnam is based on an outdated political theory.

Mr. Ronning, 71, said in an interview United States attitudes are based on the "fallacious belief in some quarters that communism is a united force bent on world conquest."

He said the Communist world is splitting along national lines.

"Communist bonds of ideology no longer hold them together," said Mr. Ronning, a China-born expert on the Far East. He taught school in China prior to the revolution that turned the country Communist.

He said China and the U.S. see the war in Vietnam in totally different terms and since there are no negotiations in progress, there is no opportunity for one world giant to find common ground with the other.

He said Chinese intervention in the war was unlikely immediately because neither the U.S. or China wishes a confrontation.

CHINA SEES CIVIL WAR

Mr. Ronning said China regards the conflict as a civil war in which the United States is directly and illegally interfering for its own purposes.

In the U.S., the war is seen as a defence of the democracy of South Vietnam which is being subversively and violently infiltrated by Communists, he said.

Mr. Ronning said he thinks Canada should have recognized Red China in 1949 "when we were invited to." He said he "isn't certain if China would accept Canadian recognition now—at least for a while."

He said recognition and its acceptance would "start a trend to easing tensions in Asia and help to prevent a confrontation by beginning a trend toward peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war."

WIRE BRIEFS

Four Quints Die

GERMANY (UPI) — Four of the quintuplets born to the 30-year-old wife of a Duesseldorf engineer died today. Doctors said there was "little hope" the remaining child would live.

Old Bridge Collapses

ROME (AP) — The central arches of a 114-year-old stone bridge on the Appian Way collapsed early today, plunging two automobiles into the rubble 230 feet below. Police and firemen worked by searchlights until dawn and recovered the bodies of the two drivers.

Troops Trade Shots

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel and Jordanian troops exchanged fire today near the Jordanian city of Aqaba, wounding three Israelis, Israeli military officials said. The city is at the tip of the Gulf of Aqaba leading from the Red Sea.

Satellites 'Weaved'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) The U.S. Air Force today launched eight satellites into space with a single rocket, aiming to weave a communications network around the globe to speed military messages between far-flung outposts. Emphasis will be on traffic between Washington and Vietnam.

EVOLUTION FROM APES RULED OUT BY OLD BONES

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) —"The accepted view on evolution of man from the ape is absolutely incorrect and without any scientific basis," anthropologist Louis Leakey said Tuesday night at Israel Academy of Science and Humanities.

Giving new details in a lecture of his recent discoveries in Kenya which he said throw light on the origin of mankind, Dr. Leakey stated that while the chimpanzee is man's cousin in blood groups and other factors, the human race did not descend from the ape in a way accepted in the past.

Leakey told a press conference in Nairobi last week that the remains unearthed at Rusinga Island in Lake Victoria date back 20,000,000 years or more. He said he sees in them bone fragments of proto-man, "by far and away the oldest known representatives of the stock which eventually gave rise to man."

Thus Leakey disputed an accepted scientific view that man developed from the baboon from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 years ago.

"There was no sudden rush of evolution from the ape to man in a mere 5,000,000 years," he said. "Remains were found proving that apes, 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 years ago, were developing in the direction in which apes are still today. But at that time proto-man, our ancestor, already existed."

Because the proto-man was found in Kenya, Leakey gave him the name Kenya-Pithecus Africanus.

Leakey showed to the audience photographs of antelope bones which he said were cracked 20,000,000 years ago in a way that proved near-man hunted and ate meat.

First proto-type emigrated slowly from East Africa to India and China where early specimens of the same proto-man, only now recognized as such, were found, he said.

Leakey said the important conclusion to be drawn from this discovery was that the dawn in the life of the human species was in the heart of Africa whence a steady flow of emigration took place through the Middle East to the Far East and, much later, to Europe.

MLAs BEGIN ARRIVING FOR PARTY MEETINGS

Half a dozen MLAs from the snow-bound sections of British Columbia have drifted into Victoria already as the three political parties lay plans for their pre-session caucus meetings Monday.

Social Credit's 33-man group goes into its first strategy huddle Monday afternoon. The 16-strong New Democratic Party official opposition does the same that morning.

The Liberals, with six members, will caucus in the afternoon in Vancouver.

METHOD CHALLENGED

'Secret Criteria' For Underwriting

Insurance underwriters use secret techniques in selecting auto insurance risks, the royal commission on insurance was told Tuesday at Victoria Law Courts.

Commission counsel Gordon S. Rae challenged the methods employed by companies and asked a four-man All-Canada Insurance Federation panel whether it is fair to say there were "secret criteria for selective underwriting."

Robert Parkin, who is Candian assigned risk chairman, said there were, but other members of the panel had reservations.

"We may be leaving an unjustified impression," said Daniel Damov, All-Canadian director.

LAWYER OBJECTS

George Cumming, counsel for the federation, objected to Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton, commission chairman, about the "sinister inference" of Mr. Rae when he asked if "rate manuals were so loosely interpreted and secret qualifications added."

Mr. Rae suggested some insurance purchasers might fare better than others purely on the basis of interpretation of the manuals and inclusion of additional qualifications.

Mr. Damov said it is the responsibility of the insurers to determine the price of insurance.

"Then why advocate government price-setting?" Mr. Rae asked.

The industry felt people are ignorant of the conditions existing between the companies and of insurance regarding price the government superintendent setting, replied panelist Duncan McIntosh, All-Canada vice-president.

"May I suggest you wish the responsibility shifted to government?" Mr. Rae continued.

"I don't agree . . . the responsibility for rate setting would still rest with the insurer," Mr. McIntosh answered.

Mr. Damov said the industry is making an effort to gain a better understanding of accident statistics to set rates more realistically rather than using "inspired judgment."

Hearings on the five - volume All-Canada brief are expected to end this week. The commission will then adjourn for a week before hearing submissions from large independent auto insurance firms.

Social Worker Gives Outline of Area Needs

A Family and Children's Service social worker Tuesday night outlined some services needed to help troubled families in this community.

Mrs. Edith Frankham told Oaklands PTA what is needed, among other things, are:

- A home-maker service to assist families where the mother is ill or on the verge of a breakdown.
- Day nurseries, not only to help working mothers, but to help those under stress;
- More flexible instruction in the schools adapted to the needs of disadvantaged children;
- A community birth control information centre.

Mrs. Frankham said the number of children who have come into the care of the children's service has doubled in the past seven years. There are now 574 in the care of the service, mainly as the result of breakdown in family life.

Mrs. Frankham emphasized the need for foster and adoptive homes of these children. She also appealed for understanding of their parents who, in many cases, have cracked under strains they were unprepared for.

She said that some form of education for family life is needed to prepare young persons for marriage and the problems of child rearing.

Three Women In Collision

One woman went to hospital and three cars were damaged in a collision at Bay and Blanshard about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

City police said a car driven west on Bay by Lilliam Nielsen, 6682 Tamany Drive, was in collision with a car driven north on Blanshard by Dorothy Peaker, 3976 Cedar Hill Cross Road. This car collided with a third one, also going north on Blanshard and driven by Mildred Mowatt, 19 Hampton.

Damage to the cars was estimated at $600.

Cigarette Makers Block Price War In U.K. Markets

LONDON (CP) — Britain's brief cigarette price war appears to be rolling to an end with the price-fixers ganging up on the discount supermarkets.

Imperial Tobacco and other manufacturing giants announced Monday they will not abandon price maintenance as previously anticipated.

Price-cutting began late last week as a number of supermarkets dropped the tab on a pack of 20 by about six cents from the normal 68 to 81 cents.

Smokers jammed the shops to such an extent that thousands of corner tobacconists feared they soon would be run out of business.

But the manufacturing giants warned they not only will maintain prices but start court action against those who don't.

FIRST CALL with Ben Wicks

Admirable Show!

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes (retd.) on Thursday, will be presented with the Admiral Rayner Trophy by the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association.

The trophy, awarded each year to the individual who has done most to promote the association's aims and objectives, will be presented by Pacific Maritime Commander, Rear-Admiral John A. Charles.

The ceremony will take place in the admiral's office at 10:30 a.m.

Hearing Due On Raiding Accusation

A charge of raiding by one union against another will be heard by the Canadian Labour Congress umpire Jan. 30 in Montreal.

The case involves the B. C. Government Employees' Association, which claims its jurisdiction was raided by the Canadian Merchant Service Guild when it signed up more than 200 deck officers and engineers on B. C. Ferries last year.

The CLC umpire is Carl Goldenberg, noted labor mediator, who lives in Montreal.

His finding will be forwarded to CLC president Claude Jodoin who will submit it to the executive council which will decide to accept or reject it.

E. P. O'Connor, general secretary of the government employees' association, said he is going to Montreal for the hearing.

"I think our association has to accept the onus of proving the jurisdiction was our's and there was in fact a raid," he said.

"We think we can prove that."

Spokesmen for the Canadian Merchant Service Guild were not available this morning.

Is Socialism Possible? Topic

Larry Tickner, outspoken member of the Socialist Party of Canada, will speak to students of the University of Victoria Thursday.

His speech "Is Socialism Possible?" will be delivered in the student union building at 12:30 p.m.

Newshen Missing

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Army helicopters and Vienamese ground troops searched along the central coast today for a French woman correspondent reported missing Tuesday. Searchers found no clues to the disappearance of Michele Ray, a 26-year-old blonde, former model who had been in South Vientam about four months as a freelance photographer. It was feared that the Viet Cong had kidnapped her.

$73 Billion for Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Tuesday next year's defence budget will top $73,000,000,000—an increase of about $5,000,000,000 over the current level.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A series of rapidly moving Pacific disturbances will give periods of rain to the B.C. coast during the next few days, bringing to an end the few days of rather pleasant sunny weather. Arctic air which pushed southward through northern sections of the province to the vicinity of Prince George will retreat again as the strong moist Pacific flow spreads across the province, giving intermittent snow east of the coast mountains but milder temperatures.

Both men attended the Manila summit conference last October, and Ky said then he would like to thank the people of Australia and New Zealand personally for their help to Vietnam.

USED POLICE DOGS

Special police and guard dogs also patrolled the airport at the north coast city of Darwin, where Ky's plane landed briefly.

Leaders of both the Australian and New Zealand Opposition Labor parties have sharply criticized Ky's visit as unnecessary and unwanted. Arthur Calwell, Australian Labor party chief, said he would personally lead demonstrations against Ky.

The federal cabinet decided Tuesday to permit demonstrations in Canberra as long as they are peaceful and orderly and demonstrators do not come within 100 yards of Parliament House.

Ky is to remain in Australia until Jan. 23, then fly to Wellington, N.Z., for a three-day visit.

Australia has about 4,500 soldiers in South Vietnam and New Zealand has about 180.

to make it safe to permit such dumping."

Mr. Sarich said a "howling southeaster and snowstorm" in the Campbell River area this morning prevented the water board sending an official to check second-hand reports that Western Mines is dumping tailings into Buttle Lake.

But he said a water board official will be sent as soon as possible and the Upper Island Health Unit will be asked to continue water sampling tests to detect any contamination.

Harold Wright, president of Western Mines, Tuesday denied the company is dumping tailings into the lake. He was not available for comment this morning.

U.S. War Critic Speaks Tonight At University

Donald Duncan, a former U.S. special service soldier in Vietnam, will talk about the war in South Vietnam tonight at 8 at the University of Victoria.

Mr. Duncan will talk at the Students' Union Building in the political science forum series.

Mr. Duncan fought with the U.S. special forces and was recommended for bravery. But before being given any award he had quit the U.S. army and started to write about the way the U.S. is fighting the war.

His criticisms of the United States created a national furore when published in Ramparts magazine. He later also wrote an article for Weekend magazine, the Canadian newspaper supplement.

Dog Finds Clue To Missing Hiker

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP)—The search for missing hiker Michael Cannon, 18, was revived this week when two imported tracking dogs found a knapsack buckle caught in a tree.

"We think it came from Michael's knapsack," his mother said.

The German shepherd dogs and their Canadian owner and handler returned to the mountains of Tantalus today in hopes of picking up the trail of the missing youth.

Cannon, son of Mrs. Elsa Cannon of Honolulu, has been missing since Christmas morning when he left for a hike in the Tantalus area.

Sidney Joins Cry Over Freight Fees

In particular, members wanted to know why Sidney-bound freight coming from Vancouver was first taken to Victoria and vice-versa.

Answering the question this morning, Norman Jackson, president of Sidney Freight Services said: "Trucks always make their runs during the night and since Sidney businesses are closed then it would be useless for the trucks to stop there.

Tenants Facing Eviction

MONTREAL (CP)—With the Montreal world's fair only 100 days away, hundreds of tenants in the downtown area are facing eviction notices effective immediately or at the end of April, it was learned Tuesday.

In one building of about 20 apartment units on Stanley Street residents have been informed they will be unable to renew their leases when they expire April 30.

Some of the people have been living there for up to six years, renewing their leases each year without difficulty.

There are no rental controls on the building because it was built and occupied after 1951.

The provincial rental board has jurisdiction only over buildings constructed and occupied before May, 1951.

Legally, the owners have fulfilled all their obligations by giving the required three months' notice to tenants.

In another case, it was reported that a group of old people and pensioners living in a former Salvation Army hostel have been told to get out in a week or face eviction.

A rent-control bill now before the legislature proposes the setting up of a body to set maximum prices for rooms, camping grounds and other lodgings in the Montreal area.

U.S. Mine Union Joins Steelmen

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The independent International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers merged Tuesday with the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO).

The action brought the 30,000 Mine-Mill members in the U.S. back into the organized labor's mainstream. The union had been ousted by the old Congress of Industrial Organizations in 1949 on charges of Communist domination.

Mine-Mill continues as a separate union in Canada, which has 12,000 of its 42,000 members.

PRICE MAY BE RIGHT FOR BUILDING FERRY

Premier Bennett Tuesday hinted that the balance now may be favoring construction of a 10th ferry authority ship for the Georgia Strait crossing.

When original tender came in for the contract six weeks ago, he indicated they were so high that it was likely the ferry authority would build "balcony" decks in the existing nine ships to increase their car capacity.

But, during a tour of the offshore oil rig being built by Victoria Machinery Depot, he said the government would reconsider low-bidder VMD's tender because he understood it had been pared.

The new price is expected to be about $4,750,000, compared with the original low tender of $5,149,639.

IMAGE RUFFLED

Lawyer Heads British Liberals

He was Jeremy Thorpe, 37, Eton-and-Oxford educated lawyer who has been a member of Parliament since 1959 and treasurer of the Liberal party since 1965.

Thorpe is regarded as belonging to the left wing of the roughly left-of-center Liberal party. In 1959 Franco Spain banned his entry when he wanted to present a petition for an amnesty for political prisoners. He also is a strong proponent of parliamentary reform.

However in 1966 Thorpe was given responsibility for putting forward the Liberal view on colonies, Commonwealth relations, overseas development and home office (mainly police and prisons) affairs.

The new leader was elected by the 12 Liberal members of the 630-member House of Commons. He replaces Jo Grimond, 53, handsome silver-haired leader of the party for the past 10 years and its most effective vote-catcher. Grimond announced his resignation Tuesday.

The party's parliamentarians rushed through with the traditional form of election despite a hectic morning of protest by powerful party factions. The protesters wanted the election delayed at least 24 hours so that opinion of the party organization throughout the country could be consulted.

SAFETY CAP PROPOSED FOR DRUGS

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons committee got a close look Tuesday at a Canadian-developed safety cap which may be recommended by a federal advisory group as required covering for pill bottles.

It requires simultaneous pressures downwards and a turning motion to get it off. Backers say this involves a degree of co-ordination beyond the ability of children under five, the group in which most accidental poisonings occur.

The cap, already in use by some druggists and drug manufacturers in Canada and the United States, was developed for the Ontario Association for the Control of Accidental Poisoning.

ARKANSAS

Prison Torture Revealed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) —Governor Winthrop Rockefeller Monday released a confidential report of beatings, torture and extortion in the Tucker prison farm and called for creation of a commission to make an intensive study of the state's prison system.

The governor told a press conference the report was "shocking" and that he hoped it would "shock the legislature and the people of this state into action." The report was prepared by the criminal invstigation division of the Arkansas state police after its investigation last August of conditions at Tucker ,one of two prison farms in the state.

Former Governor Orval Fabous had ordered the investigation, but did not realease the report.

In the report, prisoners told of being given electrical charges for punishment.

Investigators siad they found in the main prison building other instruments of torture, whisky bottles, keys to open all cell doors, gambling equipment in the form of playing cards and loaded dice, illegal drugs and narcotics and recording euipment and places for their concealment.

Spain Jails Workers

MADRID (AP)—The National Court of Public Order Monday sentenced 13 workers to prison terms ranging from six months to 2½ years for illegal association and propaganda. They were arrested in April while distributing handbills calling for Spanish workers to cripple production in various factories and join the outlawed Communist party.

ORIGINAL "Gibson Girl" and the central figure in the sensational 1906 Harry K. Thaw-Stanford White murder case, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, died Tuesday in a Santa Monica nursing home at the age of 82. Mrs. Thaw had been a patient there for more than a year. Once called the most beautiful girl in the world, she was the toast of two continents. Her husband at the time, millionaire Harry Thaw, shot and killed her former lover, wealthy playboy Stanford White on the roof garden of the old Madison Square Garden. Thaw was acquitted but was sentenced to a mental hospital. He died in 1947.

WANTS REVENGE

Trip Ban Infuriates Chile Chief

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Chile was plunged into political confusion today by the senate's refusal to allow President Eduardo Frei to visit the U.S. next month.

A combination of causes, anti-Americanism foremost among them, brought extreme leftists and rightists together in the move to ban Frei's visit. The vote was 23-15.

Political insiders said one thing was certain: Frei would seek revenge with every means at his disposal for the humiliating blow.

Under the nation's constitution, the senate plays an important role in foreign policy making and its approval is necessary before the president may leave the country on a policy matter. It had never in history denied this approval.

Frei knew he had opposition in the senate but was confident of getting his travel plans approved. The bombshell came when the moderate Radical Party, which had publicly stated it would support the president, switched tack at the last moment and voted against him, apparently because of its bitter opposition to his Christian Democratic Government.

FEUDING LEADERS REFUSE SHOWDOWN

China Power Struggle Deadlocked

TOKYO (AP)—China's feuding Communist leaders appeared deadlocked in their power struggle today with each unwilling to compromise or to force a showdown.

A week after Mao Tse-tung issued a virtual ultimatum to the followers of President Liu Shao-chi, there was every indication it has been ignored and that Mao's boast of support from the armed forces had not budged his opponents.

Mao's New China news agency referred in one dispatch to "the bastions in which counter revolutionary revisionism has entrenched itself" and refrained from proclaiming final victory over what is called the "latest counter attack" by Mao's opponents.

The Peking correspondent of the Japanese Newspaper Yomiuri reported that the upheaval on the mainland seemed to have "passed its peak" and that tension was subsiding in Shanghai, Nanking, Peking and other cities.

He credited the changed atmosphere to Mao's personal assumption of leadership.

PAUSE INDICATED

But the available evidence pointed out a pause only.

In Shanghai, where Mao's official news outlets admitted anti-Mao strikes and sabotage had occurred, Liu's followers presumably were clinging to the municipal party apparatus.

Official organs for the last week charged that Shanghai party leaders had turned workers against Mao by promising them higher wages and better working conditions. But the dispatches did not say these leaders had been replaced. The implication was that they were holding on to their jobs.

It was doubtful that such a situation could continue long. Shanghai, a city of 8,000,000, is the commercial hub of China. Industrial and commercial unrest there could poison the country's business life and compel Mao's faction to force a showdown there.

So far it has not been able to do so or has not wanted to.

President Liu has been under attack in Red Guard wall posters for almost two months and in party cells for at least six months. That he and his followers have resisted the attacks for so long, and in a Communist state, testifies to their strength.

One of the current targets of Red Guard posters is Marshal Chu Teh, the venerated 80-year-old "father" of the Chinese Red Army. The Japanese Kyodo news agency said he was attacked for the third day in a row, with a poster charging he had sought to undermine Mao for almost 40 years.

Mao's forces seemed today to be concentrating on trying to counter Liu's influence among the workers. The New China news agency reprinted extensive attacks on "economism" carried by newspapers citing Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin.

"Economism" is the Communist word for trying to influence workers with promises of better wages and better working conditions. The continued attack on it indicated it remained a threat to Mao's faction.

Alumni Seeks Historical Items For Open House

University of Victoria Alumni Association is urgently seeking "anything of interest" that pertains to the history of Victoria College or the university.

The association wants old photographs, trophies and other mementoes for use in an historical exhibition.

The exhibition is being displayed by the association as part of the university's open-house celebration Jan. 27 and 28.

Former students who have any material that would be useful are asked to contact the alumni association at 384-9913, or call personally at the alumni office, 1960 Lansdowne.

SECRECY COMMITMENT DISPUTED BY MAYOR

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Tom Campbell said Tuesday the minutes of the 1965 meeting of the Vancouver Police Commission at which lawyer George Murray was appointed to investigate the city police depatment made no mention that Mr. Murray's report should be kept secret.

Mayor Campbell disputed a prepared statement issued Monday by three members of the police commission in which they said they had made a "commitment" to Mr. Murray before he began his investigation that his report would not be made public.

Mayor Campbell said he had studied minutes of the police commission meeting at which a resolution appointing Mr. Murray was appoved, but he could find no record of a secrecy commitment which the commissioners said they had made.

MORRISON ON DOUGLAS

Appeal Court Asked to Rule On Admissibility of Evidence

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal, for the first time, is going to be asked to rule on the admissibility of evidence before a royal commission.

Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes of the Supreme Court of Ontario said Tuesday he would state a case for the appeal court after he heard argument before the one-man commission he is conducting on the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd.

The commission hearings were adjourned until an appeal court report is received, possibly within a month.

Joseph Pomerant, counsel for Jack Tramiel and Manfred Kapp, contended that transcripts of evidence they gave before the Ontario Securities Commission and in bankruptcy proceedings under protection of the Canada and Ontario evidence acts could not be included in the commission report.

Mr. Justice Hughes rejected the argument, but said he would ask for a ruling from the appeal court.

Mr. Pomerant said that although no one was on trial at the previous hearings, reputations could suffer and contended that no evidence so given should be used in a manner adverse to the person giving evidence.

R. J. Carter, counsel for William L. Walton who has been charged with a criminal offence arising out of the collapse, similarly argued that previous evidence given by his client should not be taken by or made public by the commission while Mr. Walton's case is before the courts.

Prisoners Slaughtered By Viet Cong

AP VINH AH, Vietnam (UPI) — Viet Cong prison guards slaughtered 44 men, women and children only moments before fleeing from Vietnamese soldiers coming to the rescue of the captives.

All Vietnamese, the victims were trussed by wires and then shot, grenaded or hacked to death with bayonets Sunday as a unit of the 21st Vietnamese Division made a helicopter assault on this hamlet in the Mekong Delta province of Chuong Thanh, about 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

Seven other prisoners, including a young girl, escaped death by pretending to die along with their comrades. Three of them were wounded seriously. One man, with a deep head wound from a bayonet, was not found until 24 hours after the camp was liberated.

Capital and Interest

ALTHOUGH CANADA WAS NOT invited to attend, the conference this weekend in London which will deal with interest rates is of paramount importance to this country. The invitation from the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, James Callaghan, to the United States, France, Germany and Italy said that the meeting would attempt to find a way in which the four European countries could co-operate with the United States in lowering interest rates, but in a way which would prevent any flight of capital from the countries involved.

The problem of the flight of capital is the main factor which prevents the Canadian government from easing off in its monetary policy as so many opposition critics have demanded. Any attempt by Canada to lower interest rates below the American level would simply result in a transfer of large amounts of short-term capital to the United States or some other higher interest rate country with disastrous results for the Canadian economy. While current high rates are most unwelcome and have had a deleterious effect on many industries, notably housebuilding, a flight of capital from Canada at this time would be infinitely more serious.

The international climate is probably more favorable now to some kind of co-operative action on interest rates than it has been for at least a year. The United States, by long-standing tradition a low-interest country, is feeling the stultifying effects of the high rates now in effect and resulting in part from President Johnson's refusal to consider a tax increase a year ago when most economists said that reliance on monetary policy alone to keep the lid on the boom was unwise. The President has now proposed a stiff tax surcharge and if it passes Congress the need for monetary restraint will be eased.

While early indications are that the Johnson tax bill will have a rough time in Congress, the promise of lower interest rates could help to smooth its way. There is a good likelihood that a strong segment of industry would be happy to trade off high interest charges for a tax increase.

Lower interest rates alone are not, of course, going to solve the Canadian problem of finding sufficient capital for all its needs. But they could be useful in warding off the stagnation which is being predicted in some areas of the economy where capital investment is not warranted at current money costs.

Encouragement for Voters

MAYOR STEPHEN HAS launched his drive to take the polls to the voters who don't come to the polls in sufficient numbers.

In his proposal to set up five locations at which votes may be cast in the civic elections he is following a course that many have advocated. There is some question, however, as to whether or not he is following it far enough.

According to the argument for multiple polling stations, the civic vote is low because people are disinclined to dress up and journey downtown merely to mark their ballots. If they could go casually to a neighborhood polling station and perform their civic duty, they might be expected to vote in larger numbers.

It is suggested that district schools be used, the point being that buildings close enough to be attended by students should be close enough to the homes of their elders to eliminate serious inconvenience on voting day. The voting turnout in Saanich, however, where a number of schools are used, is poor.

Mr. Stephen himself has some reservations about his proposal. He does not think it will completely solve the problem, but he believes it will help. In any case, it should be tried. The mayor should have no such reservations, however, about his intention to find a method of registering everyone entitled to vote.

It is regrettable that some residents are not sufficiently interested to exercise the franchise when they have it. No qualified person should be left off the voters' list and thereby denied his right to mark ballots.

Present regulations, of course, make provision for registration when the person takes the trouble to be registered. But a more automatic method of placing those entitled to vote on the lists could surely be devised.

When Governors Step Down

WHEN PARLIAMENT DECIDed to appoint a Canadian to the post of Governor-General, the main considerations in the selection involved the capabilities and distinctions of potential candidates. Both occupants of the office since 1952 have ranked high by such standards.

These characteristics are still required for any future Governor-General. But they do not, in themselves, guarantee that the Queen's representative in Canada will necessarily be a wealthy man. It is, moreover, quite conceivable that highly eligible candidates may feel incapable of accepting the honor because they are in no position to devote years of service to the country during that period of life when they might expect to assure themselves of reasonable financial competency following retirement.

Parliament will no doubt demonstrate its appreciation of this problem by approving a motion now before it "to introduce a measure to provide for the payment of a retiring annuity to Governors-General of Canada and to their widows".

This is a highly proper measure, not only as a tangible recompense for service, but as an assurance that gubernatorial selections may be made from a wide field of choice.

The Power of an Exposition

STARTING ON SUNDAY, FEBruary 5, the province of Ontario will become, next to Quebec, the most liberal in its handling of alcoholic beverages. On that date Ontario's licensed restaurants will be allowed to serve drinks with meals on Sundays.

There's a fairly strong suspicion that the decision was not made in a burst of enlightenment. Rather, the generally-accepted theory is that it was Expo which forced the issue. Ontario's pavilion at the world's fair will have five fancy restaurants and, under Quebec liquor laws, of course, would be allowed to serve drinks on Sunday. But if the Ontario government did this it would be condoning what it denies its citizens back home. On the other hand, if it didn't allow drinks on Sunday as all the other licensed premises at Expo will do, it would look rather ridiculous.

No change is likely for British Columbians in this development. The combined Western Provinces pavilion, through which British Columbia will be officially represented at Expo, won't have a restaurant. Perhaps, in the interests of amity, this is just as well. For if the question of serving drinks on Sunday had to be debated by the governments of this province, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba—with the awesome possibility of having to extend the same courtesy to Western citizens — the chances are that the co-operative Expo effort wouldn't stand the strain.

THE WOUNDS OF MME. ROLLAND

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

If Scorn Is Lacking It Can Be Invented

Hutchison

MME. SOLANGE Chaput Rolland, a beautiful, intelligent and angry daughter of Quebec, set out last year to survey English-speaking Canada, with a subsidy from the Centennial Commission. One assumes that the commission knew what it was doing and what its protege would probably report. Still, even its broad-minded officials may be shocked by Mme. Rolland's rather feverish concusions, as she obviously intended. The shock treatment, administered by an expert, has succeeded brilliantly.

Yet why should anyone be surprised? Hell has no fury like a woman scorned and Mme. Rolland expected nothing but scorn for a French Canadian. Naturally she found it. Or, where she could not find it, she invented it.

As a result, the Centennial Commission has presented to the nation a curious birthday cake with a harsh and bitter taste. The Rolland book, My Country, Canada or Quebec? (which I shall not attempt to review) is important all the same for two reason. It shows, in peculiarly naked form, the racial agony of some French Canadians that the Anglo-Saxon mind has never fully grasped or even suspected.

Streak of Tolerance

It shows, on the other hand, though the author has never grasped or suspected it, an odd streak of tolerance somewhat redeeming the ignorance of that mind. After all, the book is published in English, widely reviewed, praised or criticized in English, and underwritten by a Centennial Commission which the Quebec government has ostentatiously ignored.

In an introduction to Mme. Rolland's furious phillipic, Professor W. L. Morton, the celebrated historian, says it is "deeply wounding" to English-speaking Canadians but they must read it "to measure up to the condition of Canada today." I agree with the professor. It is high time for all of us to see the raw wounds in the French Canadian psyche, some of them self-inflicted, others inflicted by the knives of Anglo-Saxon prejudice.

When Mme. Rolland called on me some months ago I failed to guess the depth of her own wounds. She is a great lady with charming manners and Gallic esprit in whose presence the ordinary Anglo-Saxon must feel like a savage, as I did. The interview passed off pleasantly enough and her fairly accurate quotations from it left no sting. But her other interviews, supposedly representing a fair cross-section of western attitudes, picture a country which I simply do not know.

For example, Mme. Rolland accepts as a serious warning, not as a clumsy joke, the statement of a Vancouver newspaper editor that "if the political situation became too tense" British Columbia "might seek the status of a dominion allied with the British Commonwealth"—the status of Zambia, Ghana or Nigeria, I presume.

It is lamentable that Western Canadians should offer, and that an innocent French-Canadian should swallow, such mischievous nonsense. It is clear, however, that a sensitive woman felt like a stranger and an alien once she left Quebec. Her indictment of our manners, our ignorance and sometimes of our stupidity cannot be wholly denied.

But as Burke said, you cannot really indict a nation and Mme. Rolland seems, in many cases, to have picked the least typical witnesses. If she has been misled and paints a crude caricature of the nation outside Quebec, it is partly our fault. We have not bothered sufficiently to explain our thoughts to her, to Quebec, to ourselves.

Nevertheless, one cannot understand why she should expect to feel herself anything but an outsider (even with her perfect bilingualism) in an English-speaking community. The English speaker feels exactly the same in Quebec, though I am bound to add that, in much travel there, I have found nothing but courtesy, hospitality and goodwill which Mme. Rolland did not find here.

The two solitudes remain and apparently they can be penetrated only by shafts of fire. Mme. Rolland ignites them with the skill and enthusiasm of a literary pyromaniac. Doubtless that is better than no light at all. Our resulting burns may cause us to look at the causes of Quebec's combustion, some of them valid causes.

One hopes that Quebec will start to make a similar inquiry in reverse. It has sent out an amateur reporter of high talents and she goes home, like a medieval explorer in the barbarous land of Prester John, with tales of two-headed giants and monstrous reptiles. Unfortunately the professional reporters of Quebec, some of the ablest in Canada, seldom come west. None of the excellent French-Canadian newspapers maintains a bureau out here, like those maintained by the English-language newspapers, including this one, in Quebec.

The traffic of ideas runs one way. We could be more hopeful about the future if the traffic ran both ways. Certainly we could have no hope whatever in a majority of French-Canadians thought with Mme. Rolland, as I am quite sure they do not. For if they did the nation would have exploded long before its hundredth birthday.

Perhaps the most hopeful sign in the centennial is that the nation uses it not merely to celebrate its success but to examine its failures. As a candid, surgical examiner Mme. Rolland has offered us a strange, prickly but useful anniversary gift. The Centennial Commission has got full value for our money.

Letters

For The Netherlands

I have the honour to express to you my sincere appreciation for the fine publicity you have given in the "Victoria Daily Times" in connection with the wedding of Her Royal Highness Princess Margriet and Mr. Pieter van Vollenhoven.—J. P. Engels, Consul General of The Netherlands.

Humorous Simplicity

A word of appreciation of the cartoon appearing on page 4 of Saturday evening's issue. Its humorous simplicity is reminiscent of the well-known cartoonists 'Giles' and 'Lowe', and is a welcome relief from the crude and often cruel caricatures of political and other prominent persons with which your readers are frequently afflicted.

From the absence of any discernable signature or other means of identification, may it be assumed that this is the work of a hitherto unpublished artist? If so, may we hope to see more of his work.—N. T. PORTER, 245 Linden.

Valuable Information

Whoever is responsible for the choice of your special articles on pages 4 and 5, is to be commended for providing so many informative, stimulating, and even brilliant selections. I have felt like writing you for some time in appreciation.

However the fine series on pollution by Gordon Ritchie, prompts the action. I trust the weight of his material will move all our governments, and the public to prompt measures of adequate control. Later action will cost far more, if indeed the mischief can all be undone; but much of it can.—Harold Allen, 2140 Kings.

Pure-Hearted Killing

Three clergymen addressed a group of Brooklyn students, assuring them it was proper to participate in the Vietnamese war. One, Col. Robt. Mummy, Counselor at the United States Military Academy, said: "Killing must be done with a pure heart, otherwise you have an immoral killing. If our soldiers were indoctrinated to hate the enemy, then the killing would be an immoral act."

In view of the above, isn't it possible that the Germans at Dieppe killed the Canadians in a Christian-like manner, with love in their hearts, and thus would be eligible to join in the 25th anniversary ceremony? — Percy Flage, Saanichton, B.C.

"The Error of His Ways"

Having read the diatribe by Mr. Charles Davis in the Victoria Daily Times, I prefer to accept the opinion of five hundred million Catholics who are not only satisfied but proud and grateful to belong to the great universal Catholic Christian Church founded by Jesus Christ Himself nearly 2000 years ago.

Mr. Davis has expressed the disgruntled attitude of a lone individual who has grieviously sinned and is endeavouring to stifle his conscience by blaming the great mystical body of Christ, the Church against whom he has sinned.

May God forgive him and may he live to learn the error of his ways. - D. D. Studdy, Duncan, B.C.

FROM UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Difference on U Thant's "Soft" Peace

Frye

UNITED NATIONS secretary-general U Thant once again has stirred a minor diplomatic tempest by his outspoken views on Vietnam. The net result, thus far, has been to put him at odds with the United States and seven of its Asian allies. Whether a further result will be to increase U Thant's acceptability to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong as a peace intermediary remains to be seen.

The secretary-general said at a news conference January 10 that he disagreed with the United States on three fundamental points:

The relationship of the Viet Cong guerrillas to North Viet Nam. They are not "stooges," he said.

The validity of the "domino theory," according to which the fate of South Vietnam will determine that of neighboring states. He denied it.

Security Value

The value of South Vietnam to the security and interests of the West. He discounted it.

Thant argued, in effect, that key points in Washington's rationale for the war — its origin in North Vietnamese aggression, its importance as a step toward containing Red China, its necessity as a means of discouraging further "wars of national liberation" — were invalid or inapplicable.

The secretary-general's principal adversary on each of these points was understood to be Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who has taken precisely the opposite line. Neither man is unaware of the clash.

Thant volunteered his analysis at a time when the Rusk theses are being challenged actively within the American state department. The difference is said to boil down to a division over whether to press for military "victory," humiliating, weakening and punishing North Viet Nam, or whether to accept a compromise peace settlement which would preserve Hanoi as a potential barrier to the southward spread of Chinese influence.

Peace Hints

There have been hints of late that a peace negotiation might be possible if the bombing of the North were halted.

But this would launch the negotiation under conditions which would enhance Hanoi's bargaining power, and hence influence the ultimate settlement in Hanoi's favor. To wait for further allied military gains woud make possible a much more decisive settlement, or would force Hanoi off the battlefield in defeat without any formal settlement, it is argued.

The difference thus is between a "soft" peace and a "hard" one. A "soft" peace might be available now, but would not accomplish the principal goals; a "hard" one would be likely to take another two or more years, it is estimated.

Such a peace would make sense, in Washington's eyes, only if the North Vietnam which was preserved, prestige and power intact, would indeed be a barrier to Red China, not a conveyor belt for its influence.

Barrier Theory

Thant made clear he believes in the barrier theory. He likened the Hanoi regime to Yugoslavia and argued that North Vietnam's leaders are "very independent," even "obsessed with the principle of nonalignment."

France, among others, also subscribes to the "Asian Yugoslavia" theory.

Even if this thesis were to be accepted, the so-called "Rusk school" argues, a further basic objection to a "soft" peace would be that it would encourage further "indirect aggression" by Communist guerrillas.

This school argues that the war boils down to an effort by North Vietnam to conquer the south, with the Viet Cong its agent in this effort. It follows that Vietnam is a test case for resistance to "wars of national liberation."

Others Imperilled?

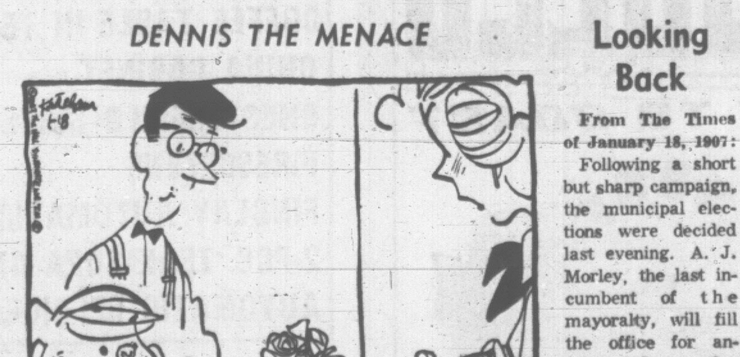
Thailand, Laos, Malaysia, Burma, Cambodia and other nearby countries including the Philippines, Formosa and even Japan might be imperilled if the test case is lost, it is argued.

Thant challenged this analysis. On Jan. 13, representatives of seven of these countries — Japan, Nationalist China, the Philippines, Laos, Thailand, Korea and Malaysia — called on him to emphasize that they disagreed.

If the purpose was to persuade him to abandon his public advocacy of a "soft" peace, it is not likely to succeed.

There is, however, a secondary effect of the flap which could be helpful. It could increase Thant's usefulness as a go-between with the Communists.

DENNIS THE MENACE



"LETTUCE AN' CARROTS! LETTUCE AN' CARROTS! YOU SURE WOULD MAKE SOME RABBIT A GOOD MOTHER!"

Looking Back

From The Times of January 18, 1907:

Following a short but sharp campaign, the municipal elections were decided last evening. A. J. Morley, the last incumbent of the mayoralty, will fill the office for another 12 months. With a vote of 1,809 he defeated by a majority of 323 T. W. Paterson. The total vote polled, 3,313, was the largest ever known in the city of Victoria.

Inside the hall the excitement was intense as bets were freely booked as to which of the candidates would receive the first ballot from the pot pourri of large confetti.

BLOODING THE SPEARS

NOROTO, Northern Uganda. — In the Uganda Parliament an Opposition MP, Mr. D. H. Obonyo, alleged that nearly 200 people had been killed in raids over the past year, 12,000 cattle had been stolen, and there was, he claimed, a complete breakdown of law and order in the Karamoja district.

He was talking about the ancient sport of "blooding the spears." Every year scores of people, many of them women and children, are killed by raiding tribesmen. In some years the casualties go into hundreds — all because young warriors by tradition, but in defiance of the law, have to prove their prowess before their girl friends are impressed.

Barren Wastes

It happens in the barren, sun-scorched wastes where Kenya and Uganda and the Sudan border meet, and in remote provinces of Ethiopia to the east across the pale green waters of Lake Rudolf.

The task of stopping this barbaric custom baffles the scanty security forces which patrol these empty wastes. While deploring this needless waste of human life African governments tend to put the blame for this on "the inheritance from colonialism".

True, little was ever done by colonial governments to educate these nomad tribes and they have been isolated for centuries because of their inaccessibility, even in the space age. Few outsiders ever visit this remote area, except the occasional hunting safari and the itinerant anthropologist. Now African governments are trying to provide a better way of life for these primitive tribesmen by starting schemes to improve their cattle, opening literacy classes and conducting propaganda in local vernaculars over the radio. This is especially the case in Uganda where the problem has become acute.

Little Purpose

The killings seldom have any purpose behind them other than the desire to kill a human victim as the requisite proof of "manhood," according to tribal custom. Usually the raids are more numerous in dry years when drought grips the country and the young men go off in search of food — and diversion.

For days on end they will lope through the scant bush, their seven-foot spears glinting in the merciless sun. In the darkness they will descend on the flimsy village of a neighboring tribe, usually when the younger men are away with the cattle. They will spear the older men and the children, and round up all the best-looking girls they find, carrying them off with hundreds of head of cattle as their "prize." Some take back a few gruesome "souvenirs" of their butchery.

Marshall McLuhan and Media: Getting Out of the 19th Century

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO — There's this professor who talks about things like "the interiorizations of alphabet technology" and says Canadians haven't groped out of the 19th century.

He spreads far-out ideas from a smallish Toronto college best known to the mass of Canadians for graduating summa cum laude hockey players and he probably gets more written about him outside Canada than all the domestic notables wrapped up together.

Yet H. Marshall McLuhan, Canada's Delphic oracle of communications, is known only vaguely in most of his own country.

Prof. Marshall McLuhan, of Toronto's St. Michael's College, has been described as "Canada's intellectual comet" on the one hand and a perpetrator of a gigantic hoax on the other. To those who attack his theories on modern communication he has a simple answer: They just don't get it, he says.

A few months ago one of those ask-the-editor departments classified him as a teacher who had said something controversial about Vietnam.

To Prof. McLuhan of St. Michael's College, who has been variously labelled as the first pop philosopher, a kook and a thinker of the size of T. S. Eliot, D. H. Lawrence and Spengler, this is neither diconcerting nor surprising.

"Canadians," he philosophized cheerfully in a recent interview, "are unaware of most everything."

Elsewhere, the switched-on element of eight or 10 countries has taken to him with warmth—mixed with puzzlement —as he theorizes on the age of electronic communications and what it is doing to shape humanity's future.

Wins Prize

His latest recognition abroad was the winning of the 1967-68 Albert Schweitzer Scholarship, one of the heftiest of academic awards, which provides $100,000 for pursuing his work for a year at New York's Fordham University with two assistants.

"A belated Whitman singing the body electric with Thomas Edison as accompanist," rhapsodizes a critic in the big-circulation New Yorker magazine.

A minority manages to muffle its enthusuasm. Like Robert Meister, editor of the Journal of Existtentialism, who wrote:

"An obscure professor of English from the Canadian provinces has succeeded in perpetrating a hoax so gigantic that it shows every sign of becoming an international intellectual scandal."

At the other extreme, the review of his latest book, Understanding Media, in Harper's magazine, is headlined: "Canada's intellectual comet."

It puts him up there with the mental radicals who have had "the good luck to advance the right new theory at just the right historical moment."

The exact nature of the theory — or theories — baffles a lot of people.

The fact that the professor invents some of his own language as he goes along may contribute to this.

One puzzled reader suggests the title for the next book should be Understanding McLuhan.

Columnist Richard Needham of The Globe and Mail, in the same vein, created a Prof. Mashmouth McGargle who addressed audiences in Swahili, Ethiopic and Singhalese.

None of this bothers the theorist, one way or another. If a critic knocks him around, his usual comment is: "He doesn't get it." Contrariwise: "He's got it."

"It" is a sort of all-embracing Einsteinian field theory of communications. In fact, Tom Wolfe, the way-out author of The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine — Flake Streamline Baby, stacks McLuhan along-side Einstein and Freud as a heavy thinker.

The professor has compressed the whole thing into the now hard-worked slogan, "The medium is the message," but that's just a smidgeon of it.

To boil down a few hundred thousand words of theory, it goes something like this: Humanity has been and is shaped by the means media used to deliver information.

The printed word took man from tribalism to individualism. Now the electronic media — notably TV — are carrying him out of this "fragmented, literate and visual individualism."

TV has the special gift of grasping more than one of the senses and affecting the viewer's whole pattern of perception, regardless of what gets into his mind.

Whole populations are being "dunked in new imagery" and brought together in a "global village" where anything that happens anywhere affects everyone everywhere simultaneously.

Tough Language

It comes wrapped in such language as "the new electronic structuring and configuring of life"; "the fragmenting and divisive power of our analytic Western World," and: "Any invention or technology is an extension or self-amputation of our physical bodies."

"The media are in the process of changing democratic institutions," explains Dr. McLuhan in non-book language.

"Now you can start figuring from there. I honestly don't know if the changes will be good or bad, but I think we'd better start thinking about them."

Some people interpret his doctrine as spelling the doom of the written word, though he decries this — "I'm a book man myself."

One analyst sees the global village as eliminating the conditions that make for war. Another sees him as predicting an enormous release of aggressive violence that will make the period of "phonetic alphabet technology" look tame.

That's the way McLuhanism (le mcluhanisme to the French or McLuhanacy, as his detractors put it) hits people.

The ways of latching onto it are diverse, possibly because a clue to the McLuhan style is that he is a Joyce scholar and regards Finnegans Wake as the most important book of its era.

Son in Media

His 24-year-old son Eric, already a media specialist and author of a book subtitled Joyce's Guide to Media, says McLuhan can be profitably read aloud in the Joycean manner.

One California enthusiast carries the analogy further by suggesting the publishers issue a key to McLuhan, like those helpful to Greek students and Joyce readers.

A woman writes in to say she starts in the middle and flips forward and back for the best savor.

The author himself observes, tongue-in-cheek more or less, that any scholarly work can be grasped by reading only the right-hand pages.

It remained for an aficionado in New York's Greenwich Village to discover that McLuhan goes well to music, and he rounded out a "happening" there by singing an assortment of the texts at the assembled disciples.

McLuhanism itself rates as a happening with the avant-garde colony, though The Village Voice was irreverent enough to entitle a 3,000-word analysis: "The doubtful necessity of understanding McLuhan."

It also found he "looks very much like Graham Greene trying to hold back a belch."

Actually, he's tall, clean, appropriately tweedy and with the strained look, perhaps the Greene resemblance, of a man perpetually in a hurry, which he is.

His office in an ancient St. Michael's building on the University of Toronto campus has the customary professor's clutter with nothing showing to betoken a John the Baptist of electronics.

Before settling down at Roman Catholic St. Michael's in 1954 — he is a convert to Catholicism — Dr. McLuhan got around much, picking up a PhD at Cambridge and teaching at Wisconsin, St. Louis and Assumption, Windsor, Ont., universities.

Special Post

To keep him from straying too far off the campus — he can just about name his own ticket anywhere now — the U. of T. three years ago made him head of a new "centre for culture and technology."

It is a nebulous creation that carries no particular duties and lets him free-wheel in such areas as "psychic and social consequences of technologies and media" between his St. Michael's English classes.

Along the route he acquired the 1963 Governor-General's Award for critical prose, a fellowship in the Royal Society of Canada and a wife and six children.

Mrs. McLuhan, from Fort Worth, Texas, was an English teacher. Now she types her husband's books — he combines tape and longhand scrawl — and handles family accounts of growing complexity that has led to the incorporation of McLuhan Associates Ltd.

The younger McLuhans are getting around, too. Mary, 21, for instance, is secretary to the dean of Golden Gate University law school in California; home for Christmas, she headed back in time for Frank Sinatra's New Year's Eve party.

None of them approaches yet the pace of McLuhan senior. Between classes he jets around the continent to keep speaking engagements, most in the United States.

Businessmen go away bewildered but love to pay him outrageous sums for it. With four books to his name he has six more in the works — and one is being written about him.

Translations of the McLuhan scriptures have been made or are in process in seven countries — France, Spain, Japan, Germany, Norway, Italy and Switzerland.

Recently a new firm of business advisers here announced Dr. McLuhan has taken on one more job, as its senior creative consultant.

He professes no doubt as to why he doesn't get the same degree of awareness among Canadians.

"Partly," he says, "it's because Canada is a 19th century country. Why should they be interested? I'm talking about our own time, and they might get turned on.

"This Canada is real cool territory, in the old sense. We're protected from the present by layer on layer of political environment, and protected from encountering ourselves by layers of colonialism.

Flapping Frenzy

"Well, as far as I'm concerned, this is great. Other countries are flapping around in a frenzy of turned-onness.

"I'm only alerting Canadians to the 20th century so they can duck out. I hope we'll leapfrog it into the 21st century."

Pursuing the theme a little further, he observes that all this doesn't apply to French Canada where the all-powerful TV has given the people a new "self-awareness" and sparked the separatist movement.

"They want to take over Canada and operate it, and I think they will."

On the other hand, he decides a bit later, French Canada will simply bypass the rest of the country and set itself up in business with the outside world of the 20th century.

"Separatism," he adds, enlarging on the idea that Canada never quite catches up with anything, "has already happened. We'll go on being hypnotized by separatism while something else is happening."

This is McLuhan talking, though it's hard for the untuned ear to detect whether it's dogma or just the professor throwing out what he calls probes.

As one keen student of McLuhanism observed, he's somewhat easier to understand than Newton's Principia Mathematica but you have to get the hang of it first.

If We Weren't Supposed to Sit Why the Cushion Given to Us?

By ART STOTT

Yesterday a friend of mine who is professionally involved in physical fitness told me that he had spent so much time Sunday sitting in front of his television set to watch exhibition basketball and the super bowl he became stiff as a board.

Stott

"So," he explained, "when it was all over, I struggled up, put on my coat and went for a good brisk walk. Nothing like a good brisk walk."

This, I suppose, is what happened to thousands of men Sunday. They smoked their way through all the cigarettes in the house while they were watching the games, found the wife had taken the car and had to use their legs to get to the corner store to lay in a fresh supply of smokes.

The situation is one which my favorite philosopher, Dr. Pangloss, would have rationalized admirably— the business of having to walk instead of taking the family car to the corner. The erudite doctor would have pointed out that had nature intended man to walk, rather than ride, it would not have endowed the human frame with such an admirable built-in cushion on which to sit, nor the creative genius to invent the car.

And to support Dr. Pangloss, a little research could have produced the words of an eminent American university figure, who said that whenever he felt a sudden urge to violent exercise, he merely lay down for a while and the urge passed away. Or, again, he might have quoted Churchill: Never stand when you can sit. Never sit when you can lie down.

* * *

Classical pronouncement such as these are a joy to men such as I when we try to justify our physical inertia.

And yet:

There's something not quite right about this type of reasoning. I have never learned to appreciate the husky, hairy-chested, red-blooded type who shakes hands with you and brings you to your knees with one crushing grip. Nor do I admire his variant who slaps you on the back with such force that he separates your ribs from the cartilage holding them in place.

At the same time, I've felt physically more comfortable than I do today when I used to keep my so-called muscles in reasonably good tone. I don't want to be a nut on Muscle Beach. On the other hand, I'd prefer to be able to lift myself up from a sitting position without the creaking comparable to the audible strains of rigging when a sailboat responds to a stiff breeze.

So, in an academic way at least, I'm for physical fitness.

The day is past, I believe, when I'll strip into shorts and a sweatshirt in the dark of late evening and go out running for the sake of running. The exultation which once possessed me when I followed this course has dried up. And it's very doubtful if I'll ever pursue the particular calisthenics by which I once tried to make my back so supple that I could bring my forehead down onto my thighs just above my knees—a nice position for somersaults in the air when you're diving.

I'm still several seconds off a four-minute mile and I don't want to challenge the Russians on the flying rings, the long horse, the horizontal bar or the parallels.

* * *

It should be possible, though, for me to do a few leg lifting exercises, from flat on my back, once I overcome the inclination to fall asleep when I recline. And maybe if I place a cushion under my face I could do push-ups. My nose is not the type which benefits from crashing down when my arms give way.

A whole lot of people, in the years to come, will have to take something more than my academic interest in fitness. Sunday, for instance, 63,000 partially filled the 93,000 seat stadium where the super bowl was played. Millions sat at home and watched it on TV, acquiring stiff backs, like my phys-ed friend. With the omnipresence of cars, we don't even have to walk to the arena, as Romans did on their way down.

We're going to have increasing leisure, perhaps from the cradle to the grave, and the journey is going to be shorter, or bumpier as far as health is concerned, if we don't keep some elasticity in sinews and some clearance in the inside diameters of our arteries.

We'll have to learn how to stay physically fit, even if the capacity for exercise is endowed with life. You don't think it is? I watch a few grandchildren burning up enough energy to put a rocket through space to the moon, and I'm convinced we were meant to exercise and are born with the inclination. Then, when I've watched the tads whipping around the house and the yard, I go upstairs and lie down. Tiring, you know.

Trudeau's 'Task Force' Works on Constitution

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA—It's still all very tentative—and very secretive — but a task force of senior politicians may eventually give Canada a new constitution to replace the century-old British North America Act.

What's important about the group, now proceeding under the guidance of Pierre-Elliot Trudeau, the prime minister's parliamentary assistant and one of the country's top constitutional lawyers, is not just that they're considering the formal drafting of a new constitution. The many talented individuals involved hope that out of their searching examination will finally come a new and viable concept of Canadian federalism. They also want to project for Ottawa a defensible position of its own, for the time when the federal authority is challenged by the constitutional demands of Ontario and Quebec, the two provinces that now have similar studies under way.

Newman

In recent years, our federal administrations have shown such a marked lack of leadership in national affairs that they have never been able to demonstrate to Canadians just what kind of society it is they want to govern. By probing the very core of our nationahood and trying to divine what's wrong with the existing division of power, the members of Trudeau's study group hope to come up with a new formula for national progress.

Three Steps

Instead of sitting down to draft a document that could be presented to the provinces as a suggested replacement for the BNA Act, they are approaching the problem in three separate and careful steps. First, they want to achieve a clear perception of the goals of the central government. Secondly, they are trying to examine how these goals might be achieved on an ad hoc basis under the present distribution of powers. And then—but only then—how the constitution itself might be changed.

"We want to find out first what federalism should be, and how it is now inhibited, and then discuss how to change it," Trudeau told me in an interview this week.

"Once we define our concept of what central governments should have the power to do, it's likely that provincial governments will have opposing views," he said. "On the ownership of the off-shore mineral rights, for example—there will have to be some mechanism for solving differences and ideally it should be a tribunal which owes its existence to the constitution itself rather than to a federal statute."

What Trudeau suggests in practical terms is the establishment of a constitutional court (presumably with justices appointed by the provinces as well as the federal government) to deal with all constitutional problems—a court unlike the Supreme Court where all the judges are appointed by Ottawa.

Replacement

This body would really be a replacement for the judicial committee of the U.K. Privy Council which until 1949 was Canada's final court of appeal.

Trudeau expresses some impatience with the federal government's current immobility which finds Ottawa allowing provincial premiers to attack the validity of Supreme Court decisions.

"It would be better for the federal government to be thinking about practical alternatives, rather than letting provincial premiers keep declaring that they won't be bound by the constitutional decisions of the Supreme Court," he says.

In support of the kind of initiative Trudeau's group is taking, Prof. Maxwell Cohen, dean of McGill's law school, recently called for the development of "acceptable principles around which some structure of a redesigned federalism can be discussed, and perhaps, created." Cohen believes that what's wrong with the BNA Act is that it's "unrelated to the mid-twentieth century Quebec-Canadian reality . . . which demands some new description of the way Canada is to function as a country."

Trudeau and his brain trust are only making a small beginning on a huge undertaking, but at least the group's existence gives Ottawa a chance at being able to seize the initiative in the bargaining with the provinces that will set the pattern of Canadian nationhood for the next hundred years.

GALLUP POLL

Most Candidates Favor Stricter Small Gun Law

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

In Canada and the United States, during the past year, there has been a boom in the sale of guns. In neither country is there any law that requires a police permit before a person can buy a gun.

If you went across the country, knocking on doors, a large segment of the public would say there should be more restriction put upon gun purchasers. Nearly nine-in-ten adults say they would favor a law calling for police permits before a gun can be bought. Only one-in-ten are against such a law.

In the U.S. a lesser ratio of people (68 per cent) favor the registration of new guns and 29 per cent oppose it.

The question: "Would you favor or oppose a law which would require a person to obtain a police permit before he or she could buy a gun?"

	U.S.	Canada
Yes, favor	68%	86%
Oppose	29	12
No opinion	3	2
	100%	100%

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed, and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Dog Licences and Regulations

Males and Spayed Females $3.00 up to March 31st — $4.00 thereafter

Females $5.00 up to March 31st — $6.00 thereafter

Dog licences may be obtained at the Police Office, Municipal Hall, and are available at a number of local grocery stores in the Municipality.

The following are some of the regulations regarding the keeping of dogs:

1. The dog tag must be affixed to the collar worn by the dog.
2. No dog shall be allowed to be at large in the Municipality unless accompanied by and under the effective control of the person in charge thereof or unless it is led or confined on a leash.
3. No dog shall be allowed on any public beach, in any park, commercial area or public building unless on a leash.
4. No dog shall be allowed to bark persistently so as to disturb the quiet and peace of the neighborhood.
5. Penalties are provided for infractions of the above regulations and, in addition, any licensed dog not under control of the person in charge thereof or any unlicensed dog will be impounded.

J. B. TRIBE,
Collector.

IWA Joins Gold River 'Rush'

MOORE
. . . new ground

The huge International Woodworkers of America is making a unique bid to gain certification for pulp mill employees at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Two other unions are also seeking bargaining rights at the mill, now under construction—the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and its rival, the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

●

No date for a hearing into the three bids has been set by the Labour Relations Board.

The IWA, biggest union in B.C. is strongly organized in certain sections of the forest industry such as logging and the manufacture of lumber, plywood and shingles.

But the pulp and paper field is new ground for the IWA. Regional president Jack Moore declined comment on the reason behind the move.

The IWA already holds certification for logging and sawmill operations of the Tahsis Company in the area and seeks to extend this to the pulp mill, which has only about 50 permanent employees at present.

Orville Braaten, president of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, said he is surprised at the IWA move. He called it ridiculous and said his union has already signed up 70 per cent of the present employees.

He doubted the Labour Relations Board would accede to the IWA bid and added he was surprised at the IWA because "many of their locals have been very friendly to our organization and we feel we have been on good terms with the IWA."

1,200 STUDENTS EXPECTED

$11 Million Price Tag For Regional College

An estimated price tag of about $11,000,000 has been placed on the proposed Vancouver Island regional college near Nanaimo.

The estimate was quoted to the Vancouver Island Regional College Co-ordinating Committee by Dexter, Bush & Associates, the architectural firm that was responsible for the recently opened Selkirk College, at Castlegar.

Dr. Roy MacMillan of Nanaimo, who heads the co-ordinating committee, said the actual cost to taxpayers in the regional college disatrict would be only $4,335,000 when federal and provincial grants are taken into account.

1,200 STUDENTS

Dr. MacMillan said the cost of building students' residences is not included in the estimate because funds for this purpose are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

He said the cost estimate is based on an enrolment of 1,200 students.

The regional college district includes the nine school districts north of the Malahat. Provided the department of education approves, ratepayers in these districts will be asked in a plebiscite this spring if they favor inclusion in the regional college district.

BYLAW VOTE

A regional college council would then be established, supposing ratepayers approve, and a money bylaw would follow in the regional district.

Dr. Leonard Marsh, a University of B.C. profesor, has recommended that the main campus of the proposed college be built within a 10-mile radius of a point six miles north of Nanaimo, with a branch campus in the Courtenay-Campbell River area.

Dr. MacMillan said that if "all steps fall into place" construction of the college could begin in fall 1968 and the first students could be admitted the following year.

ISLAND DIGEST

BRAIDNER

Rescue Man Speaks Here

Air rescue work off the west coast of Vancouver Island will be described by Sgt. R. E. Braidner, RCAF, at a combined meeting of the RCAF Association and the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 8 p.m.

The meeting will take place in 800 Pacific Wing headquarters, 105 Wilson Street.

A specialist in parachute rescue work, Sgt. Braidner is a senior NCO at the Rescue Coordination Centre in Vancouver. He will tell of his most dramatic experiences and show a film of an actual aircraft search.

Born at Chilliwack, he joined the RCAF in 1941 and, after war service, spent some time testing equipment in the Arctic. In January, 1947, he was one of 21 men selected for the first pararescue school at Jasper, Alta.

They were trained to parachute to a crash and give first-aid in all kinds of emergencies including amputation if necessary.

Color TV Stolen

The thieves, who broke in through a side window, took a remote control color TV set and other household articles including a sterling silverware set.

Value of the stolen goods is $2,000.

Hospital Equipment Hikes Rate

A $25,121 addition to the 1967 provisional budget has been announced to cover the cost of new equipment for the hospital.

The sum will increase the provisional budget to $4,215,677 from the original figure of $4,190,556.

Ald. Jack Parker, who announced the increase, called the hospital equipment "an extraordinary expenditure."

The addition is "in no way contrary to the assurances given to the electors at the time of the passing of the capital loan bylaw."

The addition to the provisional budget was made despite the fact that it should be shouldered by the provincial government, in the opinion of Nanaimo's finance committe.

But Nanaimo hospital patients should not be penalized by the government's failure to meet its responsibility, said. Ald. Parker.

Legion Names New Officers

DUNCAN — Don Williamson has been installed president of Cowichan branch No. 53 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

DOCK WINS HIGHWAYS APPROVAL

Construction of a CPR truck-trailer terminal dock at Swartz Bay has been approved by the B.C. Highways Department.

The department's approval paves the way for construction of a wharf alongside the B.C. Ferry Authority complex for the unloading and loading of freight to and from the island.

North Saanich council is expected to approve the rezoning of the CPR property, adjoining and situated to the east of the ferry wharf.

"We have asked the CPR for plans and specifications before passing a bylaw approving the project," said Reeve J. B. Cumming.

Originally the CPR sought to establish its wharf at Swartz Head, situated further to the east.

But North Saanich and the Capital Region Planning Board opposed the scheme because it would encroach on a waterfront residential district.

The CRPB in a report said there would be advantages and economies in a co-ordinated BCFA-CPR approach to overall terminal operation.

It pointed out that access and parking areas could be interconnected and that engineering benefits would accrue."

Teen Town Launches New Drive

DUNCAN — Teen Town is rolling again.

They want to build a $26,000 hall on a site adjoining Cowichan Exhibition at Pioneer Park — a site given them by North Cowichan municipality.

Teen Town has $7,000 at present.

The talent show will be headed by Duncan's own rock 'n roll outfit, The Serfs.

Duncan Drama Club, which hopes to share the proposed hall, will contribute a skit.

Mr. Quaife said: "These artists will work for nothing more than the applause and all proceeds will go toward Teen Town's building fund."

MERCHANTS HELP

Entries are confined to Teen Town members and a panel of out-of-town judges will make their selection Feb. 25.

Contestants will be judged from the standpoint of poise, talent, speech and personality.

The crowing ceremony of the queen and princesses will take place at a teen dance to be held in Duncan elementary school gym.

Northern Peninsula Site Urged for New Hospital

The remedy is elementary.

But getting the necessary prescription from provincial and federal governments is a difficult operation as two peninsula groups pointed out Tuesday.

In his inaugural address to Central Saanich Council, Reeve Gordon Lee objected to a proposal to construct a 100-bed hospital in the 10-mile radius from Victoria.

He said it should be built further north — 12 or 15 miles from the city.

And at Sidney Chamber of Commerce meeting, chairman W. J. Larnick lamented: "We have tried for three years to get some action on a new hospital in the region.

"But still all we get is word that consulting engineers have been hired to study the problem.

URGENT NEED

"The need is urgent and I think the officers of Resthaven Hospital (Sidney) would agree that its life span has almost reached its end."

"We have the nursing and administration facilities. All we need is the equipment."

As things stand, Greater Victoria Hospital Planning Commission has recommended a hospital be built at Royal Oak or Elk Lake.

It will go ahead when the capital region municipalities and government reach agreement on a cost-sharing formula.

Back at Central Saanich, Reeve Lee commented; "I'm not lobbying for Central Saanich. But in selecting a site, more attention must be given to the anticipated poulation growth of Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney."

He urged residents in the north half of the peninsula to make every effort to have the hospital situated further north.

OVERFLOW

"The hospital would not only serve our northern needs, but would also take care of overflow from the Greater Victoria area," he said.

North Saanich reeve J. B. Cumming and Sidney mayor Arthur Freeman have also indicated they want the hospital north of Elk Lake.

Of the existing Resthaven Hospital, Chamber of Commerce delegate H. E. Rasmussen, who is also a Sidney alderman, suggested it could be used as a chronic hospital.

He accused the provincial government of putting city hospitals higher on the priority list than those in rural areas.

The question was handed over to a chamber sub-committee for study and prearation of a report to be presented at next month's meeting.

FIRM WINS DELAY ON REZONING BID

The firm of Dillabough and Luney Ltd., owners of the Esquimalt Road property to be rezoned, claimed the property value would be halved by the legislation.

Known as the old Island Weavers' property, the two lots at 820 Esquimalt Road were to switch from indstrial to multiple dwelling, part of a move to eliminate spot zoning in Esquimalt.

But if the rezoning is done "what you're going to leave us is a pig in a poke," contractor W. B. Dillabough told council.

NOISE BYLAW

Plans to sell the property to a drive-in restaurant chain had already fallen through when Esquimalt's anti-noise bylaw was passed last November, he said.

The contracting firm had not been told any zoning changes were planned when they purchased the property last year, he said.

The contracting firm would get a "square deal" only if the municipality bought back the property, said contractor A. G. Luney.

Council postponed a vote on the bylaw, scheduled for later in the meeting, until the firm's lawyer could discuss the matter with council.

Seven lots on Viewfield Road will also be rezoned from multiple dwelling to industrial, to conform to similar zoning across the street.

A public hearing will be held at 7:15 p.m. Jan. 30 at the municipal hall.

Sooke Woman Fined $75 For Shoplifting

A 61-year-old Sooke woman who admitted shoplifting at The Bay Monday was fined $75 Tuesday.

Mrs. Florence Acreman of 6848 Sooke Rd. spent the night in jail before appearing in central court this morning.

A store detective told of watching her take three skeins of wool, a bra and a package of cheese from the store without paying for them.

The goods were worth $6.11. Mrs. Acreman had $41 in cash in her purse when arrested, court was told.

"I don't know why I did it, I'm sure," she told the magistrate.

Seven Nominated For Farm Board

DUNCAN—Seven local farmers have been nominated for seats on the board of directors of Cowichan Agricultural Society.

Out of the seven, five will be chosen at the 99th annual meeting in Tzouhalem Hotel at Duncan on Jan. 28.

Speaker at the meeting will be district agriculturalist Ken Jameson.

Also this month, CAS president Henry Westwick will attend an emergency measures course at Arnprior, Ont., Jan. 22 to 27 in connection with farm and livestock protection during emergencies.

RECORD

The society learned from a report on artificial insemination that in 1966, an all-time record number of cows — 3,776 — received the service.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan attended the January meeting to discuss a number of rural problems.

He advocated some form of local government for all areas in B.C., describing Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's regional districts as "a first faltering step in the right direction."

Mr. Strachan said all taxpayers should have a local body to which they could take their complaints.

On the problem of flooding in Cowichan Valley, Mr. Strachan said he believed the federal government would take action to relieve the threat.

LIQUOR, FIRE BLAMED IN NANAIMO DEATHS

NANAIMO (CP)—The deaths of a Nanaimo couple in a December 28 house fire were termed natural and accidental by a coroner's jury Tuesday.

James Demitroff, 50, died of natural causes due to excess alcohol intake complicated by two diseases, the jury ruled.

Joint Attack Set By Municipalities On Freight Rates

The Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee will launch a two-pronged attack to hold down freight rates between the Island and mainland.

● A strong brief be prepared for presentation to the B.C. Public Utilities Commission.

● And that the provincial government be requested to increase or at least maintain a regular ferry freight service between the Island and the mainland.

A special sub-committee of the intermunicipal group will be struck to recommend how intense the preparation of the brief should be.

BIG JOB

Victoria city council solicitor T. P. O'Grady said the preparation of such a brief could be a major undertaking of many weeks.

"It would depend on what depth you wanted the brief," he said. "But it would be no light task."

The committee agreed a letter should be written to the PUC immediately informing it a strong argument against a proposed increase in truck freght rates is being prepared.

The committee also decided to write Premier W. A. C. Bennett and the B. C. Ferry Authority protesting any suggestion that freight trucks be banned from government ferries.

'FOR THE PEOPLE'

The premier has said on more than one occasion that the ferries are for the people," said Reeve Curtis. "Well, people use commodities and this threatened withdrawal of services for freight trucks could well be more important than the proposed freight rate boost."

The committee also will ask the premier for a face-to-face confrontation.

Chamber of Commerce president Courtney Haddock, present to advance the views of the Chamber, said he felt the committee should take an even stronger line with the provincial government.

"I think the approach should be in the form of a request for a cut in freight rates," he said. "We would like to see a downward trend. I am sure the government could run a low freight-rate operation if it ran the ferry service at night for trucks only. They could be operated by a skeleton crew and leave the days for passengers.

"If the government withdraws from the freight service and rates go up it will work against our local people."

UNITED PROTEST

Reeve Curtis touched off the discussion when in a letter circulated to all committee members he called for a united protest against the rate-boost proposal and asked for support for an appeal to government.

The committee was unanimous in its decision that a strong stand be taken.

Morton Backs Co-ordinated Rate Protest

Reeve Morton said: "I agree with the mayor it is pointless to go to the Public Utilities Commission and protest without a prepared submission showing cost analysis and other data."

The reeve said a postponement of the Jan. 23 deadline for objections would provide time to prepare a protest brief.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and wheat prices were weak but other grain futures on the Chicago board of trade were mostly firm today.

Corn had good support from commercial interests and export houses. Blustery weather in the livestock producing areas of the United States suggested increased use of corn as animal feed.

Oats and rye were easy in continued light trade. Soybean oil and meal prices were mixed.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds provided most of the moderate trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Prices were firm in evidence of export trade.

Rye was active in export demand.

Oats and barley trade was light in routine domestic trade.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Vancouver Trading Heavy

Trading was heavy on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today with more than 900,000 shares changing hands by noon.

Industrials were generally strong with Cominco and MacMillan Bloedel up .50 and Steel of Canada $3.50 better at $22.50.

The mining section saw Bata trade 234,000 shares for a gain of .04 to .49.

Highmont was .08 better at $1.86 but Madrona dropped .07 to .95 and Dynasty dipped .15 to $8.10.

Bank stocks which led a rise on the Toronto market Tuesday were off today on news that the United States is planning restrictive legislation for foreign banks operating in that country.

AT TORONTO Bank of Nova Scotia lost 2½ to 67½, Toronto-Dominion and Imperial-Commerce 1⅝ each, to 63. Bank of Montreal, whose proposal for a stock split first sent bank stocks soaring, lost ⅝ to 59½.

Western oils were slightly stronger. Dome Petroleum and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas each gained ⅛, to 42⅞ and 28¼ respectively. Scurry-Rainbow added ¾ to 21¾. Central Del-Rio lost ½ to 14¾.

Among base metals Denison rose ¼ to 58 and Noranda ¾ to 54½. Inco lost ⅞ to 93½ and Campbell Chibougamau added 25 cents to 7.45 with news that it plans to develop an ore body in Roy Township, Que.

AT NEW YORK Studebaker, up about 1½, looked like the most active issue. Motorola rose about four, IBM and Ferox about two each.

Polaroid lost about three points, Boeing was off a fraction despite an order for $32,000,000 worth of jets.

AT MONTREAL banking issues hit a decline but most other sections moved fractionally higher.

Canadian Pacific added 1⅛ points, while other Canadians were about a point better. International Nickel remained unchanged.

Canadian banks drew strength from improvement in transatlantic markets Tuesday. Canadian Imperial Bank added 1⅞ points, Montreal 1¾, and Royal Bank of Canada 1½. Toronto Dominion and Nova Scotia were each a point higher.

Credit Unions Considering Own Bank

OTTAWA (CP) — The credit unions asked a Commons committee Tuesday to consider leaving the way open for them to form a co-operatively owned chartered bank in line with credit union principles.

Such a bank might be formed in future, credit union witnesses said, although they have no immediate plans.

It might be owned by credit unions or by the central organizations of credit unions in several provinces.

Its directors would be elected by the credit unions owning it and, instead of shareholders having one vote for each common share held, its owners would have power based on the credit union principle of the member, one vote.

And instead of distributing its profits as dividends to shareholders on the basis of their shareholdings, its profits would go out as patronage refunds, distributed on the basis of the business done by or for each of its owners.

Hydro Agrees To Supply Mill Power

HAZELTON (CP) — B.C. Hydro has agreed to supply emergency power to Hazelton Sawmill Ltd. where 225 men have been out of work since Dec. 31 when the company's own diesel generator burned out.

Dudley Little, Social Credit MLA for Skeena, said he learned of hydro's plans to supply a mobile power unit to the mill in a conversation with Forest Minister Williston.

Mr. Little said the spare power unit coupled with additional power available in the area would allow the mill to resume full production.

The mill is the largest employer in the Hazelton area and civic leaders had forecast an emergency situation in the community if the mill remained closed.

Insurance Leaders Meet Sharp

OTTAWA (CP) — Substantial reform in the laws and regulations applying to general insurance companies was discussed today by Finance Minister Sharp and 10 executives of major firms in the business.

A spokesman for the insurance men said they are "very largely in agreement" with Mr. Sharp on ways to improve the security of policy holders.

The meeting was called in the light of the failure of the North American General Insurance Co. But the group told Mr. Sharp the failure was "simply an incident."

The minister had previously described it as a case of securities theft.

Public confidence in general insurance companies was unshaken, the executives said. They told Mr. Sharp they had detected no effect on their business.

Both sides advanced proposals. The companies suggested higher capital requirements for new companies and federal scrutiny of management of these companies.

Canada Must Develop Continental Economy

Canada in its next 100 years must develop both a continental economy and grow as a nation, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

Speaking to a meeting of Victoria Administrative Management Association, Mr. Bonner said the first 100 years of Confederation had been built on "inward-looking policies of Ontario, which made the rest of Canada its market."

But this situation is changing, partly with the emergence of B.C. as an exporter and money earner.

British Columbia industry last year exceeded Ontario by paying its workers 113 per cent of the national average against 108 per cent in Ontario, he said.

The attorney-general said wages are a ready measure of prosperity.

B.C. had been able to improve its position by exporting in large quantities to the U.S., Japan, the U.K., and in growing degree to Common Market countries of Europe.

But allowing the two principal economic centres of the country to flourish would perpetuate the fixed lines delineating Canada's economic regions, Mr. Bonner said.

MAJOR ISSUES

"In the next 100 years the issues of continentalism or confinement are the issues we will have to face," he said.

It is not academic that Canada is involved in the North American economy: it is fact.

There must be free access to the world money market in New York, he said, in order to finance the projects such as Peace and Columbia River power development to help industrial growth.

He said vastly more money must be earned by Canadians in order to provide government with the money its policies require and are going to require in the near future.

"We've got to come a long way up to meet continental standards," Mr. Bonner said.

The nation is still just a step out of the bush, "a few days down the road from pioneer times and the problems of overcoming natural difficulty are still with us.

"We should be seeking more financing, more investment, more people from abroad," he said.

Canadians can not be insensitive to U. S. policy changes, and they must face facts, Mr. Bonner said.

One fact is that the U. K. lumber market today provides tough competition for B. C. with the growing strength of Baltic and Russian sources.

He said notwithstanding Canada's closeness to Britain, "the fact remains they buy on price and they buy on delivery, neither of which are due to be altered by blood or patriotism. We are in a very cold world as far as international competition is concerned."

Mr. Bonner referred briefly to proposed legislation expected to be included in the throne speech at next week's opening of the legislature, following a "need to strengthen public confidence in investing institutions."

He said the province is entering a period of objectiveness rather than old-fashioned partisan politics, which although interesting often makes it difficult to "cut through the dialectic."

He observed that "politics seems to have become a spectator sport."

BUSINESS VIEWS

New Interest In B.C. Coal

By AB KENT
Business Editor

If history repeats itself, B. C. may be restored as an important coal producer.

KENT

It was this facet of early provincial economy that played a large part in the creation of B.C. as a political entity, the focus then being on the coal fields of Vancouver Island.

Today just one company is responsible for virtually all the coal produced in the province—Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company with its Michel collieries.

Last fall two new companies expressed interest in the Dominion Coal Lands of southeastern B. C., their intention to mine coal for the Japanese market.

This week a third and fourth company came to light with applications and notice of application for coal licences in the Kootenay land district.

They also have their sights on the Japanese coking market.

The first two were companies incorporated in B. C.; the latest in the field are headquartered outside the province — Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas Ltd., and McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd.

CP. Oil and Gas, part of the CPR industrial complex, has applied to the minister of mines for about 51 licences covering several thousand acres in the Elk and Fording River coal fields.

McIntyre Porcupine, with major metal mining interests in northern Ontario and Quebec, has further interests in North West Territories and abroad.

It has given notice that it intends to apply for 54 coal licences in the same two Kootenay fields.

A number of Victoria service station operators have boosted their gasoline retail prices by one cent per gallon, a move forecast in December, and finally made with some reluctance.

The step puts the price of premium gasoline at some stations within one cent of the price of regular gas at other stations.

It also makes the overall price spread at Victoria service stations nine cents — from 39.9 to 48.9 cents.

A bit of shopping around discloses no change in cut-rate prices of 39.9 for regular and 44.9 for premium grade. Popular prices on north Douglas appear to be uniformly 41.9 for regular and 46.9 for premium, except for a department store outlet.

Previously, other stations commonly held at 42.9 for regular and 47.9 for premium, some of which remain, leaving the new top range 43.9 and 48.9 cents per gallon.

One operator explained the rise as due partly to .2 of a cent increase in wholesale price from the oil companies, and partly because of rising operating costs.

A new ship loader having maximum capacity of 4,500 tons per hour will give Vancouver Wharves Ltd. ability to load bulk vessels of up to 70,000 tons deadweight without changing berthing position.

The move for which $1.55 million orders are being placed, will increase the North Vancouver terminal facility from 5½ million to 8 million tons annual capacity.

Dredging of berths to a depth of 42 feet (new harbor datum) will also take place.

Improvements come at a time when deepsea loading facilities are being pressed to maximum use at Canada's busiest port.

British Columbia ranks third among seven Canadian regions reporting commercial failures in the first nine months last year.

The actual number was 61, followed closely by Alberta's 60, but topped easily by 808 in Ontario and 1,310 in Quebec.

There were 68 B. C. failures in the corresponding period of 1965, when B. C. was in fourth place, behind Alberta with 81.

Defaulted liabilities involved last year in the period in this province came to $6.8 million, compared with $7.4 million the year before.

Most frequent type of failure is the construction business, followed by service industries, manufacturing and the field of automotive products.

B. C. showed the second highest average liability per failure, exceeded only by the Atlantic region: $111,600 compared with $171,000.

The statistics were published by the Canadian Credit Men's Association Ltd., which said a large number of failures were brought about through the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp.

Japan Gov't Approves B.C. Project

TOKYO (Reuters)—A plan to build a large pulp manufacturing plant in British Columbia through a Japanese-Canadian joint venture has been approved by the Japanese government, the Honshu Paper Manufacturing Company Ltd. said today. The plan, currently going through a routine check by the Bank of Japan following formal approval by a joint conference of Japanese investment of $32,560,000, Honshu said.

Honshu and the Mitsubishi Trading Co., a leading Japanese trading house, are jointly to acquire 52 per cent of the capital stock of the Crestbrook Timber Co., which operates a number of saw mills in the Shokumchuk district of southeastern British Columbia.

WILL PROVIDE LOAN

In addition, the two Japanese firms will supply the joint venture with a long-term loan of $24,510,000, borrowed from the Export-Import Bank of Japan and commercial Japanese banks.

This will be the fourth largest Japanese investment overseas since the end of the Second World War, Honshu said.

Honshu said work would start soon on the construction of the pulp manufacturing plant to be completed by November, 1968.

The plant will have a capacity to produce 110,000 tons of bleached kraft pulp a year initially, which will be doubled and tripled by stages in future, Honshu said.

Honshu said the Japanese-Canadian interests acquired the rights to fell standing woods in an area of 7,450,000 acres last August.

Joint Certification In Shipyard Opposed

But they have run into stiff opposition from the single union which represents all workers at the yard—the Shipwrights, Joiners and Wood Caulkers Industrial Union, Local 9.

The move for joint certification encompassing a number of unions was initiated by the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, said business agent Neil Hindle.

An application signed by eight or nine craft unions is in the hands of the Labour Relations Board. A decision is not expected immediately pending the usual investigation.

OPTIMISTIC

"We feel very optimistic the board will grant joint certification in view of the fact they did so at other yards," he said.

This was a reference to the Labour Relatons Board decision to reduce the 36 individual union certifications at Victoria Machinery Depot, Yarrows, and Burrard Dry Dock to one certification at each yard.

But in these cases, more than one union at each yard held a certification whereas the shipwrights hold the only the only certification at McKay Cormack.

Shipwrights spokesman Don Douglas said his union has "opposed strongly" the move by other unions.

He called it a violation of the Canadian Labour Congres constitution by interfering with the bargaining relationship of a fellow affiliate. A protest has been lodged with the CLC.

'Lookit Those Blankety-Blank Indians, Standing in Court'

EDDIE SHORE

TORONTO (CP)—Look at all those blankety-blank Indians.

It may be the last time you'll ever see them.

Eagleson was to leave here early today to meet the Springfield players in Hershey, Pa., where they are scheduled to play against the Bears tonight.

"I am hoping to call a meeting of all the owners of the American League to spell it out to them why these boys are going to quit rather than continue with Shore," Eagleson said. "It is only right they should know exactly what has been going on."

The team walked out on Shore in December after four members were suspended but returned without missing a scheduled game on Eagleson's advice.

"When the team . . . ended their strike just before Christmas, I told them to hold on until Jan. 20 in the hope Shore would mend his ways," Eagleson said Tuesday. "Now they have called me to say they can't take any more."

He said the situation has become so intolerable that the players would rather quit and wait for the result of court action in order to prevent future players from coming under Shore's control.

"I am confident they would win the case, but it will take time," he said.

Eagleson says he will ask Jack Butterfield, president of the American Hockey League, to disqualify himself as an arbitrator in a dispute between the Indians and the owner.

"I have written Butterfield and suggested he disqualify himself," Eagleson said Tuesday night.

"He works for Shore and is therefore hung on a conflict of interests.

"I have asked him to appoint a neutral body like the other AHL governors."

Butterfield is chairman of the board of governors and general manager of the Springfield club.

Since the December walkout by 23 players, Mike Corbett and goaltender Jacques Caron have both been suspended for what Shore said was "indifferent play."

Eagleson said Caron was suspended for not being capable of performing an intricate skating routine in practice and found himself $400 short in his pay Jan. 15.

"It's hard to believe, but Shore Sr. now is insisting the players should sit on the ice for 20 minutes, kicking their legs in the air," Eagleson said.

"When Roger Cote protested and said they were risking pneumonia, he was suspended for arguing."

Shore, and all-star defenceman with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League in the 1930s, earned a reputation of never giving up. He has been rated as one of the toughest and most talented NHL defenceman of all time.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

LOS ANGELES—In the Super Bowl game on Sunday it was established that the National Football League type of play is better than that of Brand X. It was also determined that the Super Bowl game will not be played again in Los Angeles, where 30,000 empty seats were staring the panjandrums of pro football in their embarrassed faces.

Pete Rozelle, the NFL commissioner, admitted that there had been a miscalculation in thinking the 93,000-seat Coliseum would be sold out for the Super Bowl. The game got a bad press out here in response to public resentment of the local television blackout, and ticket sales were slowed accordingly. Also, the bulk of the seats in the $10 locations were not good ones and they were overpriced.

The apathy of California fans was a switch from the NFL title game a fortnight before in Dallas, where all 65,000 tickets were snapped up in six hours after being put on sale. Rozelle didn't dictate Los Angeles as the site of Sunday's game. He got a consensus of both the NFL and AFL owners before he named it. He warned them that no local team was involved and that could hurt the ticket sale, but he also predicted it would sell out, and he was so wrong.

Gate Receipts Didn't Even Pay Help

The total gate receipts will not be known for several days but what is known are a couple of facts that may be baffling to most businessmen. Here they had the biggest game in the history of pro football and the gate receipts didn't come close to paying the help. In a bust of generosity, Rozelle had announced that winning players would get $15,000 for this one, losing players $7,500, getting league approval for this.

The game grossed more than $700,000, but nevertheless was insufficient to meet the payroll. The 52 shares for both the winners and losers added up to $1,170,000. The Coliseum was scaled for a bit more than one million dollars and the rest would come out of the television fees of two million. But it was not presumed that 30,000 of the 93,000 seats would not be sold or the deficit would approximate $500,000.

Los Angeles fans didn't rally to the game for several reasons. They knew that 30,000 seats were in poor locations. Also, Los Angeles is a retirement community, not to be confused with the twin resort town of Miami, where the dollar is less carefully guarded by the mid-January population that is heavily salted with good-time-Charley tourists. Miami and its 83,000-seat Orange Bowl is a cinch to get the next Super Bowl game.

The contest itself was no blow to future Super Bowls. For one half, Kansas City was demonstrating that they play good football, too, in the AFL. Len Dawson and his cohorts had the Packers groping for some way to lick them and NFL partisans were not all certain that Green Bay's 14-10 lead in the first half would stand up.

Orange Bowl Cinch To Get Next One

As long as the Chiefs were within striking distance of the Packers' skimpy lead they were spreading alarm among the Packers' defence men. Until the Packers made it 28-10 in the third quarter and Dawson was stripped of his running play fakes, the Chiefs' quarterback had the Green Bay pass rushers chasing rainbows, so befuddled were they by the KC movable pocket from which he threw.

The Packers couldn't find him and were looking like oafs on their pass rush.

There no longer can be scorn for the personnel of the AFL champions. Indvidually there were many on the KC team who were superior to the Packers, but their unit play wasn't. The Packers' big edge was in their defensive secondary and in the quarterbacking. Bart Starr never lost his cool and was completing passes while in the clutches of blitzing predators. Dawson sort of fell apart and lost his poise after Willie Wood grabbed off his third quarter interception for a 50-yard return that set up the score that made it 21-10.

If that one wasn't the back-breaker, the Packers' next touchdown was. This was when Starr showed AFL how he was the true master of the third-down challenge, keeping a Packer drive alive by hitting Max McGee for 16 yards and then connecting with McGee again for 13 yards and a touchdown.

Mingling With Packers Is No Fun

During that same drive, on third and three, Starr switched from his third-down pass pattern to send Jim Taylor around left end on a sweep. That is when the Chiefs learned about Taylor and his persevering 215 pounds. Andy Rice, 260-pound KC tackle had the Packer fullback in a firm grip, it seemed and was throwing him for a loss, but that is only what Rice seemed to be doing. Taylor broke the tackle and went on to get not only the three yards needed for the first down but five yards more.

This was pointed out after the game by Buddy Young, the Baltimore Colts' super scout, who used to specialize in such runs himself. "They always think of Jim Taylor as a hard-hitting fullback, but he can turn a corner as quick as any halfback in the league," said Young, "only Jim Brown can do it better".

It was a very good football game for one half, and that fact will tide the AFL over until next year when its champion will have another crack at the NFL champs. Kansas City may well have beaten any NFL team except the Packers on Sunday, and that will sustain Super Bowl interest. But the AFL learned that one doesn't mingle with the Packers and find happiness.

Montreal Club Names Dalton as Head Coach

Dalton, commonly known as O. K. Dalton, takes over from Darrell Mudra with a three-year contract. He was the Als' defensive coach last season and, at 34, becomes the youngest head coach in the Canadian Football League.

Mudra broke a three-year contract with the Als to take over the head coaching position at the University of Arizona in Tucson and Alouette President Joe Atwell said the board authorized the club's solicitor to dismiss Mudra and to take any legal action the lawyers see fit.

"A contract is a contract and it's about time we started treating them as one," Atwell said.

Asked about assistants, Dalton said he interviewed eight or 10 at a recent coaches' meeting in Houston, Tex., and thought it likely he would draw from this group to assist himself and holdover assistant Ralph Goldston in running the club.

The Als last season finished with a seven-seven record before being eliminated by Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the eastern Grey Cup semi-final.

By HAL MALONE

There's one in town, however, who has no objection to holding a girl's hand but also—alors!—doesn't mind wading through traffic.

His name is Michael Laughton. He's six-one, 188, and if you want to test him in figure eights or throwing an elbow, you had better be prepared for the worst.

Mike Laughton is a centre with Victoria Maple Leafs and a rookie. He may not be the best centre in the Western Hockey League but he may be the best rookie.

Three weeks ago after Portland Buckaroos had managed to get by Victoria by the length of coach Hal Laycoe's nose, Laycoe thumbed a program and said "Where have they been hiding this Laughton?"

In Laycoe language this was not a lefthanded compliment. Coaches notice—and ask about—people on other teams who (a) impress them, (b) give them trouble.

The facts are that the Leafs have not been hiding Laughton anywhere. He's been out there centring a line, keeping his balance remarkably well for a tall man who makes an excellent target for rival defencemen, and scoring goals.

He has 11. No other rookie can make that statement.

"Figure skating has helped me a lot," Laughton said. "It wasn't my idea originally. My dad thought it would improve my balance. In the corners I find the training useful."

The lessons he learned at a pro's feet have enabled Laughton to survive the Kamikaze tendencies of certain WHL personnel.

Prime Ribs Scarce With Rangers

By remaining vertical, Laughton has had a chance to retaliate. Laughton is not a Cassius Clay—he is not even a George Chuvalo—but the side effects of a rookie standing up for his rights are infectious. Suddenly people who have been getting their teeth knocked out without the benefit of anti-freeze turn into spirited citizens.

Laughton enjoys the pro life. More so, perhaps, because he thought it might never happen to him.

He was born in Nelson, B.C., and you know how many pro hockey players come out of B.C. Count them on both thumbs.

New York Rangers first signed him. Life with the Ranger organization was not exactly prime rib stuff. He spent part of a season with Brandon, had a shot with St. Paul out in the boondocks.

St. Paul didn't meet his contract expectations and life at their training camp was not like living on Park Avenue.

"They billetted us 14 in a room," Laughton says, unsmiling.

The last few years he has been toiling with Nelson Maple Leafs of the Western International Hockey League. That's where he learned to rub elbows—"especially against Spokane"—and inhaled hockey fundamentals from Bobby Kromm. Kromm took Laughton and a few kids, mixed them with assorted vets, and went to the Allan Cup finals.

Laughton is high on Kromm, even higher on Papa Laughton. "I thought my dad was stretching it a bit with the figure skating," he says, "but he knew that it would help. Besides that, though, he would spend an hour with me after every game I played at home. We'd go over things. He was always there."

Nelson will always be a stop but with the National Hockey League expanding and Laughton improving, chances are he'll get his mail in larger villages.

Navy Anglers Meet

Royal Canadian Navy Anglers' Association will hold its annual meeting Friday in the Dockyard Recreation Hall, starting at 8 p.m.

In addition to election of officers, there will be presentations of awards, a film and general reports.

Victory Over 'Stars Would Boost Morale

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens meet the cream of the crop tonight in the league's 20th annual all-star game.

The Canadiens, who hold down fourth place in the standings this season, have been hard hit by injuries and have been at full strength for only half a game so far this year.

Lapierre and Rousseau will play for Montreal tonight while Beliveau and Worsley will miss the game because of injuries. The Canadiens will also be without Leon Rochefort, sidelined with a leg injury.

ABEL COACHES

Sid Abel, who coached the Red Wings into the Stanley Cup finals against Montreal last season, will coach the All-Stars.

With the nucleus of players voted to the 1965-66 first and second all-star teams, minus the Montreal players, Abel has added alternates from his own club, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers and Toronto.

Abel's first line for tonight's game is enough to scare any NHL club. Third and seventh respectively in the NHL scoring race this season. Mikita leads the league in assists this season with 36 while Hull is the top goal scorer with 26.

KEON CENTRES LINE

Tonight's National Hockey League game between the All Stars and Montreal Canadiens can be seen on Channels 11 and 12 starting at 5 and on Channel 8 at 5:30.

The defence corps will have Pilote and Stapleton playing together, Harry Howell and Jim Neilson of New York as a pair and Stanley as an alternate.

Hall and Ed Giacomin of New York, who leads the league in shutouts this season with six, will share the netminding duties.

Howe will be making a record-breaking 18th appearance in the all-star classic. He holds the all-star records for most games played, most goals, most points, most points in one game, most penalties and most penalty minutes. He is tied with Red Kelly of Toronto for most assists.

IT'S HODGE AND BAUMAN

Charlie Hodge will split the goaltending chores with Gary Bauman, called up from Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League to replace the injured Worsley.

"There's a lot of prestige at stake in this game. Beating the All-Stars would be a great boost of confidence to our team," Blake said Tuesday.

UTAH'S KNAP SKRIEN AIDE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tony Knap, 52, head coach for the Utah State University football squad for the last four seasons, has been signed to the coaching staff of the B.C. Lions, the Western Football Conference team announced today.

Head coach Dave Skrien said he talked with Knap in Houston last week and signed him Monday.

Knap will join holdover assistant coach Bill Hildebrand and fill a spot vacated by coach Frank Johnston, who quit the club last season.

BARNEY ROSS DIES

Born in New York City, Dec. 22, 1909, as Barnet David Rasofsky, Ross won the lightweight championship from Tony Canzoneri in 1933 and the welterweight crown from Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver in 1934.

He lost the welterweight title in a memorable, bloody battle with Henry Armstrong in New York in 1938 and later retired from the ring.

In 82 professional fights he never was knocked out. He always said, however, that his greatest fight lasted four months when he overcame the narcotics habit which had "slipped up" on him during the painful aftermath of malaria.

The ex-fighter was a U.S. marine hero in the Pacific campaign of the Second World War.

FIFTH STRAIGHT

Sliding Blades Tripped Again

VANCOUVER — It's been a kind of a week that Los Angeles Blades wish it wasn't.

They started out last week only three points out of second place in the Western Hockey League standings.

Coach Fern Flaman's Blades wound up a five-game northern tour Tuesday, 8-2 losers to Vancouver Canucks. It was the fifth straight setback for Los Angeles.

PENALTIES HURT

A loose defence and early penalties stropped the Blades before 2,517 Vancouver fans. Canucks scored their first three goals while playing with the man advantage, and never looked back.

The victory moved Canucks to within two points of second-place Oakland, and three ahead of fourth-place Seattle Totems. The Totems, a mere two points ahead of the Maple Leafs, play in Victoria tonight.

Veteran Phil Maloney paced Canucks' attack with four assists, including three on power-play attacks.

NORRIS SUFFERS

Ray Brunel and Marc Dufour each scored twice while Ron Boehm, Barry Watson, Ken Block and Larry Cahan counted singles. Mel Pearson and Tom McVie replied for Los Angeles.

Los Angeles goalie Jack Norris, afforded little or no protection, especially in the second period, was called upon to make 20 saves while Don Simmons of Vancouver blocked 22.

Nancy Beats Record But Finishes Fourth

SCHRUNS, Austria (CP-AP)—Marielle Goitschel of France set a record today in winning the opening downhill event in the Golden Keys women's Alpine skiing races here. Nancy Greene of Canada, one of the pre-race favorites, was fourth.

Miss Goitschel was clocked unofficially in two minutes, 12.23 seconds for the 2,400-metre run, beating the record of 2:24.46 set by Christl Haas of Austria two years ago.

Erika Schinegger of Austria was second in 2:12.34, followed by Annie Famose of France in 2:12.60.

Miss Greene, the 23-year-old Rossland, B.C., skier who won four out of five international races prior to today's competition, was fourth in 2:14.01.

IRKED TERRELL . . . . . . TELLS PROMOTERS

'Equality or Au Revoir'

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay took a holiday from training today and Ernie Terrell, angry about being second banana on the billboards, talked to promoters of their Feb. 6 heavyweight championship showdown fight about changes he wants in the advertising campaign.

Shortly after Clay carved his 578½-pound 25th birthday cake, a gift from the Astrodome proprietors Tuesday, Terrell was telling a news conference, "Either they give me equal billing or 48 hours from now I am going to pack my bags and go home."

Later, Terrell pushed the starting time for the 48 hours back to this morning and the Houston Sports Association proprietors of the fight site, the Astrodome, agreed to talk.

Plastered across Houston are 250 billboards giving both fighters names size lettering, but featuring a drawing of Clay and none of Terrell.

On the side of 150 buses are minatures of the billboard, and 300 indoor signs have Clay's picture and Clay's name larger by far than Terrell's name.

Clay told workout spectators what he would be saying to Terrell in the ring on fight night.

"I'll say nothing two or three rounds," Clay said. "And then I'll say, 'Your are losing, bum.' Just to let him know he is losing."

PILOUS GETS HOEKSTRA IN DEAL WITH QUEBEC

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Oakland Seals of the Western Hockey League announced Tuesday the trade of back-up goalie Jean Guy Morissette to Quebec Aces of the American League for centre Ed Hoekstra.

Morissette recorded the Seals' only shutout of the season last Friday and has been on the winning side his last four times in the nets.

INVITATIONAL TOURNEY

Regina Awaits Classy Totems

Victoria High School Totems, reigning British Columbia high school basketball champions, are scheduled to get a taste of winter weather on the Prairies.

GEORGE ANDREWS
. . . gets 'em in gear

Totems are scheduled to represent the province in the annual Luther College invitational basketball tournament at Regina, Jan. 27 and 28.

Coached by George Andrews, the Totems have fashioned a bright record on the basketball courts. They have collected three provincial crowns, hitting the top in 1959 and 1962 and grabbing their third B.C. title last year.

It was on the strength of their 1966 triumph that the Totes were selected to carry the B.C. banner in the 15th annual Luther College tourney.

With most of his stars of last season back for a final prep hoop campaign, Andrews appears to have assembled another powerful club, which combines speed, experience and good ball control.

Top Vic High scoring threat and ace rebounder is Ollie Moilanen, the six-foot three-inch centre. Packing punch at the forward positions are six-footers Len Rouche and Dexter Mason. Playmakers Greg Schroeder and Roger Halfhide are probable selections for the starting guard positions at Regina.

Strong Bench Strength Showing

Chances of tournament titles often rest on a team's reserve strength and the Totems appear to have plenty of talent on the bench. Most of the reserves are capable of earning starting spots.

Probable choices to complete the Vic High roster on the safari to the frigid prairies are guards Pat Skillings, Eric Earl, David Creed and Bill Clark, and forwards Joe Teler, Barry Moen and Paul Lee.

And it looks as if the Vics are warming up in fine fashion for their Regina trip.

Totems rang up their third straight victory Tuesday, tripping Mount View Hornets 48-32 at Vic High. Schroeder, with 12 points, and Rouche, with 10, paced Victoria's offence.

Cross-town rival Oak Bay also chalked up its third win, walloping University School 85-27. Every member of the Oak Bay team got into the scoring, with Dave Morgan (18) and Don Burrows (17) leading the way.

Totems and Oak Bay both turn to mainland teams for weekend competition, facing North Vancouver and West Vancouver. Friday's games will be played at Oak Bay, Saturday's at Vic High.

VICTORIA HIGH (48) — Greg Schroeder 12, Len Roueche 10, Dexter Mason 1, Roger Halfhide 7, Barry Moen 6, Bill Clarke 5, Joe Teler 7.

Kelowna Has Pledges Of $24,000 for Race

KELOWNA (CP) — The Kelowna boat racing association said Tuesday it has been promised $24,000 in grants to stage the 1967 British Columbia Unlimited Hydroplane race.

A spokesman said $15,000 was promised jointly by the federal and provincial governments with the other $9,000 coming from an unidentified company.

Officials said earlier they would seek $50,000 in financial backing before agreeing to stage a second race.

The first race, held last July 17, cost $80,000, with $30,000 coming from the provincial government and a natural gas company.

This year the association plans to hold the race on a Saturday instead of a Sunday. Saturday is considered better because it allows for Sunday competition if weather creates a problem, said the spokesman.

Happy Result For Cry-Baby

Spokane Bidding For National Club

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)— An application will be mailed by today asking the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association to move the national team from Minneapolis to Spokane, general manager Colin Kilburn of Spokane Jets Western International Hockey League said Tuesday.

Kilburn said no action is expected on the request before the association's annual meeting late this spring.

LISTS ADVANTAGES

Where the national team must play 52 of its 55 games on the road, it could play about 25 at home and 25 away if based in Spokane, he said. This would mean more gate receipts and financial aid, which the U.S. team badly needed.

In addition to the Jets, the WIHL includes five B.C. teams, Nelson Maple Leafs, Kimberley Dynamiters, Trail Smoke Eaters, Cranbrook Royals and Rossland Warriors.

The Warriors have been plagued by financial problems this season and their future in the league next year is uncertain, say team officials.

Kilburn said the calibre of opposition the national team now plays may not be equal to the five teams in the WIHL. The national team would replace the Jets as Spokane's entry in the league, if the application is approved.

In South St. Paul, Minn., Murray Williamson, coach and general manager of the U.S. team, was unenthusiastic about the proposal.

"They have to move our whole team out there and I can't think of any player who would want to move.

"Most of our players either have jobs in this area or are going to school here.

"I don't think the Western International League would provide strong enough opposition for us. We beat an all-star team from that league 4-2 and outshot them 39-21."

Existing NHL Teams Likely to Shield 11

MONTREAL (CP)— National Hockey League governors told their six new teams Tuesday just what they told the public about the players for the newcomers: Nothing.

Today the NHL's new teams will find out how many players they'll get from the existing clubs to stock their franchises for the 1967-68 expansion season.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, emerged from a six-hour governors' meeting Tuesday to announce that the owner of clubs at Boston, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto and Montreal had "agreed in principle" on the number of players they will protect in June's initial expansion draft.

It has been more than 11 months since work started on a formula to stock new teams at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Minneapolis - St. Paul and San Francisco-Oakland.

"I'm happy to announce that progress has been made in provisions for the 1967-68 season," Campbell said. "Inasmuch as no general managers were present at today's meetings, it is only fair to review our findings before the final announcement is made Wednesday."

WON'T NAME FIGURE

While the NHL president refused to say how many players will be retained by each of the current clubs under the proposed forula, the figure 11 is the most general guess.

Campbell said he thought some general managers of the existing clubs may balk at the formula, as well as some from the new entries.

Campbell has said that a satisfactory formula for both sides would provide for the existing clubs to retain one goaltender, four defencemen and six forwards. The newcomers would get a netminder and at least six other players of NHL calibre.

He said it is necessary to provide a secondary back-up plan for future drafts for special assistance for the new clubs and to find how they can bolster their development teams.

Each of the six new franchise - holders will receive 20 players for the $2,000,000 entry fee they paid to the league.

"If the general managers confirm Wednesday what we discussed today, we'll have achieved what we set out to do," Campbell said.

MUST BE QUICK

He said the six new clubs must be brought up to competitive strength with the current group as quickly as possile if expansion is to be a success.

Later, at the all-star dinner, he announced an added incentive for players whose teams reach the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Players of the two teams winning the semi-final cup rounds now will receive $2,250, an increase from the previously-allotted $1,500 a man.

Losers will receive individual monetary awards of $1,500 instead of the $1,000 of previous years.

Players on the Stanley-Cup-winning team will each get $3,000 instead of $2,000 for their efforts, while the losers pick up $1,500 as a consolation prize. This is an increase of $500.

Bill Head, former physiotherapist with Montreal Canadiens, Tommy Nayler, assistant trainer with Toronto Maple Leafs for 36 years, and Hamilton Moore, Boston Bruins' former trainer, were all given gold passes as mementos of long league service at the dinner.

Wings Ship Harvey Back to Pittsburgh

DETROIT (UPI) — Veteran Doug Harvey, 42, was farmed out Tuesday by Detroit Red Wings after a National Hockey League "comeback" which lasted less than a week.

But, coach Sid Abel said it was an injury, not old age, that sent Harvey back to the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Harvey, former Montreal star and New York player-coach, is still suffering from an ankle injury he received Jan. 12 when hit by a puck in a game against Chicago, Abel said.

Harvey will be out another week, doctors said. Abel said the aging defenceman could better play himself back into shape at Pittsburgh, an American League team from which Harvey was promoted last week.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Thirteenth week was lucky one for Joan Luscombe in annual Bowler-of-the-Week competition. Mrs. Luscombe, who "just missed last year," captured women's tenpin award in Times-sponsored event by rolling 172-187-195—554 series in Ladies' Classic League at Mayfair Lanes. Joan is now eligible for Bowler-of-the-Year roll off in May.

North Shore Out of Race

VANCOUVER — North Shore Mountaineers were eliminated from playoff contention in the Inter-City Junior Basketball League Tuesday when they lost a 74-64 decision to Vancouver YMCA.

Heino Nomm scored 24 points for YMCA, which clinched at least a tie for the fourth playoff spot and moved into third place. Warren Kline paced the Shores with 18 points.

Opening Rounds Without an Upset

Competitors failed to embarrass the seeding committee as the opening rounds of the city badminton championships were checked off Tuesday at the Cordova Bay Community Hall.

Tonight's draw:

7:00 p.m.—Jean and John Dewey vs. Jody Meredith and Jamie Henderson; Val Kent and Bob McMynn vs. Illeane Beale and Ken Cartwright; Hilroy Murdock and Hans Mulholm vs. Wendy Cuppage and Jim Cole.

7:30—Frank Brix and Ron Brousseau vs. Bob Lewis and Jim Cole; Reg Hoadley and Doug Boniface vs. John Dewey and Bob MacMurchie; Ann Currie and Phil Crampton vs. Carol Meija and John Watson.

8:30—Rodger Lindal vs. Daryl Bissell; John Dewey vs. Ivor Goodmanson; Jean McIlree and Stan Meredith vs. Joyce Tuey and Bob Lewis.

9:30—Ian Fraser and Bob McMynn vs. Lloyd Park and Jack Lequesne; Ivor Jones and Jim Wells; Russ Atkinson and Goodmanson and Lorne McLean vs. Tut John Meija vs. Bob Currie and Les Wilson.

There were no upsets.

Play continues tonight in the week-long affair. Men's open doubles move into action. But a singles bout matching former B.C. champion Roger Lindal against Darryl Bissell of University Club could hold most of the interest on the 8:30 draw.

Bissell beat Bob Lewis Tuesday.

Library Board To Decide Vote

A final decision on what happens to the bid of Central Saanich to become a voting member of the Greater Victoria Library Board will be left to the board itself.

The Intermunicipal Committee Tuesday accepted the advice of Victoria city manager Dennis Young that the Central Saanich request is a "matter not properly one which should be dealt with by the Intermunicipal Committee and it should be referred back to the library board with the information that they are at liberty to negotiate with Central Saanich at any time."

Reeve Gordon Lee said he recognized the wisdom of Mr. Young's written recommendation.

In a letter to the committee he stressed that his municipality is not seeking equal voting privileges with other board members.

FULL MEMBER

"But (we do) request consideration at the earliest opportunity that it (Central Saanich) be recognized as a full and participating member of the greater Victoria Library Board."

Mr. Young, in his report, noted the library agreement, signed last year, after almost a year of negotiation, is "an extremely fragile arrangement which continues in existence only so long as all parties are satisfied with the financial arrangements."

He also drew attention to the fact if "one member gives notice of its intention to withdraw the whole structure collapses."

In the event of such a collapse the responsibility for the staff and continuing expenses would fall on Victoria.

It was because of the possibility of collapse that Victoria has always taken the stand that the right to terminate the agreement should only be given to municipalities with a substantial investment in library services.

CITY RELUCTANT

"For that reason (Victoria) was reluctant to have the municipality of Central Saanich join with the four core municipalities as an original signatory to the agreement and with the same rights and voting privileges," the report added.

Mr. Young said that even though the city was against Central Saanich being a full-fledged board member the city recognized "the desirability of a single library service for all parts of the capital region."

It was because of this, he stated, the current library agreement gives the board the right to contract with non-member municipalities for library services provided the per capita cost is not lower than the per capita cost paid by members.

$93 Cash Taken

Thieves took $93 in cash, two radios, a wrist watch and some liquor when they robbed a Carrick Street house Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, 1755 Carrick, told police they left home at 5 p.m. and returned about 8:30 p.m. to discover the break-in.

CHIEF DALEY

Girl's Killer Still Hunted

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP)—The chief of police, a courteous, soft-spoken man, fingered his bow tie and considered the question.

"We don't have what we could call a real hot suspect" he said. Checks range widely, including people in Canada.

That is the status of the search for the murderer of 21-year-old Valerie Percy, five months after the fact.

"There are more than 1,000 items of physical evidence in this case," said Police Chief Robert Daley in an interview. "There are some items we regard as clues. But there is nothing we think of as a real good lead."

Baker Bid Refused

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Judge Oliver Gasch denied Tuesday defence motions to dismiss charges against Bobby Baker because of "bugging" incidents.

'Impossible To Publish' Permit Holders

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said Tuesday it would be "difficult and expensive" to publish the decisions of the Board of Industrial Relations.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labour, that the board publish the overtime permits it issues.

The Board of Industrial Relations is in charge of administration of the Male and Female Minimum Wage Acts, the Hours of Work Act (including overtime permits) and the Payment of Wages Act.

The Labour Relations Board, which administers the Labour Relations Act, does circulate its decisions generally through a weekly bulletin.

PRESENT PRACTICE

Mr. Peterson said the present practice of the Board of Industrial Relations is to make its decision known to the parties involved—the employers and the unions.

"They are at liberty to publish (the decisions) at will," he said.

Asked if the board could not publish only details on overtime permits, the minister said the B.C. Federation of Labour could get this information from unions.

Hutterites Want Pay In Fruit

KELOWNA (CP)—British Columbia fruit growers will study the possibility of bringing a Hutterite colony from Alberta to fill the annual shortage of fruit pickers.

The study was approved Tuesday at the annual convention of the B.C Fruit Growers Association.

The move follows an offer last summer by an Alberta Hutterite colony to work in the Okanagan Valley during the harvesting.

A major stumbling block was a request by the colony that its members not be paid cash, but fruit instead.

This request could not be met because the B.C. Fruit Board allows only 20 pounds of fruit per person to be taken out of the Okanagan.

EXPERIENCE TO REMEMBER

Journey Into History Provided by Train

By ELIZABETH FORBES

We finally made it! On the last day it was open to public — Monday, to be precise — my friend Mary and I managed to see the Confederation Train.

Forbes

We stood in the queue for the best part of an hour, inching our way forward, step by step, until we were below a tip-tilted pyramid of diamond-shape forms showing Canada's outstanding leaders in many fields. It made a wonderful conversation piece in those moments before we entered the first coach.

You will remember it wasn't raining on Monday. So the wait, while not under controlled heating, wasn't unpleasant.

The dream-like experience of stepping from a cold January day into the beginning of time and to be reminded that eons ago this country was a tropical Paradise of flowers, birds, animals and with no humans, wiped everything else from our minds.

"I thought the Ice Age came first," we heard someone murmur.

But the Ice Age met us in the next compartment, not by a drop in temperature but through a friendly explanatory voice (turned on by pressing a button) and a moving scroll that showed how quickly the ice sheet covered the land and when it finally receded how it left an entirely different outline of lakes, rivers and coastlines that eventually became the country we call ours.

* * *

We experienced the hardships of the early pioneers, we stood on the deck of a sailing ship with the first explorers from Europe and we entered the first train to link this land from sea to sea.

We were down in the hold of an immigrant ship and for a moment we endured the unbelievable conditions, these men, women and children experienced on their way across the Atlantic to a new land.

Our way took us through the trenches of the First World War, into the exuberance of the "roaring twenties," to the dust bowl days of the prairies, the depression of the 30's, the Second World War and finally, into the bright light of our own times.

* * *

These were the main divisions in the coaches. But in between were the tiny vignettes that created a continuity to the story and at the imaginative approach of those same time, pinpointed the imaginative approach of those who assembled the various exhibits.

Every coach was an experience. And, I imagine, every exhibit left something different in the minds of the thousands who saw them during the train's visit.

In my case, I was moving through events in this present century that I had experienced in my own lifetime.

Yet, as I walked through the train and saw those happenings in retrospect, they seemed to have nothing to do with me.

* * *

Only when I stepped into the last coach with its gay colors, its clashing music and its many voices did I feel that I had come home.

Pictures of freeways, road signs, automobiles, the faces of the people and the advances made in travel, education and science brought everything back into clear focus.

This is today! And I believe that the Centennial Train, while making it evident that today is based on the accomplishments of the past, also makes it clear that today is the jumping off place for tomorrow and the exciting possibilities for Canada's next hundred years.

ASTRONOMER APPOINTED TO BOARD

Dr. Jean Petrie, widow of the late director of the Dominion Astrophysical Laboratory here and an astromomer in her own right, has been appointed to the University of Victoria board of governors.

Mrs. Petrie fills the vacancy created by the election of R. B. Wilson as chancellor of the university.

Her husband, Dr. R. M. Petrie, a noted astronomer, was director of the observatory until his death last spring. Mrs. Petrie is now completing some of her late husband's research projects at the observatory.

Mrs. Petrie has held teaching positions at the University of Victoria and at the University of California at Berkley.

Elk Boating Near Intake 'Hazard'

A Saanich bylaw intended to protect the purity of water supplied to North Saanich residents from Elk Lake is not being strictly enforced, according to Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, metro board of health medical officer.

His complaint was considered Tuesday night by Saanich council health and welfare committee.

Dr. Whitbread was referring to swimming near the water intake on the northwest side of the lake.

He suggested all swimming; boating and other recreation activities be stopped in an area comprising roughly two-fifths of the lake in order to protect the intake.

Saanich has a bylaw that prohibits swimming near the intake but Dr. Whitbread suggested it is not being enforced.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said it is necessary to ban swimming but he doubted whether a total ban on recreational use of a large part of the lake is justified.

The matter was tabled pending further information from Dr. Whitbread on the need for the measures he suggested.

Youth Fined For Impairment

Robert Smith, 18, of 406 Quebec St. was fined $350 Tuesday when convicted in central court of impaired driving.

The youth had initially been charged with driving while intoxicated after his car was found against a tree on Montreal near Quebec Dec. 23 and he was found in the back seat of another car four blocks away.

A neighbor testified seeing a man run from the car after it hit the tree. Smith said he could not remember what happened after he felt ill and left work. He did admit drinking during his lunch hour.

Police who arrested Smith said he was yelling and screaming, tried to kick the rear window out of a cruiser and used obscene language.

No Change in Bill 43 Peterson Tells Unions

No change in the controversial Bill 43 was indicated Tuesday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

He was commenting on a brief presented to him Monday by the B.C. Building and Construction Trades Council, representing 50,000 construction workers.

It asked for repeal of one section of Bill 43 — the 1959 Trade Union Act — which prohibits picketing except during a legal strike or lockout.

The brief called this an infringement of "a basic right," discriminatory and partisan, and a hindrance to organizing non-union place.

The section of Bill 43 referred to applies both to trade unions and other persons. No one is allowed to persuade or endeavor to persuade anyone not to:

- Enter an employers place of business, operations or emloyment;
- Deal in or handle the products of any persons;
- Do business with any perso.

Mr. Peterson commented: "Picketing is only allowed where there is a legal strike of lockout."

The minister also said "it is one thing for the union to want to organize workmen, another thing entirely for the union by picketing the employer to have the employer force employees to join the union."

This would be achieved by hitting the employer in his pocket, thus helping him side with the union seeking to organize his workers.

"That is the reason why this type of organizational picketing is not allowed," he sad.

The minister also said that the construction industry in B.C. is "more highly organized than anywhere else."

Arresting Officer Praised

A youth found wandering on Humboldt after 2 a.m. Tuesday will return to court Thursday to report progress in finding a job.

Maurice Genest, 19, of no fixed address, pleaded not guilty to vagrancy when he appeared before Magistrate Ostler Tuesday.

Genest told the magistrate he had an appointment later in the day with an employment officer to discuss finding work or returning to school.

While he had been expelled from a friend's apartment and was lookign for a place "to bed down," he was not destitute. In addition to 80 cents change, he had a food voucher in his pocket when brought to the cells to sleep, he said.

Disposition of the case was postoned to Thursday.

China Trade Boosted

LONDON (AP)—Britain's exports to China hit a record £32,000,000 ($96,000,000) last year, trade officials reported Monday. The figure was 28 per cent higher than that in 1965. Imports from China rose 18 per cent to £33,800,000 ($111,400,000). The over-all two-way trade also gained.

HOME GARDEN

Only Small Number Are Worth Retaining

By HILDA BEASTALL

Sowing the seed of a few selected perennials will result in a fine stock of plants for the garden, and the possibility of getting one or two worth further propagation.

Hilda

From seed of perennials, we can never be quite sure of the exact shade of flower color, nor of the "form" the resulting plants will exhibit.

"Form" includes habit of growth, placement and texture of flower petals, foliage, and general sturdiness of the plant.

Seed of delphiniums, lupin and columbines (aquilegias) all produce good garden plants if bought from reliable sources.

Sow the seed now in shallow boxes of prepared soil; keep in a cool place in an unheated greenhouse or a covered coldframe and as soon as the first true leaves appear, prick out all the seedlings into larger shallow boxes (flats) of soil.

The young seedlings must be protected from drenching rain, strong wind and frost until they have sufficient roots to withstand these elements.

By the time a good weather spell occurs in April and a place can be readied in the garden, several dozens of these seedling perennials will be suitable for planting out in rows near the vegetable garden where they will have good soil and watering during summer.

Some will produce blooms by late summer, and if the colors and general habits are satisfactory, these plants can be moved to the flower borders in early September.

Leave the remainder to bloom next year. Then discard any undesirables and retain only the best.

Lupins should be moved while still small, for they have long tap roots requiring an enormous rootball if allowed to develop into a large plant.

Delphiniums and columbines thrive in a rich soil, but lupins will grow beautifully in either a gravelly soil or a heavy clay without the addition of fertilizers, since they manufacture their own nitrogen.

In respect to the memory of the late Mrs. M. Dudley, wife of our respected employee Mr. William Dudley, this office will be CLOSED

SYSTEM 'RUNNING WILD'

Lean Year Faces Groups Seeking Municipal Money

Centennial year will be a lean one for community groups depending too heavily on financial support from Greater Victoria municipalities.

The Intermunicipal Committee served notice Tuesday more than ever before it intends to check each grant carefully.

"We must do something," said Reeve Hugh Curtis, Saanich. "We are in danger of having the grant system run wild."

The committee uanimously agreed that the Community Welfare Council be asked to check all requests for grants, weed out the non-deserving and pass the balance on to the intermunicipal group for a decision.

The matter came to a head as the first grant requests of the year were studied—and tabled until a special session could be held in March.

ASKS $4,000

Among those shuffled to the sidelines for two months were requests for $4,000 to send the Red Lion Girls Drum Corps to Expo 67 in Montreal.

The sponsors of the drill team said it would cost $8,000 to send the 45-strong band east but they could raise $4,000 themselves.

The youngsters, all between the ages of 14 and 16, would be accompanied by four adults.

Second on the application list was the Public Personnel Association seeking financial aid for a conference to be held on Oct. 5.

Between now and March individual councils will study the request and the intermunicipal group will decide how much support it should give.

The matter of a grant for the Commonwealth Golf Tournament was once again tabled, this time to the meeting, which will study what threatens to be a long list of similar requests.

SUMMER PROGRAM

Also on that list will be a request from Goodwill Enterprises for a grant in lieu of taxes and a bid from the Intermunicipal Recreation Committee for $1,000 to maintain its summer programs.

"Here's what used to be a little one that's growing bigger each year," said Reeve Curtis, when the recreation group request was discussed.

"No doubt it's worthwhile, but where does it stop? We have to curtail our programs at council level and hold the line. There are many things we would like to do but can't. We must find out what is reasonable. This request is almost double the request made last year."

"I do not agree with the extremists who say no grants should be made from municipal funds. That would mean the end of the symphony and organizations like Goodwill—and that would be unthinkable.

GUIDELINES

"But we do need guidelines and rules.

"We must start asking 'why do you need our dollars?' and 'what do you do for the community?' "

With the Community Welfare Council doing the vetting the intermunicipal group hopes to free itself from the endless round of debate which has been a feature of early spring meetings.

It will still make the final decision on who gets grants and how much individual organizations get.

Saanich council finance committee also decided Tuesday night on a tighter scrutiny of all applications for municipal grants.

From now on, all applicants will have to state the aim of their organization, its activities, the number of Saanich residents served or involved, and a statement of revenue and expenses.

They will be required to outline other sources of financing, the percentage of their budget used for administraion, and details of officers of the organiaztion and its sponsors.

Second Section
Pages 17-32

Arthur Mayse

Since I happen to be without car at the moment, our sophomore daughter undertook to drive me downtown between lectures in her own little beast of burden.

Its back seemed more heavy-laden than usual, and after my middle-aged metabolism had adjusted itself to her generation's brisk cornering, I asked her about those boxes, bales and bundles on the rear seat.

With hair-raising precision, Sue ran the narrows between a parked car and a fuel truck, then, with a dexterity I never managed to acquire, double-clutched for a hill.

"That's Tryste," she told me, with a finality which barred further questions.

'Tryste' was a University of Victoria campus magazine that lived high and died hard. But expire it finally did, from murder most foul, its champions insist, leaving a legacy of back copies, unpublished manuscripts, and all the sorry trivia of a white hope gone bust.

Since Sue was a hard-core member of Tryste's staff, I was usually aware in a vague sort of way when its fortunes were up, and also when they had plummetted.

I gave it a shameless plug or two here when it sparkled, and felt a pang when its official funeral was held. Even then, it struggled along, sub rosa, for a few weeks. But its back had been broken, and it never recovered.

★

Some of the young people who nursed it from crisis to crisis and came home with the dawn or later from frantic deadline scrambles will, I suspect, emerge as writers, reporters and editors in years to come.

To describe them, I must resort to a term grown hackneyed by over-use and misuse. They were passionately committed, though none will thank me for so labelling them.

As a conscientious parent who believes that all university lectures should be attended and all courses passed with straight A's, I censure them for stealing my daughter away to dance with the gypsies in their literary wood.

But as a journeyman writer, I suspect that they and she, have gained more than they lost from the venture.

It's a good thing, in youth, to go for broke at least once; and better still, perhaps, in a losing cause. A certain healthy cynicism accrues, and with it a toughness of spirit that is part of life's essential baggage.

There was also comradeship to be gained. The Tryste crowd hung together; they were one clan of the many which, by the fact of their existence, lend savor to the university experience.

They were individualists cut to a pattern of their own choosing, with their own nuances of language and (to their elders) incomprehensible and quite often distressing outlook.

So much for the Trysters. But what of their magazine, that consumer of time and energy into which they flung hours they could ill spare, and more enthusiasm than some might deem prudent?

Here, I'm biased, though not so much as to claim more for Tryste than its rightful due.

It published short fiction, verse, satire, cartoons, interviews and photographs. It was young as tomorrow, and at times it was guilty of putting a bold face on bad writing.

But I remember it better for some verse that could hold its own on any page; for a cartoon here and another there that carried the right, sadistic touch, and for a story or two that made its point and made it well.

DEAD END

She for the snow and
I for new flowers
Into a gloom of wild
Wailing bird and wood
Laughed, and our joy
Clung on the Cold steel of moss branches

Till the gooseberry
bush
Shocked by Spring frost
Where the path ends.

TAKING SHAPE on new location in Gordon Head is Victoria Racquets Club. Scheduled for completion May 1 will be ice rink (on left) for curling and skating, and building (on right) to house lounge, badminton and squash courts. Construction, costing about $800,000 for initial phases, was declared "right on schedule" today. Swimming pool will be installed later. Club is located at corner of Gordon Head and Ruby Roads, close to Centennial Stadium at the University of Victoria. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Sidewalk Fall Suit Settled

Damages Claimed After Icy Spill

The action was partly heard in British Columbia Supreme Court but discontinued when the lawyers concerned announced they had reached a settlement out of court.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

Mrs. Henrietta Maud Parsons, 15 Lotus Street, sought damages from Peary Singh Johl, 2804 Irma, because of injuries sustained when she slipped and fell outside the house at about 6:35 a.m. on Jan. 3, 1965.

Joseph McKenna, QC, for Mrs. Parsons claimed that Mr. Johl was responsible because he allowed water from his property to run across the sidewalk.

'FORSEEABLE'

In the month of January, counsel said, it was "reasonably forseeable" that the water would freeze and create a hazard to pedestrians.

Mr. McKenna said Mrs. Parsons fell heavily and sustained extensive injuries including fracture of the vertebra. He asked for special damages amounting to $1,567, including medical expenses, and unspecified general damages for pain and inconvenience.

GOING TO WORK

He said Mrs. Parsons was then employed at Mount St. Mary's Hospital and was on her way to work at the time of the accident. It was dark at the time.

For Mr. Johl, Peter J. de Voght denied negligence. He claimed that Mrs. Parsons failed to walk in "a careful, prudent manner" and failed to keep a proper lookout for her own safety.

Mr. Justice Nemetz agreed that the action should be discontinued when both lawyers announced they had reached a settlement out of court.

$382,420 Set For Blanshard Renewal Plan

Victoria received official notification today that provincial government will pay $382,420 towards the cost of the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal scheme.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he received the letter pledging the province's 25 per cent share of the cost this morning.

"I am naturally very happy that the official notification has been received," the mayor said.

"It not only clears the way for us to get on with the project but also justifies my confidence that the province would agree to share the cost."

Mayor Stephen forecast last week the letter of intent would be received shortly after J. Everett Brown, provincial housing commissioner, returned from his vacation.

Mr. Brown resumed his duties Monday morning and, after being contacted by the mayor, said official approval would be sent out immediately.

Pulp Union Comes 'Home' For Meeting

The executive of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada will return later this month to the city where it was spawned four years ago — Victoria.

It will be the first time the union's executive board has met in Victoria, said president Orville Braaten of Vancouver.

Reason is to give leaders of the Canadian union a chance to talk to members of the legislature.

The meeting will be held Jan. 28-29-30 in the Empress Hotel.

Dissatisfaction with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers began a number of years ago and resulted in formation in 1961 of the Rank and File Movement for Democratic Action.

At the B. C. Federation of Labour convention in Victoria in the fall of 1962, various pulp and paper delegates agreed to form a Canadian union. It was founded in Vancouver in January, 1963.

NEW BREAK

In 1964, another break occurred in Washington, Oregon and California with formation of the Western Association of Pulp and Paper Workers which has 21,000 members.

The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada has about 2,000 members, all in B.C. It and the international union have been battling for the loyalties of pulp workers, highlighted last year by the Harmac dispute near Nanaimo.

The rivalry resulted in an admission last November by an official of the international that he hired and paid a private detective to electronically snoop on the Canadian union's convention in Vancouver.

They Had Swingers (And Swinging Doors) In Sgt. Jim's Day

By GLEN ALLEN

There was the Boomerang Bar on Boomerang St., the Bee Hive "bistro" on Broad, the Mount Baker Hotel in Oak Bay, Fred Stetson's on Esquimalt Road.

There was the Bismark on Yates and there was the California Hotel, one of eight on Johnson St.

"Every second door was a bar," said dean of city police sergeants Jim Florence, 88 years old today.

"There were 104 of them in those days and every swinging door was swinging in those days."

Jim Florence says "those days" back in 1909 when he joined the city police force really were, as legend says, "the good old days".

●

"Mind you it was rougher, too.

"I've still got marks on my shins."

A quick big-shouldered man, ex-sergeant Florence was 30 years and a few days with the city police.

Born north of Aberdeen in Scotland he came to Canada as a young man and worked in an uncle's bakery.

"I had no idea of becoming a policeman. One day, Dr. Helmcken's horse ran away and I caught it. The doctor—he looked after the police force—said I should join up and so I did.

"You knew what it was to be alive in those days.

"We worked seven days a week for our clothes, boots and $65 a month."

He says he wouldn't know what "rehabilitation" or "probation" was if they walked the beat with him.

"As for crooks? Well I've seen men go into the pen and come out worse and I've seen men come out straight. There's no rules."

He spent the second war at Dockyard as an RCMP special constable.

JIM FLORENCE
. . . he's still got marks

Since, he's been taking it easy. Sometimes he talks over old times with "his boys", city police he helped to train — Insp. Bill Andrews, Sgt. Wally Andrews, Det. Alec Briggs and others.

He lives now in Kiwanis Village.

If you talked to Jim Florence for a long time you might hear a few good stories.

A man who served under five police chiefs, who walked these streets with Imperial Navy sailors, lumberjacks, gold-miners, and roustabouts of every description, has some to tell.

"But I'll tell just this one," he said. "I went to pick up this man Richards — that wasn't his real name — in Winnipeg one time.

"He had a record from Sydney, Nova Scotia to Victoria and he was quick as a deer.

"I took no chances on that train — put one leg-iron on him and the other on me and that's how we crossed the country.

"Later, long after he'd been in and out of Oakalla a few more times, I saw the Warden.

"He told me 'that man Richards, you know what he said? — He said you were the best he ever travelled with.'

LANGFORD ZONE PLAN APPROVED

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The plan will control the development of the fast-growing 36-square-mile area which has a population of 13,419.

It designates urban areas, rural residential, general commercial, extended commercial, motel, industrial, recreational, and institutional and limited agriculture.

It also controls housing developments, such as set-backs for dwellings, and provides regulations for off-street parking for businesses and industries.

'STEP FORWARD'

John Williams, Glen Lake Road, Langford, a director of the Capital Region District Board, described the plan as a "step forward in the development of the district."

"I realize that it doesn't please everybody," he said. "But the majority will benefit from this plan."

He felt certain some of the regulations could be amended for people suffering hardships as the result of the new controls.

ORDERLY GROWTH

Tony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said the plan is important because it will bring orderly growth.

"People now know where they stand," he said.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said some zoning regulations were revised slightly as the result of recommendations made by the Advisory Planning Commission.

The commission, composed of ratepayers in the area, initiated the plan, and worked with the planning board.

AS RECEIVED

Mr. Campbell indicated that all application for changes of zoning during the next nine months will be processed as they are received. After this period applications will be considered quarterly as is done in other community planning areas in the province.

Application for rezoning will be submitted to public hearings—the same procedure followed by municipalities.

The zoning plan was discussed at public meetings for a year before the minister handed down his decision. Copies of the regulations were made available to the public at the hearings.

Everyone Negligent Says Jury

Management, Deceased Blamed in Yard Mishap

A coroner's jury inquiring into a shipyard fatality, December 29, ruled Tuesday there was "negligence on the part of all parties involved".

The jury was probing the death of William Badenoch, 23, of 334 John Street, who died a week after being crushed by a two-and-a-half-ton steel plate at Yarrow's Ltd.

The jury specifically blamed the management and supervisors of Yarrow's and the victim.

The worker, who had been employed as steel racker in the steel centre, died "due to an accident" after multiple injuries and consequent kidney failure, the jury ruled.

Recommendations in the jury's verdict were:

- Safety regulations be posted and signed by the Yarrow's safety supervisor;
- Operators of steel-moving cranes be given formal instruction in operation of cranes;
- Tag-lines as opposed to lengths of board be used to swing steel sheets while it is aloft (a tagline is a length of rope attached to the steel at one end);
- No employee be allowed to work on top of the steel racks.

At an earlier hearing the jury was told Mr. Badenoch was caught under a falling piece of steel on top of the steel racks.

Evidence was also given that the crane involved was hoisting more pieces and more weight than designed to lift.

The jury said Wednesday all recommendations were to be enforced by the company safety supervisor.

RULES NEEDED

Blame was attached to Yarrow's management for its failure to lay down "a set of rules" and to the deceased for "putting his own life in jeopardy" by working in a dangerous location.

Yarrow's is soon to install a gondola-type electro-magnetic crane. No workmen will be required to work in its drop area.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre told the jury it had "taken considerable care" in reaching its verdict.

QUESTIONS WELCOME

MP Spells Out Bonus Details

Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton today outlined the major provisions of the new federal guaranteed income supplement approved last month for pensioners.

In a press release made here, the Conservative party's pensions specialist, said he had received considerable mail from his constituents asking for more information.

Salient points in his release were:

Only those receiving the old age pension and who turn 68 this year, 67 next year, 66 in 1969 and 65 in 1970 or thereafter will qualify.

IN WRITING

They must apply in writing for the supplement on forms that will be supplied all OAP recipients.

Maximum supplement will be $30 a month, guaranteeing a minimum of $105 a month to single persons when the $75 OAP payment is the only other revenue.

The supplement will be reduced by $1 a month for every $2 a month received in outside income as defined by the act. If the outside income is $30 per month, for example, the supplement maximum will be $15 a month. This means that anyone with $60 monthly outside income will not qualify for any supplementary payments.

PREVIOUS INCOME

Generally, the income of the preceding year will be used to calculate the amount of supplement available to specific cases.

Mr. Chatterton listed 12 kinds of revenue which are not counted as income for the purposes of calculating supplementary payments. They are: are:

OAP pensions, any social assistance payment from any level of government, war veterans allowance, civilian war allowance, dependent parents war pensions, disability or war widow pensions based on war service, private disability insurance payments whether lump sum or monthly, workmen's compensation payments, unemployment insurance benefits, support or gifts from relatives or organizations, money received from selling any possessions or investments, and any other money which is not taxable under the Income Tax Act.

"There are many ramifications with respect to this legislation which I cannot cover in an article of this kind," Mr. Chatterton said.

"I would welcome inquiries from anyone as to their own particular problem, but in order for me to give advice I should have complete information as to date of birth, income and other circumstances."

No stamp is required on letters sent to Mr. Chatterton if they are addressed to the House of Commons, Ottawa, Ont.

Ask The Times

Q. How much did the Confederation Train cost for displays and special equipment? Did provincial and municipal governments pay anything towards costs? G.T.

A. The train cost one and one-half million dollars, paid entirely by the federal government. Municipal government, through the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, paid $2,500 towards exhibition costs while the train was here. Four-tenths of this was received from the province. The B.C. Centennial Committee also bears part of travel and other costs while the train is in the province.

Q. How many colonies has Britain? B.V.

A. A letter from British Information Services says: "Leaving aside Rhodesia, whose unique difficulties are too well-known to need recapitulation, and the special case of the Federation of South Arabia, there are 27 territories still dependent on Britain." (The letter does not use the word "colony" in any instance.) It goes on to say only one of these territories has a population of more than one million.

Peninsula Reeves Favor Talks On Proposal for Bridle Paths

Three Saanich Peninsula reeves are in favor of an Inter-Municipal Committee to discuss provision of bridle paths.

The suggestion was made by Central Saanich Reeve F. Gordon Lee following petitions from horse clubs and individuals for riding trails in his municipality,

"I think a more satisfactory plan for bridl pats and trails could be worked out if Saanich, Central Saanich and North Saanich got together to discuss the matter," he said.

"In a way it's a regional matter as horsemen would like a trail connecting the three municipalities," he added.

He noted that a zoning plan to be considered by council in the near future contained provisions for paths.

North Saanich Reeve J. B. Cumming wants to bring horsemen into the discussions.

"They should prepare an overall plan for a trail leading from Saanich to the north end of the peninsula," he said.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said a meeting would be a good thing as it might solve the problem of an intermunicipal trail.

"Riding has become a popular sport," he said. "We have to consider this recreational need."

FRAMED CERTIFICATES READY NEXT WEEK

17 on V.I. Have Survived Storms of Life 100 Years

Seventeen centenarians on Vancouver Island are listed to receive special honors this year during celebration of Canada's hundredth birthday year.

Ten live in Victoria constituency, five in Esquimalt-Saanich and two in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands.

Twelve of the 17 have already passed the century mark. Five will have their hundredth birthday this year.

Throughout Canada there are an estimated 476 persons born in or before 1867. There are 68 in British Columbia.

The federal centennial commission and the health and welfare department are co-operating to honor these early residents. Each will receive a framed certificate bearing name and birthdate and signed by Governor-General Georges Vanier and Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh.

The certificates will be ready next week for presentation to those who already are 100. Others will receive their certificates from their member of Parliament during their birth month—or at another appropriate occasion.

The program presents some problems. Because of the extreme age of the persons to be honored, discretion will be used in making their names public so they won't be subjected to undue commercial exploitation, say the organizers.

Because of difficulty encountered in some cases in verifying birth dates, no effort will be made to name Canada's oldest citizen.

Friends and relatives are being contacted to determine whether the recipients can stand the strain of a ceremony in their honor.

You Can't Go Wrong With' Power' Knife

By Penny Saver

I don't know if you have the same problem as I do when it comes to carving meats, but I always leave a roast looking somewhat like a geometric blunder. I can never cut straight slices, no matter how hard I try. I've given up on slicing bread because everyone in the house teases me when they see the acute angle that I've created. Analyzing the problem, I've concluded that I just don't slice fast enough. If the sawing motion were faster, I suppose that the knife would have less of a chance to go astray.

I put this theory to a test by using a new knife that I found in one shop. This is similar to the slick, electric carving sets, except that this one is battery operated. Priced at $5.95, this set comes with two blades. One is serrated for cutting things like bread, and the other has a plain edge. The batteries fit into the handle, which resembles the tube part of those devices used for creating fancy icing designs on cakes. Keep these in mind for shower gifts—they're perfect for the young bride.

One item that is always on the "want" list in our household is a set of salt and pepper shakers. We generally lose two or more sets a year by forgetting them while picnicking in the summer. At any rate, it is always good to keep extra sets on hand One set that I saw in this shop is made of glass with chrome tops. It's priced at 79 cents.

Items for the kitchen are always in demand. Here's one for the breakfast table. It's a jam dish that's shaped like a fruit. They come in two varieties—a pear or an apple. Made of glass, these come with a spoon and a lid of chrome. These are easy to fill and look so attractive on the table. Price is $1.79 each.

Remember my number is 382-3131. Give me a call if you want to know where I found these items.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Continue Counting Calories Scale Will Surprise You!

Lowman

Are you one of those women who have had 10 or 15 or more pounds hanging around where you least want them? Have you planned over and over again to do something about it but just never got started?

Have you ever truthfully admitted to yourself how these extra pounds affect your self-confidence, your personality, the activities you indulge in and the clothes you can wear? Even more important, have you admitted how they may affect your health and perhaps even your marriage?

Last week and the first part of this week I have been bringing you my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan (BIP for short) to help you lose from 15 to 20 pounds in the next eight weeks. Those of you who have followed it from the beginning should have lost two or three pounds by now. However, if you haven't, do not be discouraged. Continue counting calories and the scales will soon begin giving you happy reports. Often a woman will diet for quite a little while and then have a sudden pleasing loss.

There has been some evidence that some folks reduce more successfully and more easily if they divide their allowable daily calorie intake into five or six small meals rather than three larger ones. Naturally, the food intake for each day must contain all of the elements essential to good nutrition. This is sometimes called scientific nibbling.

Even if you like the three meal plan best you might profit by saving an item or two for in between meals. Also there are some very low calorie nibbles you can enjoy without feeling guilty. Some of these are celery, carrot sticks, watercress, melba toast, a small tomato or apple, tomato juice, skin milk, artifically sweetened drinks, consomme, either jellied or hot. Use a little garlic salt or herbs to add zest to these nibbles.

Also remember the herbs for seasoning in the place of so much butter or cream sauce or other fat. The herbs have practically no calories.

Be generous with your intake of proteins. The reducing diet should have a greater percentage of its food in protein, for health and also because these foods are satisfying for longer since they take longer to digest. The best known protein foods are eggs, cheese, meat, poultry, fish, milk, and sea foods.

Eat slowly, if you wish to have your cut rations fill that void. Include salads, fruits and leafy vegetable. They give you important minerals and vitamins and also fill you up because of their bulk.

Today let me give you a sample reducing menu so you will see that you can lose weight without starving.

BREAKFAST

½ medium grapefruit with ½ teaspoon sugar if desired;
1 poached egg on toast with ½ teaspoon butter;
8 ounces skim milk.

LUNCHEON

Coffee, black or with artificial sweetener.
4 ounces broiled cube steak or 4 ounces broiled meat patty made of ground LEAN meat;
Carrot and cabbage salad made of grated carrot and cabbage, ½ tablespoon mayonnaise with a little vinegar;
8 ounces skim milk.

DINNER

4 ounces tomato juice;
4 ounces baked or broiled fish with lemon juice;
¾ cup of diced or sliced beets with a teaspoon of brown sugar sprinkled over them;
¾ cup of broccoli with lemon juice;
1 hard roll with one teaspoon butter;
½ cup of sherbet.
Total calories for day—1192.

A week whizzes by in such a hurry!

If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds in the next eight weeks you may want to join thousands of other women in following my directions. If you have missed some of them or would like to have my BIP Kit which gives you all the directions and necessary information, send 25 cents plus 15 cents in postage and your printed name and address with your request for my BIP Kit. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Plan Program

Initial plans for the new season's program were made when St. Margaret's School Old Girls' Association met in the Rainbow Street home of Mrs. J. R. Breuker. These include a social evening on Thursday, January 26, at which former students will be able to view scrap books and old school magazines as part of a "Do You Remember?" evening. Also planned is the annual tea and fashion show. This will be held on February 25. A centennial theme will be used.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. P. Jackson, Mrs. D. R. Ruth, Mrs. J. H. Graham, the Misses Barbara Ruston, Marcia Fraser, Robyn McGowan, Ellen Scott, Jo-Anne McColl, Margaret Roberts and Charlotte Roberts.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'What Freedom Means to Me'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Why do women wear brassieres? I started to question this particular piece of wearing apparel after a friend of mine stopped wearing a bra because she had rheumatoid arthritis. She said she felt so comfortable, she'd never wear a bra again. I decided to give it a try, and discovered that she was right. I took it a step further and tried not wearing anything underneath my clothes. Great discovery!

I don't wear my clothes snug, nor do I wear transparent fabrics, so no one can tell whether I'm wearing undergarments or not. Some of my friends have fussed something terrible with me about this. Why? I look just fine without undergarments, so what crime have I commited besides depriving the bra and girdle manufacturers of a customer?

LIKES MY FREEDOM

DEAR LIKES: If you look "just fine" sans undergarments, you're lucky. Apparently you don't need the girdling in, pushing up, or filling out that undergarments provide for your less fortunate sister. What you do (or do not) wear is between you and your conscience, so why not enjoy your freedom and comfort and keep quiet?

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you said, "The reason some people are always late is because they are selfish, immature and inconsiderate."

There is another reason you failed to mention. Some people who have been very poor and hungry in their younger years always come to parties late on purpose, because they don't want people to think they are starving for food. There was always plenty of food at our house, that is why I am always on time.

PROMPT

DEAR PROMPT: Well, now the cup of alibis overfloweth!

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the woman who was criticized because her child was badly behaved in public. She said the boy was retarded, epileptic and nearly blind and no one wanted to sit with such a child so she had to take him wherever she went.

Well, Abby, there are people who will sit with retarded and otherwise handicapped children and adults. The United Cerebral Palsy Association trains teenagers to care for the handicapped through their Monitor Training program. It includes how to remove and put on braces, handle wheel-chair patients and what to do in case of a seizure.

High school students attend a series of classes on Saturday mornings and hear lectures from doctors, therapists, and social workers. A list is kept of all who have completed the course, and they are called when needed. I took this course three years ago and I am glad I did. I have since worked as a volunteer with blind and retarded children.

Please advise that mother to contact her local United Cerebral Palsy Association. If none is in her area, perhaps she can get one started. Parents of handicapped children need to get away for a dinner and show once in a while and I am sure there are other young people who would like to help them out.

REPLACING MINK IN PARIS

Brer Rabbit-Fashion's Darling

PARIS (Reuters) — Frenchwomen may still dream of mink, but a 25-per-cent sales tax on furs is forcing them to adopt the rabbit habit.

Rabbit, once primarily used for felts and fabrics, has recently achieved real fashion status. It now turns up on some of the best - dressed women along with other inexpensive pelts such as cat, pony, guinea, squirrel and lamb.

Rabbit-skin coats, in the natural state or treated to imitate more costly furs, can be bought starting at about 1,000 francs (about $200) at leading Paris department stores featuring specialized teen - age and budget fur departments.

Price is certainly not a factor in Brigitte Bardot's wardrobe. But when the actress made her first trip to the United States in 1965, she left her two mink coats at home in Paris and travelled with three new rabbit-skin coats dyed bright colors to match various evening gowns.

France imports 90 per cent of all the furs sold in the country with the exception of rabbit, which is raised domestically.

Fox, skunk and other long-haired furs which dropped out of fashion in the 1940s have staged a strong fashion comeback.

Inexpensive furs have even broken into the rarified realm of high fashion. They are used lavishly for trimmings as well as for high-styled garments which are as much as part of the fashion look as the short hemline.

The revival of fox stresses the trend toward Russian-inspired fashions, such as Christian Dior's coats liberally hemmed with fur, inspired by the costumes in the film Doctor Zhivago.

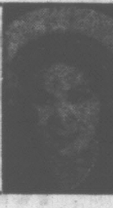
NEW VENTURE

HAMILTON (CP) — The board of education is considering opening a low-priced restaurant for the produce of waitresses, cooks and bakers at its adult education centre, where a training program of six to 10 months is being planned. Restaurant schools in several European cities and one at Omaha, Neb., serve food to the public.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens



DEAR EMILY WILKINS:

When I finish a day on my feet I can't enjoy the evening. Can you suggest something to revive me quickly?

Pat. S.

To feel instantly new, run cold water over your feet and ankles — a truly amazing pickup.

I use colorless polish, but my nails always seem to look grimy underneath. Is it safe to use a file to clean under them?

Monica C.

Definitely not. The best way to keep under-nails clean is to wash an undie or two in mild soap suds. A bonus beauty tip.

I love to cook, but my hands seem to absorb the ingredients I work with.

Mrs. Margaret P.

My elbows always look greyish, even after creaming them. Is there anything I can do?

Susan H.

Keep a cut ½ lemon (after squeezing) to twirl on your elbows. Keeps away the grimy look.

My lipstick always seems to change color almost as soon as I apply it.

Dina H.

I have tried everything, but still unconsciously fuss with my nails, so that they never have a chance to grow.

Missy B.

To break an unhappy nail-picking habit keep one finger as the victim. You may torture it to your heart's content; when all other nails have grown out and look beautiful, I am certain you will release that one, too.

Somehow my eyebrows never behave — they look unruly, even after I brush them into place.

Laney T.

When I remove my false lashes, I always seem to lose a few of my own.

Clare L.

If you use false lashes, don't let the glue come in contact with the roots of your own lashes. Carefully place the false lash slightly above your own.

Have you any suggestions on how to make toenails look more attractive? I don't like to use the same bright polish I use on my fingernails, and they look anemic without polish.

Caroline T.

One or two coats of platinum pearlized polish on your toenails makes them blend attractively with any color nail polish you might be using on your hands, giving your feet a very feminine look, to boot.

FIGHTS THE FREEZE

LONDON (UPI)—Royal couturier Norman Hartnell put on a spring fashion show of glittering and glamorous gowns today that showed he still is making costly clothes for his rich and titled clients, even if Britain is in the middle of an economic freeze.

Hartnell, 65, dressmaker to Queen Elizabeth II, rubbed in the point with an evening gown entitled "anti-freeze". It gleamed silver from its simple round neck straight down to its ankle-length hem with a million diamante beads, sewn on in diamond shapes.

Topping it off was an "outer space" silver wig of shiny metallic coils concocted by Alexandre of Paris, the hairdresser of international royalty and movie stars who recently opened a salon in Hartnell's fashion house and invented exotic hairpieces for his new spring collection.

RIBBON CUTTING, speeches and martial music marked opening Tuesday of new $1.4 million federal building at Pandora and Vancouver. Victoria MP David Groos is shown addressing other dignitaries and interested citizens. More than 300 employees will move in within two weeks. The 40,000 square feet of offices will house income tax, manpower and immigration departments. The two-storey block is built to accommodate added storeys when needed. It is air conditioned throughout. Wade, Stockdill, Armour and Partners were architects and builder was Farmer Construction Ltd. It took 18 months to complete. Mr. Groos said the building proved the growth of the Island in recent years.

TO CELEBRATIONS ASSOCIATION

If It's Bright and Brief ... Say It!

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association has launched a full-scale hunt—for an idea.

The group, which runs May 24 weekend festivities, wants a theme for this year's Victoria Day parade.

And the theme is wanted in a hurry.

At a meeting Tuesday the associaton, whose members represent local organizations, municipalities and the city, called for suggestions from Greater Victoria citizens.

The ideas will be discussed at a directors' meeting in two weeks' time and at a general meeting Feb. 7 when the association will start planning the festivities.

Members decided they need a theme or slogan that is bright, brief and to the point. It should appeal to American visitors who come to see and take part in the parade.

"Canada through the years" and "Past, present and future" were among several themes proposed and set aside for more consideration.

"Victoria — Canada's Heaven in '67" was the slogan suggested by former city clerk Frank Hunter.

Harry Adams of the Ten Pin Bowling Association protested that "by May everyone will be sick and tired of centenaries.

"We've had nothing but centenaries for the last three years," he said.

Vice-president Brian Wright said Victorians have "the best climate in Canada, the best scenery in Canada, and the best of everything in Canada."

With all this, Mr. Wright said, it shouldn't be too hard to come up with a successful theme for the parade.

Suggestions should be sent to secretary Mrs. Joyce Moon of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association at City Hall.

Numberous inquiries have been received already from groups, many in the U.S., which are eager to participate in the celebrations, Mrs. Moon reported.

These include 20 that have never before appeared in the parade.

A troop of from 150 to 300 youngsters from the Seattle Seafair celebrations may come if special accommodation rates can be obtained.

Local parade entries will include one from the YM-YWCA, and for the first time Greater Victoria School Board will sponsor a float.

Total expenses of the association for the year ending Aug. 31, 1966 were $10,397. These included more than $3,000, the cost of the last Victoria Day parade, and $1,142 to send Victoria representatives to the Portland, Ore., Rose Festival last June.

Grants to the association included $2,817.50 from the city, nearly $100 less than the previous year's grant, $2,500 from Saanich and $1,000 from Oak Bay.

Donations from private firms totalled nearly $1,300.

Elected chairman for 1967 celebrations was J. R. Rafter, who succeeds Ed McFayden. New vice-chairman is Brian Wright.

Mrs. Moon was again named secretary and Ald. Percy Frampton renamed treasurer.

Fired Man Defied Warning

OTTAWA (CP) — The northern development department denied Monday reports that a construction worker at a northern outpost lost his job because he married an Eskimo.

H. J. Mitchell, assistant administrator of the department's Arctic division, said 40-year-old Stuart Battye was dropped from the staff at Pangnirtung on Baffin Island because truck drivers were no longer required on the construction of houses there.

Mr. Battye, a native of Brantford, Ont., told reporters here Saturday he was fired on the grounds he shopped during working hours. In reality, he said, it was because he ignored pressure not to marry an Eskimo.

Mr. Mitchell said there is no department policy forbidding marriages between whites and Eskimos. But in this case it was felt that Mr. Battye was a temporary employee and he was advised he wouldn't be in good financial shape to marry the girl who had four children by a previous marriage.

Mr. Battye also charged the department with treating Eskimos as inferior people and said the houses provided them were not on a par with those provided white workers.

Mr. Mitchell said the area administrator had filed a full report on the Battye matter and the department was satisfied it had been handled correctly.

The Battyes now are en route to Vancouver by car.

SPCA Wins $1,000 Fee Hike

Oak Bay council Monday agreed to a new SPCA fee of $6,500 per year, or $1,000 more than the 1966 costs, over the vigorous dissent of one councillor.

"I can't see the reason for these cost allocations," said Coun. J. Douglas Watts. "Somebody just dreamed them up out of thin air."

But Coun. Fred Hawes found council support for his statement," Oak Bay doesn't want to get into the dog-catching business".

Council passed the new SPCA tariff with a promise by SPCA of better service and a one-year contract.

Coun. Watts' motion to have SPCA executives explain cost breakdown to council was defeated.

In other business council:

- Received and filed a revised 1967 budget of $7,375 for the Oak Bay Recreation Commission. ("Only $800 more than the dog-catchers get," said Coun. Watts);
- Nominated Coun. Walter Dodsworth as delegate to the fourth annual general meeting of the Vancouver Island publicity bureau Feb. 15 at Courtenay;
- Referred to B committee, a letter from the Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association regarding the feasibility of underground wiring for Oak Bay.

Spring Thaw On Its Way

The Toronto-based variety stage show, called My Country: What's It to You, deals with what its producers say is the real Canadian history from the ice ages in a show "that's guaranteed to offend everybody."

Spring Thaw will visit all the provinces before beginning a six-week run in Toronto March 27. It then goes to southern Ontario cities.

Lid Lifted a Little

SAIGON (UPI)—Premier Ky has announced he would partially lift the censorship of Vietnamese newspapers. Ky told a publishers association meeting Monday night newspapers could now print freely stories on any subject except matters relating to military and economic problems.

Celebrations Group Still Seeks a 'Home'

But it has no place to call its own.

Officials are getting worried as Victoria Day plans begin to develop and the association is still without office space.

The group decided Tuesday to plead its case before the Intermunicipal Committee.

Previous inquiries have been made about an office in City Hall, or in the shopping arcade in Centennial Square.

"But if we can't get it, what are we going to do? Time is running short," said celebrations association secretary Mrs. Joyce Moon, who has begun to cope with the group's annual flood of inquires about Victoria Day.

The group previously had office space provided by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce's Douglas Street branch.

NOW IT'S ANNIE GET YOUR CHORUS

First rehearsal for the Victoria Operatic Society production of Annie Get Your Gun will be held tonight at 8 at 106 Superior.

The operetta opens May 16 for a two-week run at the McPherson Playhouse.

Casting is almost complete. A few vacancies remain in the alto, bass and tenor sections of the chorus.

Interested persons may audition at the rehearsals Mondays and Wednesdays at 8 p.m. at the Superior Street hall.

Annie is directed by Cliff Clarke, who headed the VOS production of The Merry Widow two years ago. Musical director is Howard Denike.

Sartain Work Shown Thursday

Water colors by Victoria artist Emily Sartain will be displayed Thursday at the annual meeting of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association.

Miss Sartain's works depict wild flowers found at Thetis Park.

The meeting will be held in the Douglas Building cafeteria at 8 p.m. A board of directors will be elected, and following the meeting nature slides will be shown.

Special guests will be Mayor and Mrs. Hugh Stephen.

Woman Driver Jailed 20 Days

A woman whose auto rammed a parked car Monday night was jailed for 20 days Tuesday when she pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Anne Bamford, 1142 Hadfield, admitted in central court to a similar conviction in April, 1962.

Damage was estimated at about $300 when her car turned on to Esquimalt Road from Bowlsby and ran into the other auto, driving it forward about eight feet.

The accused's driving privileges were also suspended.

Children 'Happy, Secure;' Priest Admits Hiding Them

ST. JOVITE, Que. (CP)—The community leader of a breakaway Roman Catholic sect, whose pope thinks he's the real one, said Tuesday that 50 children he admits to be hiding from provincial welfare authorities are "happy and secure."

Father Jean de la Trinite, Quebec head of les Apotres de l'Amour infini—the Apostles of the Infinite Love—said reports that the children have been hidden in shacks and are suffering from hunger and cold are untrue.

A force of provincial policemen moved into the area Tuesday to hunt for the children, who have apparently disappeared from the sect's monastery 20 miles from here and 50 miles northwest of Montreal.

The force is led by Sgt. Raymond Bellemare, who says he believes the children are still in the immediate area of the monastery.

Police found 16 of 66 children sought after a social welfare court judge signed warrants last week following evidence at a court hearing alleging that the children were in danger because the monastery premises were unhealthy.

SAYS THEY'RE IN HOMES

Father Jean de la Trinite said in an interview Tuesday that the missing children are in private homes.

He had just returned from two days of visits to the children and all were in good condition.

"They think it's a great adventure. A kind of hide-and-seek.

"It's their parents who are doing the real suffering. They don't now what's going to happen to their children and their greatest fear is that they will be found and turned over to the welfare."

In another interview Tuesday, Father Jean Marie du Sacre Coeur, a senior priest of the sect, said he believes the influence of the Roman Catholic Church is to blame for the present situation.

"We are the victims of religious persecution," he said.

"There is no possible reason for anyone to want to take the children out of our care, especially since the parents have asked us to care for them and have not complained to us.

"We do not recognize the right or authority of the QPP or social welfare court in this matter and we will not reveal the whereabouts of the children."

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Jim says: "You played with Benito Garrozzo and Omar Sharif in New York last month. What did you think of their game?"

Oswald: "Garrozzo is just as good as you would expect a world's champion to be. He is also about as nice as any bridge player I have ever met. Sharif plays very well but is not as good as Garrozzo. He is just as nice to play with."

Opening lead—♥K

Jim: "Today's hand is one you played as Garrozzo's partner in a short team match at Tobias Stone's apartment. He was North, wasn't he?"

Oswald: "Yes. The bidding shows his style. In spite of the fact that West opened and rebid Garrozzo though we might have a slam. Instead of jumping right to four spades he gave me two slam invitations by bidding both of West's suits."

Jim: "All you could do was keep rebidding your hopeless spade suit. Was he afraid that you might get discouraged and pass?"

Oswald: "No. He did put a lot of pressure on me but I am too old to start passing my partner's forcing bids."

Jim: "I see that four spades made easily. What happened at the other table?"

Oswald: "Leon Yallouze, who is in America with Benito and Omar, held the West hand and opened one heart. The American expert sitting North doubled and Omar Sharif with the courage of Genghis Khan (another of his starring vehicles) stuck in a three-heart bid. South and West passed and North merely bid three spades."

Jim: "I guess South did some soul searching and passed."

Oswald: "Right, so we gained six International Match Points."

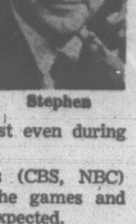
Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The Pan American Games scheduled for Winnipeg later this year are being given the cold shoulder by the American television networks.

As a result, the promoters of the games are now predicting lower estimates on the anticipated return from the sale of TV rights on the games.



Stephen

The reason is that the networks are gradually cooling off on sports events coverage. At one time, competition between the three networks (CBS, NBC, ABC) was keen on sporting events and the games' society had expected it would remain keen. In addition, it had been anticipated color television would sharpen viewer interest even during the summer months.

However, two Americans networks (CBS, NBC) now have only a casual interest in the games and viewer interest has not developed as expected.

According to James Shore, games' publicity and promotion chairman, ". . . there has been a drastic change in the policy of the major U.S. networks and they are no longer receptive to the idea of bidding for sports packages."

The American Olympic Committee put forward a package to sell the combined rights for both the U.S. Pan American trials and the Olympic trials and did not receive a single bid.

Recent discussions on the sale of rights has been with the American Broadcasting Company, the only network with a sustained interest in sporting events.

Canadian rights for the games, to be held in Winnipeg July 22 to Aug. 7, were sold to CBC-TV last year for an estimated $60,000.

TIDBITS: CBC-TV's documentary series 20/20 will return in February. The 1967 series will continue to present stories for and about Canadians but programs will tie in more directly with Centennial year.

20/20 will launch its color season with a look at Yorkville Village in Toronto. It will be followed by a look at Vancouver's Chinatown, Canada's largest Chinese community; a light-hearted look at curling and The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, one of the colorful elements of Canada's parliamentary system.

Pity the Britishers who will soon be subjected to Wojeck. BBC-TV has purchased 10 episodes of the CBC series . . . Sonny and Cher (they're singers, not a weather forecast) will make their television debuts in an episode of The Man From U.N.C.L.E. The rock 'n' roll duo will not sing.

UNILINGUISTS

'Bulldogs' Warned Off By Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — The newly-formed Bulldog party, a group of local government employees opposed to bilingualism in the civil service, was warned Tuesday by Prime Minister Pearson to stay out of party politics.

"I think it would be quite inappropriate to form a Bulldog party inside the civil service, or indeed any other kind of political party," Mr. Pearson said in the Commons.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said the new group is more divisive than Quebec separatists. He asked whether the civil service commission will tolerate the formation of the Bulldog party.

The so-called party claims a membership of 300 and a 24-year-old leader who uses a pseudonym. In interviews on local television stations, he said his group's main activity now is to recruit more members here and in Toronto.

It advises English-speaking government employees to hang up when they get telephone calls from French-speaking persons.

Gilles Gregoire Ind - Lapointe leader of a Quebec separatist party, said earlier that the Bulldog party should be given maximum publicity on the CBC, especially the French networks.

Separatists claim that bilingualism will not work in the federal government because it is rejected by most English-speaking Canadians.

Macao Residents Flee

HONG KONG (AP)—Another 700 Macao residents fled to Hong Kong today despite reports from the Portuguese colony that the colonial administration had capitulated to the demands of the Chinese Communists. Several of the refugees said they feared renewed violence.

THOMSON

'Octopus Monopoly Of Press'

LONDON (CP) — A Welsh publisher who actively but unsuccessfully opposed Lord Thomson's recent takeover of The Times has suggested that the Canadian-born publisher seeks an "octopus monopoly of world communications."

Writing in the current issue of New Christian, a forthnightly publication whose editorial board includes representatives of most major Christian sects, publisher Claud Morris said he hopes the current session of Parliament will discuss the "economic internationalization" of the press.

Morris and others drew up plans for a counter-bid in an effort to prevent transfer of ownership of The Times, the influential national daily, to a company dominated by the Thomson interests. Their plan failed.

Noting that a government-appointed commission which approved the Thomson bid had said its members generally saw no objection to a British newspaper being controlled from Canada, Morris writes that this is not the case in New Zealand, parts of Africa and Canada itself.

'WHO IN CANADA?'

He says most Canadian publishers feel control of Canada's press should remain in Canadian hands, adding: "Yet who in Canada is against curbs on overseas ownership? None other than Lord Thomson."

As an "international businessman, with a built-in radar for economic opportunity," Thomson owned newspapers or other communications companies in such countries as Thailand, Liberia and South Africa.

"You cannot support home ownership restricting the control of the Canadian press to fellow Canadians if (like Lord Thomson) you seek an octopus monopoly of world communications," Morris writes.

He said some Thomson newspapers avoid controversial issues which might reflect on their owner and that editorial freedom must "not interfere with his economic interests or his right to trade."

"The unspoken edict of a newspaper, over the greater part of the Thomson empire, is merely this: "Don't tread on anyone's toes if it hurts the economic interests of our chain."

"Thomson himself, as a businessman, does not even begin to understand the problem, or the argument against him."

Saanich Names Welfare Chief

She succeeds Frank Heaton who resigned late last year. She was assistant administrator for a number of years.

The new appointment was decided by Saanich council when it met privately after the regular council meeting Monday night.

'NONSENSE'

Von Thadden Denies Party Nazi

TORONTO (CP) — Adolf von Thadden, deputy leader of the West German National Democratic party, says it is the duty of the CBC to "give exact information about political circumstances."

Von Thadden, whose scheduled Jan. 29 appearance on the CBC-TV public affairs program Sunday was cancelled after public protests, made the statement in English in an interview from the Canary Islands, where he has been holidaying.

The interview with Warner Troyer was broadcast Tuesday over CBL, a CBC radio outlet in Toronto.

SEEKS MEETING

Much of the opposition to von Thadden arises from a charge that his party is a neo-Nazi group, which he denies.

Von Thadden suggested his interviewer arrange a special meeting with "those people of the Canadian Jewish News." He was sure he could convince them his party is not neo-Nazi.

"I think it is pure nonsense to always continue with this crying that the party I'm with is Nazi—a new kind of National Socialists. I think one thing—there must be an end to this perpetual crying."

Von Thadden said that if a speech he has been invited to give to the Liberal Union in England Jan. 27 goes over "perfectly—and I'm convinced it will—it is going to make your situation in Canada much easier, I think."

M. J. Nurenberger of Toronto, 55-year-old editor and publisher of The Canadian Jewish News, said after the interview he would refuse to meet von Thadden.

"Germany's own minister of the interior described von Thadden's party as neo-Nazi. If this is so, there is nothing I can learn from Mr. von Thadden."

MINISTER AGREES

Lot of Garbage In Harvest of Sea

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation went after the "harvest of the sea" and came up with garbage.

He concurred that the hour-long show Jan. 3—intended as a salute to the industry—was so fishy it smelled.

Grant Deachman (Lib.—Vancouver Quadrs) provided the bait by asking in the House if the minister had received a letter from the council protesting gross inaccuracies in the show.

Robichaud said he had, and he also had viewed it.

"I must admit that it had many serious inaccuracies and distorted facts regarding the position of the Canadian fisheries in the centennial year," said the minister.

This was mild compared to the council's view.

It described the show as the "most derogatory and inaccurate piece of work relating to the fisheries that we have ever witnessed."

The council claimed that the CBC had not asked any knowledgeable people in fishing to review the script.

It said the show produced such gems as—

"Salmon may not be available much longer because of hydro-electric dams and pollution."

Africa is a main market for our salted fish."

The council said it hoped the CBC show had had its first and last viewing. It suggested preparation of a film showing the industry in proper perspective.

Robichaud told the house a tape and transcript of the program had been secured by fisheries department officials, who are reviewing it and will make their comments known to the proper authorities.

Drivers Needed To Transport Blind Persons

Volunteer drivers are needed to take blind persons to meetings of the White Cane Club at Canadian National Institute for the Blind headquarters, 1609 Blanshard.

Meetings are held Wednesdays except in July and August. First meeting this year will be January 25.

The task might interest retired persons, or others free Wednesday afternoons, when blind persons and their guides are picked up at home at 1:30 p.m. and returned there at 3:30, an official said.

Tea is served for drivers while the meeting is in progress. They will not be asked to contribute anything but their services.

Man Faces Second Charge

A man who pleaded guilty Tuesday to assaulting his common-law wife will be held in jail to face a second charge Friday.

Steve Kaminsky, 119 Superior, admitted to the assault causing bodily harm when he appeared in central court and said he was sorry he hit her because he knew the woman was "sensitive."

"Most women who get slapped about the face by a brute like you are 'sensitive,'" snapped Magistrate Ostler after studying the woman's black eye, reccived nine days ago in an argument over cooking some food.

Kaminsky pleaded not guilty to a charge of impaired driving and will face trial on that charge Friday and sentence on the first charge the same day.

Sentence Suspended

A high school student earlier convicted of shoplifting was given a suspended sentence when he appeared in central court Tuesday.

"Im not at all sure it wouldn't do you good to spend a few days in jail," Magistrate Ostler told Kenneth Corbitt, 18, of 5440 Alderly Street.

He was caught Dec. 17 at a drug store having taken two jars of skin cream, four magazines and a Christmas card which he had not paid for.

C. SAANICH FRETS ABOUT FUTURE

Action Asked on Water

Central Saanich will press the Greater Victoria Water Board to extend its distribution system to the north half of the Saanich Peninsula within the next two or three years.

Reeve Gordon Lee told council Tuesday the northern municipalities will face a serious shortage of water in three years unless the board's water system is extended.

The board has indicated it will not bring water to the north until the area has a population of about 25,000.

The municipalites are dependent on Elk Lake for water, but the reeve thinks this source will be inadequate in a few years.

"Of future requirements, I place in priority the matter of having an adequate supply of domestic water available to us and our northern consumers, not in the distant future, but within two or three years," he said.

He said the water board must be informed that the northern area cannot wait for water until it has a population of 25,000. There are now 10,000.

"We can't even await the completion of the new tunnel to bring additonal water from the Sooke Hills," he said. "Ways and means must be found to bring water to the area."

The projected cost of bringing water to the northern area has been estimated at $2,000,000.

Strokes Anything But Fashionable

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Alvares

For over 35 years I have been making a particular study of the great frequency with which people peter out with a series of little strokes. These may produce only a frightening dizzy spell, or they can cause many different types of symptoms, depending on the spot in the brain that was injured or destroyed.

For years I was constantly being puzzled, wondering why my physician friends were not seeing or recognizing these people. Finally, I came to realize that, because of the mental dullness which is often produced by a little stroke, when a man goes to see his doctor, he almost never mentions the all-important fact which is that the symptoms came suddenly one day, with perhaps a most disconcerting dizzy spell. Perhaps the man fell to the floor, or he fell out of his chair, or he woke up in the morning a changed man, perhaps unable to go to work, or to do anything important when he got to his office.

On looking through dozens of big volumes on diseases of the brain, or even arterial diseases of the brain, I found absolutely no mention in the index of strokes of any kind—either large or small. And this kept puzzling me until one day I saw a very intelligent college-trained woman, daughter of a minister and the wife of a minister, who one morning had a terrible stroke that left her for a time partially paralyzed and unable to say a word.

* * *

When she was able to talk again, she kept asking me, "What terrible sin could I have committed—one that must have made God so angry with me that He struck me down so cruelly?" As she said, she had tried all her life to be God's servant, and I knew she had always done splendid and devoted work, first as a missionary in China and later as a hard-working church woman in the U. S., raising large sums of money for God's work.

So I kept assuring her, "No, I am sure you did not commit any sin; and I am sure you did not anger God inadvertently. All that happened was that, with your very high blood pressure, a little artery broke and destroyed a little part of your brain."

* * *

I kept wondering why she felt as she did until I found a place in the Bible where it tells about a man named Nabal who one night drank too much wine. As a result, next day he had a hangover, and God became so angry with him that He "struck him down" and killed him. That would seem to be the reason why so many Americans are ashamed of having a stroke.

As I read about Nabal, I at last understood why almost all physicians in the last 50 years have avoided signing a death certificate with the word (stroke). Even at the great international congress on strokes held a few years ago, long, complicated terms and sometimes long technical sentences were used to describe strokes. In my book on "Little Strokes" I list 170 different terms—and often long terms—which physicians now use to avoid mentioning the word (stroke).

* * *

Gradually, I came to see that when a man drops to the floor, or when after a very frightening dizzy spell he becomes forgetful and unable to work well, his doctor—who would perfer not to offend the family or bring down shame on them, he says the patient had a heart attack. Today, a heart attack is fashionable while strokes are anything but fashionable. To say that a man had a stroke might suggest to his neighbors that God had caught him in some secret skulduggery and had struck him down.

Feb. 17 Holiday Wins Backing Of B.C. Teachers

He declared a holiday on that date this year in honor of Canada's Centenary and to commemorate the birth of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister, and all the confederation fathers.

The BCTF hopes the special holiday this year will be the forerunner of a regular holiday. A representative assembly of teachers has sent Mr. Peterson a letter recalling that on previous occasions they have asked for such a mid-winter break.

They say it is "not generally appreciated just how exhausting of nervous energy" modern schools are and hope he will understand that both students and teachers need a mid-winter break.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 02-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Gregg Doyle, age 12, of Waterville, New York, for his question:

Can beavers live to be 30 years old?

The beaver's life is crowded with sensible chores and dutiful family co-operation. Such a model character deserves to live a century but, as a rule, he lives no longer than 10 or 12 years. The oldest beavers on record have lived to celebrate no more than 19 or 20 birthdays.

A young beaver is born on an island centered in the family pond. The island is a high and dry lodge roofed over with a sturdy dome of sticks and stones expertly patted together with mud. The cozy floor is strewn with soft grasses and finely shredded bark and junior shares his island lodge with perhaps seven other beaver kittens. For the first month of life, their only visitor is their big, warm mother who lovingly feeds them, washes them and combs their furry coats. The only door to the lodge is a hole in the living room floor that leads to an underwater tunnel.

When junior is about a month old, Mrs. Beaver coaxes him down the dark, wet tunnel and out into the family pond. One by one, the roly-poly beaver kittens are taught to swim. And one by one, the youngsters meet the other members of the family. They meet their large, shaggy father, maybe several aunts and uncles and perhaps half a dozen teenage brothers and sisters. The teenagers were born last season and papa took them away for a few weeks, leaving the family lodge for mother and her new kittens.

Through the summer, junior learns the arts and skills of beavercraft. He learns by co-operating with other beavers, young and old, in the building of dams and canals, lodges and tunnels. With a partner, he fells trees and cuts the wood into logs. He helps to gather and store piles of twigs for next winter's food. And next spring, papa takes him to a new home while mama uses the lodge for her next litter of kittens.

Rarely Die of Old Age

Junior's education takes two years. Then he leaves home and looks around the neighboring colony of beavers for a wife. He may build a home of his own but, as a rule, he repairs and occupies a vacant lodge in one of the nearby beaver ponds. Season by season, he works busily away with the older beavers and instructs the younger beavers. And each year he grows bigger. At the age of 10, he may be 30 inches long plus 12 inches of flat, scaly tail — and most likely he is the oldest beaver in the colony.

As he grows older, his chances of survival decrease. He may be too slow to run from a falling log, too tired to escape a hungry fox. Life in the wilds is risky and the old timer rarely lives to celebrate his 12 birthday. However, he may live much longer in protected surroundings. In captivity, beavers have been known to live 19 or 20 years — but Andy has never heard of a beaver living to the age of 30.

Most animals born in the wilds, sad to say, never live long enough to become parents. They are surrounded by hungry enemies and life is full of risks. The young ones often meet with fatal accidents before they learn to cope with the ways of the wild. Those that grow up are the smart ones and the lucky ones. But even adult wild animals rarely die of old age. An old timer slows down and, in a moment of carelessness, he usually meets some fatal accident long before the end of his natural life span.

Vietnam Peace Talks In Offing, Brown Hints

Caucus Wants Post Retained

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today named Manpower Minister Jean Marchand the Liberal party's Quebec leader to replace Privy Council President Guy Favreau, who resigned because of ill health.

The move followed the decision by the party's Quebec MPs earlier today to confirm Mr. Marchand in the post which he has held on an interim basis during Mr. Favreau's lengthy illness.

The announcement was made in a two - sentence statement after a party caucus meeting.

The prime minister's statement said the appointment was made in response to a recommendation of the Quebec caucus. Most of them firmly support the idea of one of their number being designated as Quebec leader.

KEEPS MUM

Collared by reporters after the announcement, the 48-year-old Mr. Marchand shied away from a precise definition of his role and even declined to pass judgment on whether his precise title would be "Quebec leader."

The prime minister's statement referred to him as "leader of the Quebec caucus." But there seemed no doubt that he had assumed the mantle of Mr. Favreau, 49.

Mr. Marchand said that "from the logical point of view, this job shouldn't exist." However, Quebec did have problems different from those of other provinces, none of which have similar leaders, and the prime minister must be advised of them.

Mr. Marchand added that it is necessary to maintain the old structure as long as Quebec does have this special position.

PWA Pilot Killed

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — The wreckage of a Pacific Western Airlines light aircraft with only the pilot aboard was discovered at dusk Tuesday on a mountain slope 18 miles north of here. A PWA spokesman said reports from the scene indicated pilot Hong Mar, 43, died instantly in the crash. His body was brought out by helicopter Tuesday night.

TOKYO (AP) — Wall posters appeared in Peking today praising President Liu Shao-chi and denouncing his opponents in Mao Tse-tung's faction, a Japanese press report aid.

This development came as signs multiplied that the feuding Chinese Communist leaders appeared deadlocked in their power struggle with each unwilling to compromise or to force a showdown.

ARRIVES IN CANBERRA

Tight Security For Ky Visit

CANBERRA (CP) — With mini - skirted demonstrators chanting "one - two - three, go home, Ky," South Vietnam's premier arrived in Australia's eaital today and faced a press conference of tough and at times hostile questioners.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and his wife arrived in Canberra for a nine-day visit to Australia and New Zealand during which members of the opposition Labor party have pledged to stage demonstrations against the war and his visit.

—Insisted that his visit was not to bolster his regme but to thank the people of Australa for their sacrifices in behalf of his country.

—Denied that Adolf Hitler was his hero, that he had never fought for the Vichy regime in France—"I was only 12 years old"—or that he had ever taken part in the Algerian war for France.

WILL VISIT U.S.

—Reaffirmed his intention to visit the United States after the Constituent Assembly finishes writing a constittion for South Vietnam.

—Said he has no objection to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front participating in negotiations to end the Vietnamese war "so long as they are part of the Hanoi delegation."

About 700 trade unionists and students turned out to protest Ky's visit with placards denouncing him as a fascist, a killer and "baby burner."

ASSAIL 'KILLER'

Along with the demonstrators, a few thousand curious turned up along the motorcade route.

"It is good to see you again," Prime Minister Harold Holt

PASSPORTS REVOKED FOR TRIP TO HANOI

BARBARA DEMING
. . . no more jaunts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. state department has revoked the passports of three of four women who visited North Vietnam recently without the department's permission.

A department spokesman said Tuesday night notifications of revocation had been sent Jan. 13 to Patricia Griffith, Ithaca, N.Y.; Grace Newman of New York City; and Miss Barbara Deming of Cape Cod, Mass. No action has been taken against the fourth woman, Diane Bevel of Chicago, the spokesman said, because "we are not aware of her return to the United States."

The spokesman said the department "pretty automatically" revokes U.S. passports used for travel to countries for which the passports have not been validated.

Just 'Feeling' Commons Told

He told Parliament this is just "a personal feeling". But he said it is based on information reaching him from many different sources.

"While I cannot quote chapter and verse for this," Brown said, "I have a feeling that there is at least a possibility of change in this problem. This feeling results from all that reaches me from many different sources."

Brown did not embroider on this remark. He made it at the end of a House of Commons statement in which he reviewed his own and other attempts to bring the Vietnam war to the conference table.

He recalled that both the United States and South Vietnam swiftly accepted his recent proposal that ceasefire talks should be held at Hong Kong or any other convenient point in British territory. He said the British Labor government is all the more disappointed that Hanoi rejected the proposal out of hand.

"We believe that all immediate efforts should be concentrated on stopping the war," Brown said.

Brown reiterated that the Hanoi government could bring the war to an end "today" by announcing its readiness to go to the conference table.

SUPPORTS THANT

Answering questions by left wing laborite Michael Foot, Brown said the British government supports the peace proposals of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant and believes they provide the basis on which hostilities could be stopped.

But he sidestepped a question whether representations had been made to Washington to halt bombing of North Vietnam.

Brown added that the U.S. has repeatedly made it clear that it is prepared to stop bombing the moment it receives some indication, privately or publicly, that this would be followed by some response from the other side.

SUKARNO'S OUSTER DEMANDED

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian students today demanded that Congress meet "as soon as possible" to oust President Sukarno from office. An army lader said the army was ready to "take up arms and fight" for Sukarno's ouster.

The university and high school students marched into the office of strongman Gen. Suharto with their demand as high ranking government legal sources said they want Sukarno out of office so they can try him for treason.

Campbell River Ready to Fight Appeal by Mine

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The lawyer for Campbell River District Water Board today said he was satisfied he could prove the Pollution Control Board was wrong in fact as well as in law for issuing permits to Western Mines Ltd. to dump tailings and sewage effluent into Buttle Lake.

Anthony Sarich, of Campbell River, told the Times he successfully appealed to quash the permits on a legal technicality only because the board had refused him the right to argue the merits of the case.

NO APPEAL YET

So far neither Western Mines, the Attorney-General's Department nor the Pollution Control Board have filed an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from the B.C Appeal Court decision which threw out the permits Monday.

They have two months in which to initiate such an appeal under the federal court's rules, and another month to apply for a late appeal application.

Mr. Sarich said the Campbell River Water Board undoubtedly would contest an appeal in the Supreme Court because an important principle was at stake. Most of the cost, in any event, would be borne by the appellants.

FURTHER FIGHT

But even if there is no appeal and the government obtains legislative approval to meet the B.C. tribunal's objection that the Pollution Control Board could not legally refuse to allow the water board a hearing, Mr. Sarich said there will be a further fight.

"We are prepared to fight against such permits on their merits," he said.

"We would be prepared to take our report (by the B.C. Research Council) and back it up with technical witnesses at a hearing before the Pollution Control Board if we were given the chance.

"That's what we intended to do before and the only reason we went to court on a point of law was that we were prevented from doing this by the (pollution control) board itself.

UNKNOWN FACTOR

"It is still our intention to prove the merits of our objection. In an oversimplified form, it is that not enough is known about the possible effects of this dumping into our water system

ICC Has Role 'When Time Is Ripe'

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Miister Martin said Tuesday night he is convinced that "when the time is right" the International Control Commission, of which Canada is a member, will play a key role in bringing peace to Vietnam.

Mr. Martin said in an interview at Vancouver International Airport he is optimistic about the chances for peace in the war-torn nation.

"I continue to be optimistic regarding how long the Vietnam war is going to last," Mr. Martin said. "We are lending every effort towards that end and while being fully conscious of the fact that it takes two sides to end a dispute."

Questioned by reporters, Mr. Martin denied that the U.S. and North Vietnam disregard the ICC.

"It is not corect to say Hanoi and the U.S. pay no attention to the commission," Mr. Martin said. "Both countries pay great attention to it."

Canada Will Not Accept 'No'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is refusing to accept a no from Poland and is continuing diplomatic pressure to try to persuade the Poles to agree to some kind of peace role for the Canada - India - Poland international truce supervisory commission in Vietnam.

An informed source disclosed Tuesday that Canadian representatives had a long talk with Polish officials Monday at a place the source declined to reveal, but which presumably was the United Nations in New York.

This talk occurred only four days after Poland refused to join in Vietnam discussions with Canada and India in New Delhi. The refusal was described by External Affairs Minister Martin as a setback.

BOMBING MUST END

Mr. Martin was told by the Poles during his visit to Warsaw last month that Poland didn't rule out a peacemaking role for the commission. But it wouldn't agree to any such role until America stopped bombing North Vietnam.

Mr. Martin said Tuesday in a Commons reply to David Lewis (NDP — York South), that the Polies feel that an unconditional cessation of bombing must precede any peace negotiations.

Reply Framed To U.S. Note On Bank Curb

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A carefully prepared reply by the government to the strong representations made by U.S. government over proposed amendments to the Bank Act will go to Washington within 10 days, it was learned here today.

The American government forwarded its sharp diplomatic note of protest to Ottawa early in November. This was the second note of protest from the U.S. The first representations in written form were made to Canada last summer.

The U.S. government is disturbed by the proposal to curtail the expansion of the Mercantile Bank — a subsidiary of the First National City Bank of New York. Limitations are imposed on the growth of the Mercantile Bank in Canada under proposed amendments to the Bank Act.

The American government has lodged its protest against the Canadian government taking such action and is also disturbed by the retroactive aspect of the proposed legislation. The contents of the American notes of protest have not been made public.

The Canadian government has taken 2½ months to carefully prepare its reply. However a spokesman in the department of external affairs said this was not unusual in the exchange of diplomatic notes especially where several departments of government were involved.

Representatives of the Mercantile Bank of Canada will appear before the standing committee on finance, trade and economic affairs next Tuesday. They will present their brief on revision of the Bank Act.

Teachers Begin Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — Talks aimed at ending the strike of 9,000 Roman Catholic teachers start today under a government appointed mediator but there's little prospect that 217,000 students will go back to school soon.

RONNING BELIEVES:

Viet Policy Now Outdated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chester Ronning, who made two Canada peace-feeler missions to Hanoi, said Tuesday he believes United States policy in Vietnam is based on an outdated political theory.

Mr. Ronning, 71, said in an interview United States attitudes are based on the "fallacious belief in some quarters that communism is a united force bent on world conquest."

He said the Communist world is splitting along national lines.

"Communist bonds of ideology no longer hold them together," said Mr. Ronning, a China-born expert on the Far East. He taught school in China prior to the revolution that turned the country Communist.

He said China and the U.S. see the war in Vietnam in totally different terms and since there are no negotiations in progress, there is no opportunity for one world giant to find common ground with the other.

He said Chinese intervention in the war was unlikely immediately because neither the U.S. or China wishes a confrontation.

CHINA SEES CIVIL WAR

Mr. Ronning said China regards the conflct as a civil war in which the United States is directly and illegally interfering for its own purposes.

In the U.S., the war is seen as a defence of the democracy of South Vietnam which is being subversively and violently infiltrated by Communists, he said.

Mr. Ronning said he thinks Canada should have recognized Red China in 1949 "when we were invited to." He said he "isn't certain if China would accept Canadian recognition now—at least for a while."

He said recognition and its acceptance would "start a trend to easing tensions in Asia and help to prevent a confrontation by beginning a trend toward peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war."

WIRE BRIEFS

Four Quints Die

GERMANY (UPI) — Four of the quintuplets born to the 30-year-old wife of a Duesseldorf engineer died today. Doctors said there was "little hope" the remaining child would live.

Old Bridge Collapses

ROME (AP) — The central arches of a 114-year-old stone bridge on the Appian Way collapsed early today, plunging two automobiles into the rubble 230 feet below. Police and firemen worked by searchlights until dawn and recovered the bodies of the two drivers.

Troops Trade Shots

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel and Jordanian troops exchanged fire today near the Jordanian city of Aqaba, wounding three Israelis, Israeli military officials said. The city is at the tip of the Gulf of Aqaba leading from the Red Sea.

Satellites 'Weaved'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) The U.S. Air Force today launched eight satellites into space with a single rocket, aiming to weave a communications network around the globe to speed military messages between far-flung outposts. Emphasis will be on traffic between Washington and Vietnam.

ANTIQUATED ELIGIBILITY LAW RAISED IN NOVA SCOTIA

10-Year-Old Theft Haunts Councillor

NEW WATERFORD, N.S. (CP)—A car theft in Toronto nearly 10 years ago has returned to haunt a New Waterford town councillor — and he has been forced to resign his position as a result of it.

Murray Tait, at 26 the youngest man ever elected to town council here, resigned Tuesday night after his eligibility to hold the seat was questioned by the man he defeated in the December municipal election.

Gordon MacInnis presented a document to Mayor Dan Nathanson showing Mr. Tait had been convicted in Toronto as a teen-ager on a charge of theft.

"I made the protest," Mr. MacInnis said. "I have no other comment other than that I will not be a candidate in any by-election."

Mr. MacInnis lost to Mr. Tait by 119 votes in the December election.

Mayor Nathanson said Mr. MacInnis told him he was making the criminal record public because he felt it was his duty to do so.

"I am extremely distressed by this situation," the mayor said. "However, having conferred with the town solicitor there doesn't seem to be any course left but to accept the resignation.

"Persons convicted on any crime punishable by a term in penitentiary are ineligible to hold office in Nova Scotia."

Mr. Tait, father of three, admitted he was convicted on the theft charge in Toronto. He said he was 17 at the time and was fined $200.

"I had no idea this would prevent me from holding public office," he said following his resignation.

"This happened in Toronto a long time ago. I was a passenger in a car that was stolen by a group of teen-agers. At the time we thought it was just a lark. We were all young and regretted our act at the time."

Municipal Affairs Minister Donald C. MacNeil said Tuesday night he will take immediate steps to investigate the "propriety of what may be antiquated law."

"I will conduct an immediate investigation into this affair to see if there is a possibility of amending the act to prevent a person suffering for the rest of his life for an indiscretion of long standing."

EVOLUTION FROM APES RULED OUT BY OLD BONES

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) —"The accepted view on evolution of man from the ape is absolutely incorrect and without any scientific basis," anthropologist Louis Leakey said Tuesday night at Israel Academy of Science and Humanities.

Giving new details in a lecture of his recent discoveries in Kenya which he said throw light on the origin of mankind, Dr. Leakey stated that while the chimpanzee is man's cousin in blood groups and other factors, the human race did not descend from the ape in a way accepted in the past.

Leakey told a press conference in Nairobi last week that the remains unearthed at Rusinga Island in Lake Victoria date back 20,000,000 years or more. He said he sees in them bone fragments of proto-man, "by far and away the oldest known representatives of the stock which eventually gave rise to man."

Thus Leakey disputed an accepted scientific view that man developed from the baboon from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 years ago.

"There was no sudden rush of evolution from the ape to man in a mere 5,000,000 years," he said. "Remains were found proving that apes, 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 years ago, were developing in the direction in which apes are still today. But at that time, proto-man, our ancestor, already existed."

Because the proto-man was found in Kenya, Leakey gave him the name Kenya-Pithecus Africanus.

Leakey showed to the audience photographs of antelope bones which he said were cracked 20,000,000 years ago in a way that proved near-man hunted and ate meat.

First proto-type emigrated slowly from East Africa to India and China where early specimens of the same proto-man, only now recognized as such, were found, he said.

Leakey said the important conclusion to be drawn from this discovery was that the dawn in the life of the human species was in the heart of Africa whence a steady flow of emigration took place through the Middle East to the Far East and, much later, to Europe.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and wheat prices were weak but other grain futures on the Chicago board of trade were mostly firm today.

Corn had good support from commercial interests and export houses. Blustery weather in the livestock producing areas of the United States suggested increased use of corn as animal feed.

Oats and rye were easy in continued light trade. Soybean oil and meal prices were mixed.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds provided most of the moderate trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Prices were firm in evidence of export trade.

Rye was active in export demand.

Oats and barley trade was light in routine domestic trade.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Vancouver Trading Heavy

Trading was heavy on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today with more than 900,000 shares changing hands by noon.

Industrials were generally strong with Cominco and MacMillan Bloedel up .50 and Steel of Canada $3:50 better at $22.50.

The mining section saw Bata trade 234,000 shares for a gain of .04 to .49.

Highmont was .08 beter at $1.86 but Madrona dropped .07 to .95 and Dynasty dipped .15 to $8.10.

Bank stocks which led a rise on the Toronto market Tuesday were off today on news that the United States is planning restrictive legislation for foreign banks operating in that country.

AT TORONTO Bank of Nova Scotia lost 2½ to 67½, Toronto-SDominion and Imperial-Commerce 1¾ each, to 63. Bank of Montreal, whose proposal for a stock split first sent bank stocks soaring, lost ⅝ to 59½.

Western oils were slightly stronger. Dome Petroleum and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas each gained ⅛, to 42⅞ and 28¼ respectively. Scurry-Rainbow added ¾ to 21¾. Central Del-Rio lost ½ to 14¾.

Among base metals Denison rose ¼ to 58 and Noranda ¾ to 54½. Inco lost ⅞ to 93½ and Campbell Chibougamau added 25 cents to 7.45 with news that it plans to develop an ore body in Roy Township, Que.

AT NEW YORK Studebaker, up about 1½, looked like the most active issue. Motorola rose about four, IBM and Ferox about two each.

Polaroid lost about three points, Boeing was off a fraction despite an order for $32,00,000 worth of jets.

AT MONTREAL banking issues hit a decline but most other sections moved fractionally higher.

Canadian Pacific added 1¼ points, while other Canadians were about a point better. International Nickel remained unchanged.

Canadian banks drew strength from improvement in transatlantic markets Tuesday. Canadian Imperial Bank added 1⅞ points, Montreal 1¾, and Royal Bank of Canada 1*, Toronto Dominion and Nova Scotia were each a point higher.

Credit Unions Considering Own Bank

OTTAWA (CP) — The credit unions asked a Commons committee Tuesday to consider leaving the way open for them to form a co-operatively owned chartered bank in line with credit union principles.

Such a bank might be formed in future, credit union witnesses said, although they have no immediate plans.

It might be owned by credit unions or by the central organizations of credit unions in several provinces.

Its directors would be elected by the credit unions owning it and, instead of shareholders having one vote for each common share held, its owners would have power based on the credit union principle of the member, one vote.

And instead of distributing its profits as dividends to shareholders on the basis of their shareholdings, its profits would go out as patronage refunds, distributed on the basis of the business done by or for each of its owners.

Hydro Agrees To Supply Mill Power

HAZELTON (CP) — B.C. Hydro has agreed to supply emergency power to Hazelton Sawmill Ltd. where 225 men have been out of work since Dec. 31 when the company's own diesel generator burned out.

Dudley Little, Social Credit MLA for Skeena, said he learned of hydro's plans to supply a mobile power unit to the mill in a conversation with Forest Minister Williston.

Mr. Little said the spare power unit coupled with additional power available in the area would allow the mill to resume full production.

The mill is the largest employer in the Hazelton area and civic leaders had forecast an emergency situation in the community if the mill remained closed.

Insurance Leaders Meet Sharp

OTTAWA (CP) — Substantial reform in the laws and regulations applying to general insurance companies was discussed today by Finance Minister Sharp and 10 executives of major firms in the business.

A spokesman for the insurance men said they are "very largely in agreement" with Mr. Sharp on ways to improve the security of policy holders.

The meeting was called in the light of the failure of the North American General Insurance Co. But the group told Mr. Sharp the failure was "simply an incident."

The minister had previously described it as a case of securities theft.

Public confidence in general insurance companies was unshaken, the executives said. They told Mr. Sharp they had detected no effect on their business.

Both sides advanced proposals. The companies suggested higher capital requirements for new companies and federal scrutiny of management of these companies.

Stock Split Plan By BM

MONTREAL (CP) — The Bank of Montreal will split its capital stock five-for-one if shareholders approve and if the Bank Act is revised, chairman and president G. Arnold Hart, said Tuesday.

Mr. Hart said in a statement the proposed division "will be permitted upon enactment of the present bill to revise the Bank Act now at committee stage in Parliament, and subject to ratification by shareholders' bylaw."

Five shares at a par value of $2 would be issued for each par-$10 share.

The plan was announced concurrently with a decision to increase the bank's regular quarterly dividend in the first quarter by five cents to 60 cents, payable March 1 to shareholders of record Jan. 31.

DIVIDENDS

Royal Bank of Canada, common 75 cents, March 1, record Jan 31.

TAKING SHAPE on new location in Gordon Head is Victoria Racquets Club. Scheduled for completion May 1 will be ice rink (on left) for curling and skating, and building (on right) to house lounge, badminton and squash courts. Construction, costing about $800,000 for initial phases, was declared "right on schedule" today. Swimming pool will be installed later. Club is located at corner of Gordon Head and Ruby Roads, close to Centennial Stadium at the University of Victoria. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Arthur Mayse

Since I happen to be without car at the moment, our sophomore daughter undertook to drive me downtown between lectures in her own little beast of burden.

Its back seemed more heavy-laden than usual, and after my middle-aged metabolism had adjusted itself to her generation's brisk cornering, I asked her about those boxes, bales and bundles on the rear seat.

With hair-raising precision, Sue ran the narrows between a parked car and a fuel truck, then, with a dexterity I never managed to acquire, double-clutched for a hill.

"That's Tryste," she told me, with a finality which barred further questions.

'Tryste' was a University of Victoria campus magazine that lived high and died hard. But expire it finally did, from murder most foul, its champions insist, leaving a legacy of back copies, unpublished manuscripts, and all the sorry trivia of a white hope gone bust.

Since Sue was a hard-core member of Tryste's staff, I was usually aware in a vague sort of way when its fortunes were up, and also when they had plummetted.

I gave it a shameless plug or two here when it sparkled, and felt a pang when its official funeral was held. Even then, it struggled along, sub rosa, for a few weeks. But its back had been broken, and it never recovered.

★

Some of the young people who nursed it from crisis to crisis and came home with the dawn or later from frantic deadline scrambles will, I suspect, emerge as writers, reporters and editors in years to come.

To describe them, I must resort to a term grown hackneyed by over-use and misuse. They were passionately committed, though none will thank me for so labelling them.

As a conscientious parent who believes that all university lectures should be attended and all courses passed with straight A's, I censure them for stealing my daughter away to dance with the gypsies in their literary wood.

But as a journeyman writer, I suspect that they and she, have gained more than they lost from the venture.

It's a good thing, in youth, to go for broke at least once; and better still, perhaps, in a losing cause. A certain healthy cynicism accrues, and with it a toughness of spirit that is part of life's essential baggage.

There was also comradeship to be gained. The Tryste crowd hung together; they were one clan of the many which, by the fact of their existence, lend savor to the university experience.

They were individualists cut to a pattern of their own choosing, with their own nuances of language and (to their elders) incomprehensible and quite often distressing outlook.

So much for the Trysters. But what of their magazine, that consumer of time and energy into which they flung hours they could ill spare, and more enthusiasm than some might deem prudent?

Here, I'm biased, though not so much as to claim more for Tryste than its rightful due.

It published short fiction, verse, satire, cartoons, interviews and photographs. It was young as tomorrow, and at times it was guilty of putting a bold face on bad writing.

But I remember it better for some verse that could hold its own on any page; for a cartoon here and another there that carried the right, sadistic touch, and for a story or two that made its point and made it well.

Sidewalk Fall Suit Settled

Damages Claimed After Icy Spill

The action was partly heard in British Columbia Supreme Court but discontinued when the lawyers concerned announced they had reached a settlement out of court.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

Mrs. Henrietta Maud Parsons, 15 Lotus Street, sought damages from Peary Singh Johl, 2804 Irma, because of injuries sustained when she slipped and fell outside the house at about 6:35 a.m. on Jan. 3, 1965.

Joseph McKenna, QC for Mrs. Parsons claimed that Mr. Johl was responsible because he allowed water from his property to run across the sidewalk.

In the month of January, counsel said, it was "reasonably forseeable" that the water would freeze and create a hazard to pedestrians.

Mr. McKenna said Mrs. Parsons fell heavily and sustained extensive injuries including fracture of the vertebra. He asked for special damages amounting to $1,567, including medical expenses, and unspecified general damages for pain and inconvenience.

GOING TO WORK

He said Mrs. Parsons was then employed at Mount St. Mary's Hospital and was on her way to work at the time of the accident. It was dark at the time.

For Mr. Johl, Peter J. de Voght denied negligence. He claimed that Mrs. Parsons failed to walk in "a careful, prudent manner" and failed to keep a proper lookout for her own safety.

Mr. Justice Nemetz agreed that the action should be discontinued when both lawyers announced they had reached a settlement out of court.

$382,420 Set For Blanshard Renewal Plan

Victoria received official notification today that provincial government will pay $382,420 towards the cost of the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal scheme.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he received the letter pledging the province's 25 per cent share of the cost this morning.

"I am naturally very happy that the official notification has been received," the mayor said.

"It not only clears the way for us to get on with the project but also justifies my confidence that the province would agree to share the cost."

Mr. Brown resumed his duties Monday morning and, after being contacted by the mayor, said official approval would be sent out immediately.

Pulp Union Comes 'Home' For Meeting

The executive of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada will return later this month to the city where it was spawned four years ago — Victoria.

It will be the first time the union's executive board has met in Victoria, said president Orville Braaten of Vancouver.

The meeting will be held Jan. 28-29-30 in the Empress Hotel.

Dissatisfaction with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers began a number of years ago and resulted in formation in 1961 of the Rank and File Movement for Democratic Action.

At the B. C. Federation of Labour convention in Victoria in the fall of 1962, various pulp and paper delegates agreed to form a Canadian union. It was founded in Vancouver in January, 1963.

NEW BREAK

In 1964, another break occurred in Washington, Oregon and California with formation of the Western Association of Pulp and Paper Workers which has 21,000 members.

The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada has about 2,000 members, all in B.C. It and the international union have been battling for the loyalties of pulp workers, highlighted last year by the Harmac dispute near Nanaimo.

The rivalry resulted in an admission last November by an official of the international that he hired and paid a private detective to electronically snoop on the Canadian union's convention in Vancouver.

They Had Swingers (And Swinging Doors) In Sgt. Jim's Day

By GLEN ALLEN

There was the Boomerang Bar on Boomerang St., the Bee Hive "bistro" on Broad, the Mount Baker Hotel in Oak Bay, Fred Stetson's on Esquimalt Road.

There was the Bismark on Yates and there was the California Hotel, one of eight on Johnson St.

"Every second door was a bar." said dean of city police sergeants Jim Florence, 88 years old today.

"There were 104 of them in those days and every swinging door was swinging in those days."

●

"Mind you it was rougher, too.

"I've still got marks on my shins."

A quick big-shouldered man, ex-sergeant Florence was 30 years and a few days with the city police.

Born north of Aberdeen in Scotland he came to Canada as a young man and worked in an uncle's bakery.

"I had no idea of becoming a policeman. It was one day, Dr. Helmcken's horse ran away and I caught it. The doctor — he looked after the police force — said I should join up and so I did.

"You knew what it was to be alive in those days.

"We worked seven days a week for our clothes, boots and $65 a month."

He says he wouldn't know what "rehabilitation" or "probation" was if they walked the beat with him.

He spent the second war at Dockyard as an RCMP special constable.

JIM FLORENCE
. . . he's still got marks

Since, he's been taking it easy. Sometimes he talks over old times with "his boys", city police he helped to train — Insp. Bill Andrews, Sgt. Wally Andrews, Det. Alec Briggs and others.

He lives now in Kiwanis Village.

If you talked to Jim Florence for a long time you might hear a few good stories.

A man who served under five police chiefs, who walked these streets with Imperial Navy sailors, lumberjacks, gold-miners, and roustabouts of every description, has some to tell.

"But I'll tell just this one," he said. "I went to pick up this man Richards — that wasn't his real name — in Winnipeg one time.

"He had a record from Sydney, Nova Scotia to Victoria B.C. and he was quick as a deer.

"I took no chances on that train — put one leg-iron on him and the other on me and that's how we crossed the country.

"Later, long after he'd been in and out of Oakalla a few more times, I saw the Warden.

"He told me 'that man Richards, you know what he said? — He said you were the best he ever travelled with.'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The plan will control the development of the fast-growing 36-square-mile area which has a population of 13,419.

It designates urban areas, rural residential, general commercial, extended commercial, motel, industrial, recreational, and institutional and limited agriculture.

It also controls housing developments, such as set-backs for dwellings, and provides regulations for off-street parking for businesses and industries.

'STEP FORWARD'

John Williams, Glen Lake Road, Langford, a director of the Capital Region District Board, described the plan as a "step forward in the development of the district."

"I realize that it doesn't please everybody," he said. "But the majority will benefit from this plan."

He felt certain some of the regulations could be amended for people suffering hardships as the result of the new controls.

ORDERLY GROWTH

Tony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said the plan is important because it will bring orderly growth.

"People now know where they stand," he said.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said some zoning regulations were revised slightly as the result of recommendations made by the Advisory Planning Commission.

The commission, composed of ratepayers in the area, initiated the plan, and worked with the planning board.

AS RECEIVED

Mr. Campbell inidcated that all application for changes of zoning during the next nine months will be processed as they are received. After this period applications will be considered quarterly as is done in other community planning areas in the province.

Application for rezoning will be submitted to public hearings—the same procedure followed by municipalities.

The zoning plan was discussed at public meetings for a year before the minister handed down his decision. Copies of the regulations were made available to the public at the hearings.

Peninsula Reeves Favor Talks On Proposal for Bridle Paths

Three Saanich Peninsula reeves are in favor of an Inter-Municipal Committee to discuss provision of bridle paths.

"I think a more satisfactory plan for bridl pats and trails could be worked out if Saanich, Central Saanich and North Saanich got together to discuss the matter," he said.

"In a way it's a regional matter as horsemen would like a trail connecting the three municipalities," he added.

He noted that a zoning plan to be considered by council in the near future contained provisions for paths.

North Saanich Reeve J. B. Cumming wants to bring horsemen into the discussions.

"They should prepare an overall plan for a trail leading from Saanich to the north end of the peninsula," he said.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said a meeting would be a good thing as it might solve the problem of an intermunicipal trail.

"Riding has become a popular sport," he said. "We have to consider this recreational need."

Everyone Negligent Says Jury

Management, Deceased Blamed in Yard Mishap

A coroner's jury inquiring into a shipyard fatality, December 29, ruled Tuesday there was "negligence on the part of all parties involved".

The jury was probing the death of William Badenoch, 23, of 334 John Street, who died a week after being crushed by a two-and-a-half-ton steel plate at Yarrow's Ltd.

The jury specifically blamed the management and supervisors of Yarrow's and the victim.

The worker, who had been employed as steel racker in the steel centre, died "due to an accident" after multiple injuries and consequent kidney failure, the jury ruled.

Recommendations in the jury's verdict were:

- Safety regulations be posted and signed by the Yarrow's safety supervisor;
- Operators of steel-moving cranes be given formal instruction in operation of cranes;
- Tag-lines as opposed to lengths of board be used to swing steel sheets while it is aloft (a tagline is a length of rope attached to the steel at one end);
- No employee be allowed to work on top of the steel racks.

At an earlier hearing the jury was told Mr. Badenoch was caught under a falling piece of steel on top of the steel racks.

Evidence was also given that the crane involved was hoisting more pieces and more weight than designed to lift.

The jury said Wednesday all recommendations were to be enforced by the company safety supervisor.

RULES NEEDED

Blame was attached to Yarrow's management for its failure to lay down "a set of rules" and to the deceased for "putting his own life in jeopardy" by working in a dangerous location.

Yarrow's is soon to install a gondola-type electro-magnetic crane. No workmen will be required to work in its drop area.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre told the jury it had "taken considerable care" in reaching its verdict.

QUESTIONS WELCOME

MP Spells Out Bonus Details

Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton today outlined the major provisions of the new federal guaranteed income supplement for pensioners approved last month.

In a press release made here, the Conservative party's pensions specialist, said he had received considerable mail from his constituents asking for more information.

Salient points in his release were:

Only those receiving the old age pension and who turn 68 this year, 67 next year, 66 in 1969 and 65 in 1970 or thereafer will qualify, as well as those born on or before Dec. 31, 1910;

IN WRITING

They must apply in writing for the supplement on forms that will be supplied all OAP recipients.

Maximum supplement will be $30 a month, guaranteeing a minimum of -105 a month to single persons when the $75 OAP payment is the only other revenue.

The supplement will be reduced by $1 a month for every $2 a month received in outside income as defined by the act. If the outside income is $30 per month, for example, the supplement maximum will be $15 a month. This means that anyone with $60 monthly outside income will not qualify for any supplementary payments.

PREVIOUS INCOME

Generally, the income of the preceding year will be used to calculate the amount of supplement available to specific cases.

Mr. Chatterton listed 12 kinds of revenue which are not counted as income for the purposes of calculating supplementary payments. They are: are:

OAP pensions, any social assistance payment from any level of government, war veterans allowance, civilian war allowance, dependent parents war pensions, disability or war widow pensions based on war service, private disability insurance payments whether lump sum or monthly, workmen's compensation payments, unemployment insurance benefits, support or gifts from relatives or organizations, money received from selling any possessions or investments, and any other money which is not taxable under the Income Tax Act.

"There are many ramifications with respect to this legislation which I cannot cover in an article of this kind," Mr. Chatterton said.

"I would welcome inquiries from anyone as to their own particular problem, but in order for me to give advice I should have complete information as to date of birth, income and other circumstances."

No stamp is required on letters sent to Mr. Chatterton if they are addressed to the House of Commons, Ottawa, Ont.

Ask The Times

Q. How much did the Confederation Train cost for displays and special equipment? Did provincial and municipal governments pay anything towards costs? G.T.

A. The train cost one and one-half million dollars, paid entirely by the federal government. Municipal government, through the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, paid $2,500 towards exhibition costs while the train was here. The B.C. Centennial Committee also bears part of travel and other costs while the train is in the province.

Q. How many colonies has Britain? B.V.

A. A letter from British Information Services says: "Leaving aside Rhodesia, whose unique difficulties are too well-known to need recapitulation, and the special case of the Federation of South Arabia, there are 27 territories still dependent on Britain." (The letter does not use the word "colony" in any instance.) It goes on to say only one of these territories has a population of more than one million.

FRAMED CERTIFICATES READY NEXT WEEK

17 on V.I. Have Survived Storms of Life 100 Years

Seventeen centenarians on Vancouver Island are listed to receive special honors this year during celebration of Canada's hundredth birthday year.

Ten live in Victoria constituency, five in Esquimalt-Saanich and two in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands.

Twelve of the 17 have already passed the century mark. Five will have their hundredth birthday this year.

Throughout Canada there are an estimated 476 persons born in or before 1867. There are 68 in British Columbia.

The federal centennial commission and the health and welfare department are co-operating to honor these early residents. Each will receive a framed certificate bearing name and birthdate and signed by Governor-General Georges Vanier and Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh.

The certificates will be ready next week for presentation to those who already are 100. Others will receive their certificates from their member of Parliament during their birth month—or at another appropriate occasion.

The program presents some problems. Because of the extreme age of the persons to be honored, discretion will be used in making their names public so they won't be subjected to undue commercial exploitation, say the organizers.

Because of difficulty encountered in some cases in verifying birth dates, no effort will be made to name Canada's oldest citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. H. Mitchell, 4309 Houlihan Place, announce the marriage of their elder daughter, Leslie Anne (Lee), to Dr. Gerhard A. Helmel, younger son of Dr. A. Helmel and Dr. E. Helmel, of Hamburg, Germany. The bride-elect is a 1966 graduate of the Vancouver General Hospital school of nursing. Her fiance received his bachelor of science (medical) and doctor of medicine degrees from the University of Toronto. The wedding took place in the Church of St. George the Martyr, on Tuesday, with Dr. N. S. Noel officiating. (Miss Mitchell's photo by Atlas Studios, Vancouver.)

REPLACING MINK IN PARIS

Brer Rabbit-Fashion's Darling

PARIS (Reuters) — Frenchwomen may still dream of mink, but a 25-per-cent sales tax on furs is forcing them to adopt the rabbit habit.

Rabbit, once primarily used for felts and fabrics, has recently achieved real fashion status. It now turns up on some of the best-dressed women along with other inexpensive pelts such as cat, pony, guinea, squirrel and lamb.

Rabbit-skin coats, in the natural state or treated to imitate more costly furs, can be bought starting at about 1,000 francs (about $200) at leading Paris department stores featuring specialized teen-age and budget fur departments.

Price is certainly not a factor in Brigitte Bardot's wardrobe. But when the actress made her first trip to the United States in 1965, she left her two mink coats at home in Paris and travelled with three new rabbit-skin coats dyed bright colors to match various evening gowns.

France imports 90 per cent of all the furs sold in the country with the exception of rabbit, which is raised domestically.

Fox, skunk and other long-haired furs which dropped out of fashion in the 1940s have staged a strong fashion comeback.

Inexpensive furs have even broken into the rarified realm of high fashion. They are used lavishly for trimmings as well as for high-styled garments which are as much as part of the fashion look as the short hemline.

The revival of fox stresses the trend toward Russian-inspired fashions, such as Christian Dior's coats liberally hemmed with fur, inspired by the costumes in the film Doctor Zhivago.

NEW VENTURE

HAMILTON (CP) — The board of education is considering opening a low-priced restaurant for the produce of waitresses, cooks and bakers at its adult education centre, where a training program of six to 10 months is being planned. Restaurant schools in several European cities and one at Omaha, Neb., serve food to the public.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

DEAR EMILY WILKINS:

When I finish a day on my feet I can't enjoy the evening. Can you suggest something to revive me quickly?

Pat. S.

To feel instantly new, run cold water over your feet and ankles — a truly amazing pickup.

I use colorless polish, but my nails always seem to look grimy underneath. Is it safe to use a file to clean under them?

Monica C.

Definitely not. The best way to keep under-nails clean is to wash an undie or two in mild soap suds. A bonus beauty tip.

I love to cook, but my hands seem to absorb the ingredients I work with.

Mrs. Margaret P.

My elbows always look greyish, even after creaming them. Is there anything I can do?

Susan H.

Keep a cut ½ lemon (after squeezing) to twirl on your elbows. Keeps away the grimy look.

My lipstick always seems to change color almost as soon as I apply it.

Dina H.

I have tried everything, but still unconsciously fuss with my nails, so that they never have a chance to grow.

Missy B.

To break an unhappy nail-picking habit keep one finger as the victim. You may torture it to your heart's content; when all other nails have grown out and look beautiful, I am certain you will release that one, too.

Somehow my eyebrows never behave — they look unruly, even after I brush them into place.

Laney T.

When I remove my false lashes, I always seem to lose a few of my own.

Clare L.

If you use false lashes, don't let the glue come in contact with the roots of your own lashes. Carefully place the false lash slightly above your own.

Have you any suggestions on how to make toenails look more attractive? I don't like to use the same bright polish I use on my fingernails, and they look anemic without polish.

Caroline T.

One or two coats of platinum pearlized polish on your toenails makes them blend attractively with any color nail polish you might be using on your hands, giving your feet a very feminine look, to boot.

FIGHTS THE FREEZE

LONDON (UPI)—Royal couturier Norman Hartnell put on a spring fashion show of glittering and glamorous gowns today that showed he still is making costly clothes for his rich and titled clients, even if Britain is in the middle of an economic freeze.

Hartnell, 65, dressmaker to Queen Elizabeth II, rubbed in the point with an evening gown entitled "anti-freeze". It gleamed silver from its simple round neck straight down to its ankle-length hem with a million diamante beads, sewn on in diamond shapes.

Topping it off was an "outer space" silver wig of shiny metallic coils concocted by Alexandre of Paris, the hairdresser of international royalty and movie stars who recently opened a salon in Hartnell's fashion house and invented exotic hairpieces for his new spring collection.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Jim says: "You played with Benito Garrozzo and Omar Sharif in New York last month. What did you think of their game?"

Oswald: "Garrozzo is just as good as you would expect a world's champion to be. He is also about as nice as any bridge player I have ever met. Sharif plays very well but is not as good as Garrozzo. He is just as nice to play with."

Jim: "Today's hand is one you played as Garrozzo's partner in a short team match at Tobias Stone's apartment. He was North, wasn't he?"

Oswald: "Yes. The bidding shows his style. In spite of the fact that West opened and rebid Garrozzo though we might have a slam. Instead of jumping right to four spades he gave me two slam invitations by bidding both of West's suits."

Jim: "All you could do was keep rebidding your hopeless spade suit. Was he afraid that you might get discouraged and pass?"

Oswald: "No. He did put a lot of pressure on me but I am too old to start passing my partner's forcing bids."

Jim: "I see that four spades made easily. What happened at the other table?"

Oswald: "Leon Yallouze, who is in America with Benito and Omar, held the West hand and opened one heart. The American expert sitting North doubled and Omar Sharif with the courage of Genghis Khan (another of his starring vehicles) stuck in a three-heart bid. South and West passed and North merely bid three spades."

Jim: "I guess South did some soul searching and passed."

Rocket Bus Performs 8 Satellite Launch

U.S. Expands Space Radio Link

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The air force doubled the defence department's globe girdling satellite communications network today by stringing eight radio relay stations around the world with one rocket.

The new satellites joined seven others orbited last June to plug the gaps in the worldwide system and give the Pentagon a reliable, full-time radio link with U.S. forces in Vietnam and elsewhere.

A triple-barreled Titan 3C "rocket bus" performed the eight-in-one launch with apparent perfection. It zoomed into one orbit, switched to another and finally soared into a near-circular path about 21,000 miles above the equator six hours after launch.

The Titan's versatile third stage then dropped off each of its 100-pound passengers, one-by-one, into slightly different paths. Early reports indicated that all eight satellites were working perfectly.

From their slow-moving perch, the spacecraft are able to receive messages from one ground station, amplify them and then beam them to another up to 10,000 miles away.

'WHEN ACTION IS'

The U.S. now has eight ground terminals for the satellite network — including two in Vietnam — and more will be added this year. "We have stations where the action is," said Col. Mitchel Goldenthal, commander of the army's satellite communications agency.

Today's launch was the seventh for the Martin-built Titan 3C and it was its fourth full success. Its last success was logged in November when another Titan fired an unmanned Gemini capsule toward a recovery fleet and then went on to orbit four satellites.

The 2.5 million pound thrust booster is scheduled to start lofting the air force's manned orbiting laboratory in 1969 from Vandenberg Air Base, Calif.

FINAL ★★★★ BULLETINS

B.C. Bugging Probe Resumed

VANCOUVER (CP)—A provincial royal commission into electronic eavesdropping opened here today and Commissioner R. A. Sargent's first decision was to rule that the inquiry not be adjourned immediately.

The new inquiry actually is a resumption of one that opened in November, adjourned for Christmas in mid-December, and then was ruled invalid on technical grounds by the B.C. Supreme Court.

Basketball Great Goose Tatum Dies

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Reece (Goose) Tatum, 45, who became world famous as a court jester for the Harlem Globetrotters Negro basketball team, died at an El Paso hospital today after an apparent heart seizure at his home.

Vancouver Seeks Puck Tournament

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Tom Campbell said today he will ask city council to approve a Vancouver bid for the 1969 world hockey championships.

Quebec Insurance Firm In Trouble

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp confirmed in the Commons today that the Depositors Insurance Corp., a Quebec firm, has run into financial difficulties.

He was replying to Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops) who asked about a report in Montreal La Presse that the corporation is in difficulty over liabilities exceeding $25,000,000.

Helicopter Men Killed In Crash

IDYLLWILD, Calif. (AP) — Two men attending the 1967 convention of the Helicopter Association of America were killed today when a French-made helicopter crashed on a mountainside.

The bodies of Curtis H. Bullock, 33, Calgary, and David Dreyfus, 26, Placerville, Calif., were recovered by firemen who controlled a half-acre blaze ignited by the crash.

Lions Sign New Assistant Coach

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Tony Knap, who has headed the Utah State University football team for the past four seasons, has resigned to join the coaching staff of the British Columbia Lions, it was announced today.

B.C. head coach Dave Skrien said Knap, 52, will join holdover assistant Bill Hildebrand.

RONNING BELIEVES:

Viet Policy Now Outdated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chester Ronning, who made two Canada peace-feeler missions to Hanoi, said Tuesday he believes United States policy in Vietnam is based on an outdated political theory.

Mr. Ronning, 71, said in an interview United States attitudes are based on the "fallacious belief in some quarters that communism is a united force bent on world conquest."

He said the Communist world is splitting along national lines.

"Communist bonds of ideology no longer hold them together," said Mr. Ronning, a China-born expert on the Far East. He taught school in China prior to the revolution that turned the country Communist.

He said China and the U.S. see the war in Vietnam in totally different terms and since there are no negotiations in progress, there is no opportunity for one world giant to find common ground with the other.

He said Chinese intervention in the war was unlikely immediately because neither the U.S. or China wishes a confrontation.

CHINA SEES CIVIL WAR

Mr. Ronning said China regards the conflct as a civil war in which the United States is directly and illegally interfering for its own purposes.

In the U.S., the war is seen as a defence of the democracy of South Vietnam which is being subversively and violently infiltrated by Communists, he said.

Mr. Ronning said he thinks Canada should have recognized Red China in 1949 "when we were invited to." He said he "isn't certain if China would accept Canadian recognition now—at least for a while."

He said recognition and its acceptance would "start a trend to easing tensions in Asia and help to prevent a confrontation by beginning a trend toward peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war."

ICC Has Role 'When Time Is Ripe'

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Miister Martin said Tuesday night he is convinced that "when the time is right" the International Control Commission, of which Canada is a member, will play a key role in bringing peace to Vietnam.

Mr. Martin said in an interview at Vancouver International Airport he is optimistic about the chances for peace in the war-torn nation.

"I continue to be optimistic regarding how long the Vietnam war is going to last," Mr. Martin said. "We are lending every effort towards that end and while being fully conscious of the fact that it takes two sides to end a dispute."

Questioned by reporters, Mr. Martin denied that the U.S. and North Vietnam disregard the ICC.

"It is not correct to say Hanoi and the U.S. pay no attention to the commission," Mr. Martin said. "Both countries pay great attention to it."

Teachers Begin Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — Talks aimed at ending the strike of 9,000 Roman Catholic teachers start today under a government appointed mediator but there's little prospect that 217,000 students will go back to school soon.

POSTERS PRAISE LIU, DENOUNCE MAO'S MEN

TOKYO (AP) — Wall posters appeared in Peking today praising President Liu Shao-chi and denouncing his opponents in Mao Tse-tung's faction, a Japanese report said.

This development came as signs multiplied that the feuding Chinese Communist leaders appeared deadlocked in their power struggle with each unwilling to compromise or to force a showdown.

BROWN HINTS

Peace Talks 'In Offing'

He told Parliament this is just "a personal feeling". But he said it is based on information reaching him from many different sources.

"While I cannot quote chapter and verse for this," Brown said, "I have a feeling that there is at least a possibility of change in this problem. This feeling results from all that reaches me from many different sources."

Brown did not embroider on this remark. He made it at the end of a House of Commons statement in which he reviewed his own and other attempts to bring the Vietnam war to the conference table.

He recalled that both the United States and South Vietnam swiftly accepted his recent proposal that ceasefire talks should be held at Hong Kong or any other convenient point in British territory. He said the British Labor government is all the more disappointed that Hanoi rejected the proposal out of hand.

"We believe that all immediate efforts should be concentrated on stopping the war," Brown said.

Brown reiterated that the Hanoi government could bring the war to an end "today" by announcing its readiness to go to the conference table.

SUPPORTS THANT

Answering questions by left wing laborite Michael Foot, Brown said the British government supports the peace proposals of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant and believes they provide the basis on which hostilities could be stopped.

But he sidestepped a question whether representations had been made to Washington to halt bombing of North Vietnam.

Brown added that the U.S. has repeatedly made it clear that it is prepared to stop bombing the moment it receives some indication, privately or publicly, that this would be followed by some response from the other side.

SUKARNO'S OUSTER DEMANDED

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian students today demanded that Congress meet "as soon as possible" to oust President Sukarno from office. An army leader said the army was ready to "take up arms and fight" for Sukarno's ouster.

The university and high school students marched into the office of strongman Gen. Suharto with their demand as high ranking government legal sources said they want Sukarno out of office so they can try him for treason.

Marchand Quebec Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today named Manpower Minister Jean Marchand the Liberal party's Quebec leader to replace Privy Council President Guy Favreau, who resigned because of ill health.

The move followed the decision by the party's Quebec MPs earlier today to confirm Mr. Marchand in the post which he has held on an interim basis during Mr. Favreau's lengthy illness.

The announcement was made in a two - sentence statement after a party caucus meeting.

The prime minister's statement said the appointment was made in response to a recommendation of the Quebec caucus. Most of them firmly support the idea of one of their number being designated as Quebec leader.

KEEPS MUM

Collared by reporters after the announcement, the 48-year-old Mr. Marchand shied away from a precise definition of his role and even declined to pass judgment on whether his precise title would be "Quebec leader."

The prime minister's statement referred to him as "leader of the Quebec caucus." But there seemed no doubt that he had assumed the mantle of Mr. Favreau, 49.

Mr. Marchand said that "from the logical point of view, this job shouldn't exist." However, Quebec did have problems different from those of other provinces, none of which have similar leaders, and the prime minister must be advised of them.

Mr. Marchand added that it is necessary to maintain the old structure as long as Quebec does have this special position.

Reply Framed To U.S. Note On Bank Curb

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A carefully prepared reply by the government to the strong representations made by U.S. government over proposed amendments to the Bank Act will go to Washington within 10 days, it was learned here today.

The American government forwarded its sharp diplomatic note of protest to Ottawa early in November. This was the second note of protest from the U.S. The first representations in written form were made to Canada last summer.

The U.S. government is disturbed by the proposal to curtail the expansion of the Mercantile Bank — a subsidiary of the First National City Bank of New York. Limitations are imposed on the growth of the Mercantile Bank in Canada under proposed amendments to the Bank Act.

The American government has lodged its protest against the Canadian government taking such action and is also disturbed by the retroactive aspect of the proposed legislation. The contents of the American notes of protest have not been made public.

ARRIVES IN CANBERRA

Tight Security For Ky Visit

CANBERRA (CP) — With mini - skirted demonstrators chanting "one - two - three, go home, Ky," South Vietnam's premier arrived in Australia's capital today and faced a press conference of tough and at times hostile questioners.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and his wife arrived in Canberra for a nine-day visit to Australia and New Zealand during which members of the opposition Labor party have pledged to stage demonstrations against the war and his visit.

—Insisted that his visit was not to bolster his regime but to thank the people of Australa for their sacrifices in behalf of his country.

—Denied that Adolf Hitler was his hero, that he had never fought for the Vichy regime in France—"I was only 12 years old"—or that he had ever taken part in the Algerian war for France.

WILL VISIT U.S.

—Reaffirmed his intention to visit the United States after the Constituent Assembly finishes writing a constitution for South Vietnam.

—Said he has no objection to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front participating in negotiations to end the Vietnamese war "so long as they are part of the Hanoi delegation."

About 700 trade unionists and students turned out to protest Ky's visit with placards denouncing him as a fascist, a killer and "baby burner."

Along with the demonstrators, a few thousand curious turned up along the motorcade route.

"It is good to see you again," Prime Minister Harold Holt

Canada Will Not Accept 'No'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is refusing to accept a no from Poland and is continuing diplomatic pressure to try to persuade the Poles to agree to some kind of peace role for the Canada - India - Poland international truce supervisory commission in Vietnam.

An informed source disclosed Tuesday that Canadian representatives had a long talk with Polish officials Monday at a place the source declined to reveal, but which presumably was the United Nations in New York.

This talk occurred only four days after Poland refused to join in Vietnam discussions with Canada and India in New Delhi. The refusal was described by External Affairs Minister Martin as a setback.

Mr. Martin was told by the Poles during his visit to Warsaw last month that Poland didn't rule out a peacemaking role for the commission. But it wouldn't agree to any such role until America stopped bombing North Vietnam.

Campbell River Ready to Fight Appeal by Mine

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The lawyer for Campbell River District Water Board today said he was satisfied he could prove the Pollution Control Board was wrong in fact as well as in law for issuing permits to Western Mines Ltd. to dump tailings and sewage effluent into Buttle Lake.

Anthony Sarich, of Campbell River, told the Times he successfully appealed to quash the permits on a legal technicality only because the board had refused him the right to argue the merits of the case.

NO APPEAL YET

So far neither Western Mines, the Attorney-General's Department nor the Pollution Control Board have filed an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from the B.C Appeal Court decision which threw out the permits Monday.

They have two months in which to initiate such an appeal under the federal court's rules, and another month to apply for a late appeal application.

Mr. Sarich said the Campbell River Water Board undoubtedly would contest an appeal in the Supreme Court because an important principle was at stake. Most of the cost, in any event, would be borne by the appellants.

FURTHER FIGHT

But even if there is no appeal and the government obtains legislative approval to meet the B.C. tribunal's objection that the Pollution Control Board could not legally refuse to allow the water board a hearing, Mr. Sarich said. there will be a further fight.

"We are prepared to fight against such permits on their merits," he said.

"We would be prepared to take our report (by the B.C. Research Council) and back it up with technical witnesses at a hearing before the Pollution Control Board if we were given the chance.

"That's what we intended to do before and the only reason we went to court on a point of law was that we were prevented from doing this by the (pollution control) board itself.

UNKNOWN FACTOR

"It is still our intention to prove the merits of our objection. In an oversimplified form, it is that not enough is known about the possible effects of this dumping into our water system

Passports Revoked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. state department has revoked the passports of three of four women who visited North Vietnam recently without the department's permission.

A department spokesman said Tuesday night notifications of revocation had been sent Jan. 13 to Patricia Griffith, Ithaca, N.Y.; Grace Newman of New York City; and Miss Barbara Deming of Cape Cod, Mass. No action has been taken against the fourth woman, Diane Bevel of Chicago, the spokesman said, because "we are not aware of her return to the United States."

The spokesman said the department "pretty automatically" revokes U.S. passports used for travel to countries for which the passports have not been validated.

EVOLUTION FROM APES RULED OUT BY OLD BONES

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) —"The accepted view on evolution of man from the ape is absolutely incorrect and without any scientific basis," anthropologist Louis Leakey said Tuesday night at Israel Academy of Science and Humanities.

Giving new details in a lecture of his recent discoveries in Kenya which he said throw light on the origin of mankind, Dr. Leakey stated that while the chimpanzee is man's cousin in blood groups and other factors, the human race did not descend from the ape in a way accepted in the past.

Leakey told a press conference in Nairobi last week that the remains unearthed at Rusinga Island in Lake Victoria date back 20,000,000 years or more. He said he sees in them bone fragments of proto-man, "by far and away the oldest known representatives of the stock which eventually gave rise to man."

Thus Leakey disputed an accepted scientific view that man developed from the baboon from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 years ago.

"There was no sudden rush of evolution from the ape to man in a mere 5,000,000 years," he said. "Remains were found proving that apes, 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 years ago, were developing in the direction in which apes are still today. But at that time, proto-man, our ancestor, already existed."

Because the proto-man was found in Kenya, Leakey gave him the name Kenya-Pithecus Africanus.

Leakey showed to the audience photographs of antelope bones which he said were cracked 20,000,000 years ago in a way that proved near-man hunted and ate meat.

First proto-type emigrated slowly from East Africa to India and China where early specimens of the same proto-man, only now recognized as such, were found, he said.

Leakey said the important conclusion to be drawn from this discovery was that the dawn in the life of the human species was in the heart of Africa whence a steady flow of emigration took place through the Middle East to the Far East and, much later, to Europe.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds provided most of the moderate trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Prices were firm in evidence of export trade.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Vancouver Trading Heavy

Trading was heavy on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today with more than 900,000 shares changing hands by noon.

Industrials were generally strong with Cominco and MacMillan Bloedel up .50 and Steel of Canada $3.50 better at $22.50.

The mining section saw Bata trade 234,000 shares for a gain of .04 to .49.

Highmont was .08 better at $1.86 but Madrona dropped .07 to .95 and Dynasty dipped .15 to $8.10.

Bank stocks which led a rise on the Toronto market Tuesday were off today on news that the United States is planning restrictive legislation for foreign banks operating in that country.

AT TORONTO Bank of Nova Scotia lost 2½ to 67½. Toronto-Dominion and Imperial-Commerce 1¾ each, to 63. Bank of Montreal, whose proposal for a stock split first sent bank stocks soaring, lost ⅝ to 59½.

Western oils were slightly stronger. Dome Petroleum and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas each gained ⅛, to 42⅞ and 28¼ respectively. Scurry-Rainbow added ¾ to 21¾. Central Del-Rio lost ½ to 14¾.

Among base metals Denison rose ¼ to 58 and Noranda ¾ to 54½. Inco lost ⅞ to 93½ and Campbell Chibougamau added 25 cents to 7.45 with news that it plans to develop an ore body in Roy Township, Que.

AT NEW YORK Studebaker, up about 1½, looked like the most active issue. Motorola rose about four, IBM and Ferox about two each.

Polaroid lost about three points, Boeing was off a fraction despite an order for $32,000,000 worth of jets.

AT MONTREAL banking issues hit a decline but most other sections moved fractionally higher.

Canadian Pacific added 1¼ points, while other Canadians were about a point better. International Nickel remained unchanged.

Canadian banks drew strength from improvement in transatlantic markets Tuesday. Canadian Imperial Bank added 1⅞ points, Montreal 1¾, and Royal Bank of Canada 1½, Toronto Dominion and Nova Scotia were each a point higher.

Credit Unions Considering Own Bank

OTTAWA (CP) — The credit unions asked a Commons committee Tuesday to consider leaving the way open for them to form a co-operatively owned chartered bank in line with credit union principles.

Such a bank might be formed in future, credit union witnesses said, although they have no immediate plans.

It might be owned by credit unions or by the central organizations of credit unions in several provinces.

Its directors would be elected by the credit unions owning it and, instead of shareholders having one vote for each common share held, its owners would have power based on the credit union principle of the member, one vote.

And instead of distributing its profits as dividends to shareholders on the basis of their shareholdings, its profits would go out as patronage refunds, distributed on the basis of the business done by or for each of its owners.

Hydro Agrees To Supply Mill Power

HAZELTON (CP) — B.C. Hydro has agreed to supply emergency power to Hazelton Sawmill Ltd. where 225 men have been out of work since Dec. 31 when the company's own diesel generator burned out.

Dudley Little, Social Credit MLA for Skeena, said he learned of hydro's plans to supply a mobile power unit to the mill in a conversation with Forest Minister Williston.

Mr. Little said the spare power unit coupled with additional power available in the area would allow the mill to resume full production.

The mill is the largest employer in the Hazelton area and civic leaders had forecast an emergency situation in the community if the mill remained closed.

Insurance Leaders Meet Sharp

OTTAWA (CP) — Substantial reform in the laws and regulations applying to general insurance companies was discussed today by Finance Minister Sharp and 10 executives of major firms in the business.

A spokesman for the insurance men said they are "very largely in agreement" with Mr. Sharp on ways to improve the security of policy holders.

The meeting was called in the light of the failure of the North American General Insurance Co. But the group told Mr. Sharp the failure was "simply an incident."

The minister had previously described it as a case of securities theft.

Public confidence in general insurance companies was unshaken, the executives said. They told Mr. Sharp they had detected no effect on their business.

Both sides advanced proposals. The companies suggested higher capital requirements for new companies and federal scrutiny of management of these companies.
